

NATO Ministers Hear Argument for Revision of Treaty

Belgium Delegate Makes Plea
For Year's Study of Problems

PARIS (AP) — Belgium, with the support of Britain and Canada, launched a move today for a widespread review and possible revision of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization into a more cohesive Atlantic community.

Belgian Foreign Minister Pierre Harmel made his proposal at the annual meeting of the foreign, defense and finance ministers of NATO. Conference sources said British Foreign Secretary George Brown and Canadian Foreign Minister Paul Martin gave their enthusiastic endorsement.

Harmel urged the council to authorize NATO Secretary-General Manlio Brosio to undertake a wide study of the NATO organization in the next 12 months. He proposed that Brosio submit an interim report in the spring and a final report next December.

Amendment of Treaty
Such a review could, in the Belgian view, lead to eventual amendment of the NATO treaty to encourage greater political, economic and military consultation among European members prior to talks with the United States within the NATO structure.

This would in effect be a step toward the Atlantic partnership once advocated by the late President John F. Kennedy.

One source said Brosio would

Task Force Would Make Proposal on Money for Cities

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren Knowles is offering to name his own task force if necessary to study the tangle over shared taxes and find specific proposals to place before the 1967 Legislature.

Knowles, holding to the opinion that a thorough study must come before any change is attempted, made the offer Wednesday after a summit session with Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier.

The governor noted he had asked the Legislative Council last summer to start the study. He said he would name his own citizen study group upon request if the council again took no action at its meeting next Monday.

New Suggestion

Maier, pressing for a program to provide more money for city governments, immediately, attached a new suggestion for state aid for urban renewal to his repeated urgings for revision of the shared taxes system.

Knowles dodged any commitments to Maier's proposals and said, "it's a matter of dollars. The state has only so much pie."

The governor said cities would have to compete with other state

Attorney General
Allegedly Ordered
Halt to 'Bugging'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department says Robert F. Kennedy, while attorney general in 1962, issued a private directive to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and other department officials that certain investigative means were not to be used.

A department spokesman, responding to inquiries, said Wednesday night the directive was written in very broad terms. He declined to discuss its specific contents.

Hoover contended in a letter made public by a congressman last weekend that as attorney general Kennedy authorized FBI wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping. Kennedy, now a Democratic senator from New York, said he didn't authorize the "bugging" and didn't know it was being done.

The Washington Post said today Kennedy's 1962 directive prohibited "improper, illegal and unethical" investigative practices. The Post said the only exception was wiretapping in cases involving national security, as had been allowed by previous attorney generals.

'Other Side' Must Agree To Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is seeking in Christmas truce proposals a new opening for talks with the Communists on ending the war in Vietnam.

Johnson made known through a White House comment Wednesday night that he was ready to discuss an extended cease-fire in Vietnam, including a freeze on troop reinforcements "if the other side is responsive."

When press secretary Bill D. Moyers was asked whether that meant the United States was ready to talk over with the other side in the war the specific issues of an extended cease-fire and a "stand still" by both sides he replied, "Yes."

Double Strategy

Behind this new White House move lies a double purpose strategy, reflecting some guarded speculation among top officials here in recent weeks that holiday truce maneuvers might possibly open up some interesting possibilities for peace talks of much broader significance.

One major purpose behind the President's willingness to have discussions on the basis of conditions of a cease-fire, therefore, is to find out if the Communists find it expedient to exchange views directly on an issue, whether it would be willing to go beyond the immediate issues into consideration of peace-making.

The second apparent purpose of the President's strategy is to make certain that the United States does not show signs of lagging in developing peace possibilities, however slender, and that if current efforts to prolong the cease-fire fails, the Communists will have to take the blame before the world.

Opposes Extension
Opposition to an extended cease-fire was expressed Wednesday by Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., who recently returned from an inspection trip to South Vietnam. He said Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Vietnam, and South Vietnamese officials also oppose lengthening the holiday cease-fires.

"The enemy has the most to gain from any short or long truce," Young said in an interview. He said, "the toughest fighting yet" of the war in Vietnam will start soon in the rich Mekong Delta area.

Wednesday night's White House statement was prompted by a proposal by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield that the presently planned brief holiday truces be extended to a single cease-fire lasting just short of two months.

The Communists and the United States and its allies already have set one 48-hour truce for the period of Dec. 24-26 and another 48-hour truce for Dec. 31-Jan. 2. The allies also have proposed, but the Communists have not yet accepted, a 96-hour suspension of combat for the Vietnamese new year, Tet, Feb. 8-12.

Three U. S. Craft Downed

Planes Again Hit Near Hanoi

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. warplanes straddled Hanoi with bombs for the second straight day Wednesday, the U.S. Command announced, but intense ground fire and a missile-firing MIG shot three of the American raiders out of the skies.

A State Department spokesman in Washington said the department had no evidence to confirm Communist reports that the American planes bombed nonmilitary targets and inflicted civilian casualties in Hanoi itself.

'Not American Policy'
The North Vietnamese government claimed that more than 100 people have been killed or wounded in bombings by U.S. planes of Hanoi and its suburbs in the past 10 days and that many houses were destroyed.

Answering questions about the raids around Hanoi, State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey told newsmen in Washington Wednesday that "so far as I am aware, we have no photo reconnaissance yet" that would indicate any workers' housing was hit in the attacks.

"It is not American policy to bomb other than the targets which we have talked about here in the past and at the Defense Department and at the White House and in Saigon; and they are military or military associated targets," McCloskey said when asked if there had been any change in U.S. policy.

Air Force and Navy fighter-bombers returned to the same two targets they hit Tuesday to rain more explosives on a sprawling truck depot five miles south of Hanoi and a major railroad marshalling yard six miles northeast of the Communist capital. Pilots claimed heavy damage to both installations.

Navy planes also attacked seven surface-to-air missile sites in the Hanoi area and reported destroying a radar van at one six miles southwest of the city. Navy pilots also reported silencing two anti-aircraft gun sites 14 miles from Hanoi.

He quoted the two survivors as saying the aircraft was the last in a four-plane formation which flew past the bus at a "very low altitude."

He declined to say into details.

'Wounds Reopened'
Kilduff added that in the emotional intensity of the moment "some of the old 1960 wounds were reopened, rehashed, thought about." This apparently referred to the bitter struggle between Kennedy and Johnson for the Democratic nomination for president that Kennedy won.

Fears Book Would Harm Herself, Children

Mrs. Kennedy Feels 'Only Redress' Is Lawsuit

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy says she is prepared to relive her grief and shock after the assassination of her husband in order to legally block publication of a book about the tragedy.

The outlook for her is horrible, she said. The book, which the Kennedy family had authorized, is "Death of a President," by William Manchester. It describes the assassination of President Kennedy in Dallas, Nov. 22, 1963, and the events in the days immediately afterward.

Mrs. Kennedy calls it "tasteless and distorted."

'Only Redress'

"As horrible as a trial will be she says, "it now seems clear that my only redress is to ask the courts to enforce my rights."

Her attorneys said they are preparing papers seeking a temporary injunction to stop the book's publication and would file them in two or three days. Summonses already have been served on Harper & Row, book publishers, and Cowles Communications, Inc., publishers of Look magazine.

The magazine, which reportedly paid Manchester $650,000 for the serial rights to his book, scheduled publication of the first article for Jan. 10. Harper & Row plans to bring out the book next April.

The impending lawsuit, and a mention of "inaccurate and unfair references to other individuals" in a statement by

Mrs. Kennedy about Manchester's book, may throw some light on long-standing reports of friction between the Kennedys and President Johnson.

Convention Center Asked In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The mayor's office of economic development proposed Wednesday court to try to solve the problem of Kidd's will and who is qualified to investigate the soul of that a $30 million convention center be built in the downtown area.

Under the proposal, made to the Auditorium - Arena Board, the 61-year old Auditorium would be torn down and replaced with a $15 million convention hall four stories high. The adjoining Arena would be improved at a cost of $2,300,000. The proposal also called for construction of a six-story parking structure across State Street from the Convention Hall, and an information center housing tourist services and offices in the block south of the hall.

The plan proposed connecting the buildings of the convention center with a proposed convention hotel by means of overpasses or tunnels. The hotel has been proposed by designer Brooks Stevens for the block south of the Arena.

Heirs Sought Out

Miner Wanted to Find Proof of Soul's Reality

By BRENT KEETCH
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — James Kidd was a lonely man. He lived on the border of deprivation.

He spent most of his life in Arizona, working in the rugged copper mining town of Miami. He didn't drink. He was a bachelor who didn't have many friends.

And Kidd was troubled by one of the most deeply rooted metaphysical problems facing man.

On the second day of the new year in 1946, he sat down and wrote out his will. Four years later he disappeared and has never been seen again.

His will is like a universal plea for assurance. He wanted his estate to go for "research or some scientific proof of a soul of a human body which leaves at death."

The frugal mine laborer left a legacy of more than $100,000. In the 16 years since his disappearance, the value of his shrewd investments has nearly doubled.

Kidd has been declared legally dead. An 18-day hearing on his will is scheduled for March 6 before Superior Court Judge Robert L. Myers in Phoenix.

Although Kidd said in his will he left no heirs, a number of persons have claimed the legacy as his relatives. Arizona courts, however, have maintained that the will constitutes a legitimate charitable trust.

So far eight religious or educational organizations have filed as claimants.

"It will be up to the claimants to convince the court that they qualify," Judge Myers said. "I can't tell you what I shall rule — even what I shall accept as a definition of the word 'soul' — until after the hearing."

"If no one qualifies under the stipulations of the will, the estate will go to his heirs if there are any. The State of Arizona will receive the legacy if no heirs turn up."

Mediums Included
Judge Myers set aside the 18 days on his calendar for the hearing after learning from claimants' lawyers the time needed for their presentations. He didn't discount table rapping or other performances by mediums.

One of the most persistent contenders for the money is the Phoenix University of Life Church, Inc., which said it conducts seances and communications "beyond the grave," according to the brief filed by its counsel.

Since the March hearing was announced by Judge Myers, his office has been flooded with letters, phone calls and telegrams from prospective claimants.

Perception Machine
"I believe I am the only logical existing person to fulfill the requirements asked for by Mr. Kidd," wrote one man from Detroit, Mich. "I only need about $36,000 to $50,000 of the money to develop an extra sensory (sic) perception machine through which Mr. Kidd's soul may send a message to earth."

"I have been testing and refining my formula of axiomatic acid-proof revelation against all comers for the last 25 years," a Long Beach, Calif., woman wrote Judge Myers. "But whether I am interested in Mr. Kidd's prize will depend largely upon the rules of judging."

A man from Cherryvale, Kan., wrote: "Before you give the James Kidd estate to anyone, I would like to show you a human soul."

One of the most disarming requests came from a Napa, Calif., woman who wanted the money simply because she was broke.

Mysterious Figure
Very little is known about the man who left the eccentric will. The Arizona Tax Commission reported he was born in Ogdensburg, N.Y., and later worked for the copper company in a small Arizona mining town.

A stock broker who knew Kidd in the late 1920's described him in a court deposition as a "very exclusive, lonely sort of man who didn't drink or have

Moyers Always Served LBJ With Passion

Stirs Wonder About
Johnson Candidacy

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Bill D. Moyers got $30,000 a year as President Johnson's press secretary and after his brother committed suicide last September friends began telling him he ought to look out for himself.

Moyers is 32 and his brother, James H. Moyers, a widely liked but much more inconspicuous man, was also a very hardworking Johnson aide. He was 39 when he died.

Bill Moyers, with chronic ulcers and bright blue eyes, has been in a kind of Johnson alter ego. He labored endless hours. He got involved in all kinds of White House business, foreign and domestic.

He could speak with great confidence about what the President had on his mind which, in this case, took some confidence.

Total Dedication

He was always on hand and totally dedicated. And he was always so cool, so composed, that after watching him for months you'd ask yourself: "Does anything bother him? Does anything get under his skin?"

But he has a wife and three children and almost from the time he became Johnson's press secretary in July 1965 — he had been with Johnson almost continuously since 1959 — there were rumors this was just a stepping stone.

No one ever seemed to know for sure where he wanted to go but only that he was ambitious. There were rumors, confirmed, that he'd like to be an ambassador, that he'd like to go into politics.

Fixed Salary

In either direction Johnson — so long as he was in the White House — could have been a big help. But the months passed, Moyers stayed, so did the ulcers, so did the fixed salary of $30,000, and there was the brother dead at 39, and, as it turned out, he was seriously thinking of doing better for himself, at least financially.

Wednesday came the news: He was leaving Johnson and the White House to become publisher of Long Island's Newsday, the country's largest suburban daily, with a circulation of 415,000.

Although the salary wasn't disclosed, it can be assumed Moyers will get a lot more than $30,000.

Guessing Game

The news of Moyers' new job was hardly off the wires before the Washington guessing game began:

Was money the real reason for his going into publishing or did he have inside information that Johnson would not seek a second term and that now was the best time to make the best kind of deal he could for himself?

That same question about Johnson and the second term was being asked before Moyers' resignation was announced and will continue to be asked until there is some change in Johnson's political attitude which for months now has seemed almost indifferent.

Gregory Says Trip Canceled Due to U. S. Condition

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — Dick Gregory says he is going to cancel his Christmas trip to entertain U.S. prisoners in North Vietnam because the State Department wanted him to report on what he saw.

The Negro comic told an audience of 1,200 at the University of Connecticut Tuesday night that the State Department would not have objected to his trip had he brought back useful information.

The United States forbids travel to North Vietnam by American citizens. Gregory had made no request for approval of his trip.

Gregory said he had intended to take his family along to demonstrate his good faith to the North Vietnamese. Gathering information was not one of his objectives, he said.

Gregory said he hoped to arrange with North Vietnamese Premier Ho Chi Minh for a visit at a later date — "to see what the State Department does not want me to see."

Catholics Outline Feelings On Church Education

Questionnaires Circulated to Parents in Eight Parishes

Catholics of the eight parishes in Appleton this week have an opportunity to express their views on the state of Catholic education and their hopes for its future.

Several thousand education study questionnaires were passed out in churches Sunday, which will be filled out and returned this Sunday.

They were prepared and distributed by the Catholic Education Study Committee of Appleton, which recently sponsored a series of panel discussions on Catholic education problems. The panel presented its material in the parishes of the city during the past three months.

Panelists Participating

Panelists included Dr. Francis L. Broderick, dean of Lawrence University-Milwaukee; Downer College; the Rev. Patrick Smith, assistant pastor, St. Bernadette; Francis Scholtz, a member of the Xavier High faculty; and Sister St. Mel, Manitowish, dean of Holy Family College.

The panelists presented a number of alternative solutions for Catholic education problems. Catholics now are being asked in the follow-up questionnaire which of the alternative plans they prefer.

Dean Broderick proposed an educational system in which both adults and children could get religion instruction. Father Smith's suggestion that Catholic schools continue to operate under the present plan, with restricted enrollment which would produce a selective educational program.

Parish Lay Board members in the present system of operation, along with a diocesan school board, would improve the operation, Sister St. Mel felt, adding

Xavier Guidance Director Calls ACT Unconstitutional

Challenges Use for Entrance in State Run Institutions

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A guidance director at an Appleton Catholic high school has challenged the validity of the American College Test required of all applicants for admission to state institutions of higher learning.

The protest was filed with the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education by Giles Clark of the staff of Xavier High School in Appleton, who said he had also sent his objections to Atty. Gen. Bronson C. LaFollette.

Angus Rothwell, director of the CCHE, noted his view that such matters are administrative judgments of the University of Wisconsin and the institutions of the state university system and therefore are not within the policy responsibilities of the Committee. Without objection, Rothwell referred the Clark letter to the institution presidents.

Clark said he is not challenging the integrity or the usefulness of the test, but its constitutionality as a condition for admission to a tax-supported school.

Wounds Apparently Self Inflicted After Donald Brunette Shoots at Wife, Daughter

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — A former Green Bay man apparently shot and killed himself early Wednesday night, minutes after he took several shots at his recently divorced wife and daughter.

Green Bay police today said Donald J. Brunette, 40, was found dead of apparent self-inflicted head wounds in the home of his former wife.

Authorities said Brunette had forced his way into his ex-wife's home, fired a .22-caliber pistol at her at least twice.

Mrs. Brunette, divorced from her husband a few weeks ago, told police she and her 12-year-old daughter ran from the house to a neighbor's home, where the police were called.

Found Dead

Five Green Bay policemen arrived at the home and found Brunette sitting on a davenport holding the gun. He was dead, they said.

Brunette, who was found insane after he attempted to kill his three daughters with a hatchet in November, 1961, was released from Central State Hospital in Waupun about a year ago.

Brunette's hand was badly cut, apparently from breaking the glass of a back door where he entered the house.

Blood Trail

Blood was found in all of the rooms and on the steps leading to the basement of the house, police said.

Blood was also found on the front porch and sidewalk leading from the house, apparently from the victim's cut hand.

Six empty shell casings were found in the house along with bullet holes in the plastic casing of an archway between the kitchen and the living room, in the hardwood flooring near the rear entrance and the kitchen door.

Mrs. Brunette said she had been helping a daughter with her homework when she heard a noise at the back door. She investigated and found her ex-husband at the door. She ran from the house with her daughter after Brunette fired a couple of shots, police said.

Found Insane

Brunette, who was working as a stonecutter in the Waukesha County community, nearly four years ago was found innocent by reason of insanity on three counts of causing injury regardless of human life and aggravated battery against his daughters, Nancy, then 16; Caroline, then 15, and Sandra, then 8.

Court testimony at that time revealed that Brunette had used the blunt end of a hatchet to strike his three daughters. The girls were hospitalized with head injuries.

Following the attack, Brunette used a fishing knife to stab himself in the chest and slash his wrists.

His wife, Lelia, also was injured slightly when she struggled with him briefly before he gave her the hatchet.

Grand Chute Plans Group Organizes

Seek Master Plan to Guide Development of Complex On Appleton City Fringe

Top priority has been given to preparing and adopting a master plan for the Town of Grand Chute.

The action was taken earlier in the week at the first meeting of the town's newly-created planning commission.

During its organizational meeting, the commission elected Thomas Thorsen, town chairman, to head the group; Frank Charlesworth, vice chairman; and Harold W. Milles, secretary.

Other commission members include: K. W. DeWitt, Ira M. Livingston, W. C. Vandenberg and Clifford Wolslegel.

The commission said the master plan will guide the physical development of the town which represents a residential, agricultural and commercial complex.

Recommendations will be forthcoming covering location and character of streets and highways, sidewalks, bridges, parking areas, public and recreation places, parks, sites for public buildings, water and sewage facilities.

Arno Haering of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission met with town officials and outlined procedures for the new group to exercise state and county-granted regulatory powers.

Commission members said they hoped to have a new zoning ordinance to be presented for approval at the April, 1967, town meeting.

Regular meetings of the commission will be held the second Wednesday of the month at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall, the next slated for Jan. 11.

Shortage Forces Budget Cuts For 14 Agencies in Campaign

Special appeals, including the coupon which ran in The Post-Crescent last week, asking for missed contributions in the 1966 United Red Feather Campaign have brought in $725.

This amount, with late volunteer reports, brings today's total to $242,975 or 91.7 per cent of the $264,835 goal.

Art Malin, executive director, said a budget meeting is being planned within the next few days. Since the goal represented the proposed budgets of the 14 agencies, cuts will have to be made. Malin said any amounts received before Jan. 1 will lessen these cuts.

Campaign Chairman Richard Van Sistine predicted the total would reach $245,000, based on verbal commitments. Van Sistine referred in part to the large firms division, headed by H. P. Dixon, which now reports 98.1 per cent of its goal. Dixon said they are still working to bring their division over the top.

Have Given

"Some of our recent contributions have come from persons who have already given," Van Sistine said. One man, who had pledged $35 circled a Post-Crescent editorial which said $10 from 2,500 givers would make up the $25,000 deficit which existed at one time. "I hope the other 2,499 come through," he wrote in a letter which accompanied his $10 contribution.

This year's campaign has raised $30,559 more than last year, but "it is not enough to meet the minimum needs of our agencies," Van Sistine said.

Two more agencies share budget allocations for 1967 — The American Red Cross and the Mental Health Association.

Other agencies are Appleton Apostolate, Boy Scouts, Catholic Activities Council, Children's Service Society, Girl Scouts, Golden Age Club, Lutheran Social Services, Salvation Army, United Community Services, USO, Visiting Nurse Association and the YMCA.

The fire safety message opens with season's greetings from all volunteers and John J. Fiers, chief, after which tips are given on care of the Christmas tree, how to avoid overloading of light circuits and other safety precautions which will help insure an accident-free holiday season.

The Salvation Army tree of lights, which was put up recently, is already burning brightly with 45 lights shining. Putting the tree in place are Corwin Van Housen, chairman of the Christmas program; Lt. Booth Wood, commanding officer; and Sgt. James Simpson. The goal is to light all 100 lights on the tree, which stands in the lobby of the First National Bank, to insure a brighter holiday for the less fortunate. (Post-Crescent Photo)

National Safety Council Findings

Report Appleton's Auto Injuries Soar

The number of automobile inflicted property damage accidents declined but injuries showed a sharp increase in Appleton during 1965 compared to the previous year, according to the National Safety Council (NSC).

Disclosure was made Tuesday afternoon by Walter Goepfert of the safety division, Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department, Madison, when he met with the Appleton Council's public safety committee.

The city did not receive a percentage grade on safety as in the past — the procedure having been discontinued by the NSC. However, several recommendations and observations were made concerning the Appleton situation.

In the accident record, traffic engineering and control, traffic sign and street lighting categories Appleton had high performance records, improving over 1964, the report showed.

Emphasized Points
However, it emphasized as it has in the past, the need for stricter enforcement and more traffic arrests. Note was also made that Appleton has a low arrest and conviction record for tipsy drivers. Police Chief Earl O. Wolff and Lt. Vernal Remter indicated the Appleton Police Department was in no position to completely remedy the criticism.

At one point, law enforcement authorities said it might be helpful if Appleton established its own municipal court (there are about 200 in Wisconsin) to handle traffic cases.

But the subject was not pursued and no recommendation to that effect resulted.

Schools Criticized

Criticism was also leveled at the Appleton public school system, as in previous reports, for not providing an actual driver training program in the high schools. The senior high has only a driver education course.

Goepfert said driver training courses represented a major expense but pointed out the school system would receive more state aid for having one. At present it reportedly receives $6.50 per classroom student.

The only in-car driver education course here is given during the summer by the vocational school which is reimbursed $26.50 from the state for each student passing the course.

Goepfert said Wisconsin also had a "watered down" driver education law which permits students to get a driver's license at age 16 with no behind-the-wheel training.

New Regulation
However, he noted that under the Federal Highway Safety Act of 1966, starting next year a beginning driver must have had driver education or wait until 18 years of age before being eligible for a license.

If the state does not adopt the federal policy, it faces the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars in federal road aids, it was noted.

An offshoot of the meeting was disclosure by Chief Wolff that by next year about 90 per cent of the police force will be motorized, including policemen on "beats" who will be operating scooters now on order.

The NSC report also noted that:

Interest Needed
—More citizen interest and help is needed to promote the local traffic safety program, this responsibility falling on the mayor's office.

—Preparation of accident records "show a high level of performance."

—Traffic engineering is also excellent but more manpower is needed.

—Angle parking should be eliminated in the city's commercial areas.

—Appleton has too many original driver-intoxication arrests eventually reduced, and the condition should be improved through consultation between the police, courts, city administrators, citizen leaders and others concerned.

Buffer Zone Land Purchase Is Approved

16 Menasha Acres
Totals $65,280

NEENAH — The proposed light industrial buffer zone in the Southview Plat, which lacked one vote to pass the council on Dec. 7, picked up the needed okay as the property purchase was reconsidered at a special council meeting Wednesday evening.

The purchase of 16.32 acres from Broadview Co. developers of the plat, for $4,000 per acre, or a total price tag of $65,280, was approved at the last council meeting.

However, the resolution to appropriate the needed $6,298 from funds not otherwise allocated failed by one vote since a two-thirds vote is required to change the budget.

Ald. Stanley Drews, Eighth Ward, who had voted against the measure, asked that the resolution be reconsidered. He said he felt there was a lack of communication between the finance committee and the council on the matter.

One Dissenter
Ald. Thomas Ryan, Second Ward, who represents the plat in question, maintained his opposition to the purchase. Aids Harold Young, 10th Ward, and Lyle Ernst, Ninth Ward, were absent from the Dec. 7 council session but voted in favor of the purchase yesterday evening and the resolution passed 9-1.

Ryan stated the people in the plat purchased lots with the understanding that the areas would remain residential. He said his constituents were "not adverse to having Neenah Foundry come into the area" but were concerned with other future developments in the purchase package.

54 Million Tons

Paper Consumption Increases 4 Per Cent

NEENAH — Americans will use 54 million tons of paper and paper products in the coming year, a 4 per cent increase over 1966 and well over twice as much as they consumed at the end of World War II.

That is the forecast of Kimberly-Clark Corporation which estimates per person paper and paperboard usage in 1967 will reach 544 pounds. In the last year, Americans used an average 530 pounds of paper products each, or a total of 52 million tons. This compares with the 247 million tons consumed in the U.S. in 1947.

Although newsprint and paperboard make up the greatest portion of the total tonnage, the fastest growth currently is in sanitary tissue, coated papers for lithographic printing, and business papers, Kimberly-Clark reports.

Coated paper consumption was 952,000 tons in 1947, and is projected at 3.2 million tons in 1967. Use of tissue products (including facial tissue, toilet tissue, and napkins) is forecast at 31 million tons in the coming holiday greetings with a gentle scolding.

Cards printed with a red and green wreath and a message in green ink are tucked under windshield wipers, asking the owner of the car to make "every effort to make parking spaces available to other hustlers and busters who are attempting to bring Santa Claus here on time."

Signed by Chief Lawrence Malouf, there is a post-script: "The boys in blue wish you a very merry Christmas and a happy New Year."

New Holstein Policeman Is Suspended

NEW HOLSTEIN (AP) — Police Chief Al Bartash has suspended an officer accused of assaulting an elementary school teacher and the city's Police and Fire Commission has set a hearing in the matter Dec. 21.

Bartash filed a charge of conduct unbecoming an officer against Stuart Wetenkamp, 46, a member of the Police Department for approximately one year.

The chief said the complaint against Wetenkamp was made by George Pautz, a sixth grade teacher at New Holstein. Pautz claimed Wetenkamp assaulted him as Pautz got out of a car in front of his home last Friday following an argument over the conduct of Wetenkamp's 13-year-old son at a school function

Green Bay Teacher Is Finalist

For Top Honors

NEW YORK (AP) — Five teachers from as many states—including Wisconsin—have been selected as finalists to compete for Look magazine's "National Teacher of the Year" award.

Results of the final competition will be announced next spring after the five teachers have been observed and interviewed.

The winner will be selected for his or her "superior ability to impart knowledge to students and inspire them with love of learning."

The five finalists are John K. Moulton, mathematics teacher at Brookline High School, Brookline, Mass.; Roger Tenny, director of vocal music, Owatonna Junior-Senior High School, Owatonna, Minn.; Gene Doty, science teacher, Hillsboro Union High School, Hillsboro, Ore.; Ruby P. Herlong, teacher of 11th and 12th grade English and developmental reading, Saluda High School, Saluda, S.C., and Paul G. Plantico, teacher of social problems, American, Russian and world history, Rust High School, Green Bay, Wis.

The "Teacher of the Year" project is carried out jointly by Look and the Council of Chief State School Officers, with school officials in each state choosing entries.

Neenah and Towns Face Budget Vote

NEENAH — City councilmen will go into the public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Monday with a proposed 1967 tax rate of $26.62 per $1,000 of assessed valuation after a mathematical error of $100,000 was discovered in the published budget, raising the city's rate by 49 cents.

A mistake in calculation in the city clerk's office in preparing the budget for publication was recently discovered after the figures were rechecked. The school budget was inadvertently listed at $3,996,148, some $100,000 less than the actual $4,096,148, city officials said at a special council meeting Wednesday evening.

Since the city pays about 67 per cent of the costs in the Neenah Joint School District, Neenah's part of the $100,000 amounts to $67,717. The city's participation in the school budget now totals $2,294,374.

Towns Up
The Town of Menasha will have to add another $17,663 to its tax figures, bringing its share to $588,452. The Town of Neenah's share is increased $9,742, up to $330,078. The Town of Clayton's figures are up $2,899 to $98,236 and the Town of Vinland's school taxes are boosted $1,978 to $67,027.

Labor Local Elects New Officer Slate

NEENAH — New officers were elected Wednesday by the Neenah Local 482 of International Brotherhood of Pulp Sulphite and Papermill Workers of Kimberly-Clark Corp. Neenah Mill.

Rufin Skiba, a former president, was elected president. Bob McCann was named vice-president. Re-elected to office were Bob Skalmoski, recording secretary, Tony Talarczyk, financial secretary, and Walter McCanna, treasurer.

Leonard Buss was elected inside guard and William Frank Landskron was named trustee for a three year term and Fred Ponschock for a 1 year term as trustee.

Re-elected to the bargaining committee were William Wagner, Del Kriegel, Richard Van Straten, Jim Post, Vern Knaack and George Berton. Newly elected to the committee were Gene Freier and William Draeger.

The officers will be installed at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 28 at the Neenah Eagles Club. Installing officers will be Edward A. Zeininger, international representative.

Waupaca Youth Admits Speeding, Beer in Car

WAUPACA — Bruce Polly, 19, route 4, Waupaca, was fined $25 and costs for possession of beer in a car carrying minors and $20 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 55 m.p.h. zone, Tuesday when he appeared in Municipal Justice Court and pleaded guilty to both charges.

Polly, who was arrested Nov. 18 by county police, had been charged with possession of beer off a licensed premises but the charge was amended to possession of intoxicants in a car carrying minors.

Action Against Rhodesia

Africans Refuse to Drop Oil Embargo Demands

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — African members of the U.N. Security Council reportedly have refused to drop demands that Britain use force to cut off Rhodesia's oil supply despite Western warnings such demands are doomed to defeat.

Informed sources said Britain has failed to persuade the three African members, Nigeria, Uganda and Mali, to abandon their attempt to draft such an amendment onto the British resolution calling for mandatory sanctions against 12 Rhodesian exports, not including oil.

The amendment introduced this week with the blessings of the 38 African U.N. members demands that Britain "prevent by all means the transport to Southern Rhodesia of oil products."

Lord Caradon of Britain, who spent most of Wednesday in consultation with the African council members, was said to have pointed out that Britain would have to throw a naval blockade around all of Southern Africa to enforce such a ban.

"The whole idea is unrealistic," said a source close to the British delegation. "Even if Britain had the warships available for such a massive blockade, she would refuse to take a step certain to bring her into direct confrontation with South Africa and Portugal."

South Africa, which has been supplying much of Rhodesia's oil since Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith declared independence 13 months ago, is Britain's fourth biggest trading partner.

Water Utility Hearing Set by WERB for Union

A formal hearing to determine whether or not a bargaining unit exists in the Appleton Water Department will be held here Jan. 11 by the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board (WERB).

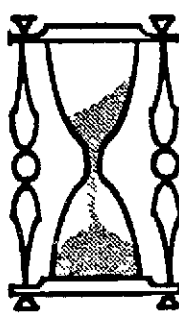

The hearing arises out of a petition by Teamsters Local 563 to represent about a dozen employees in the maintenance and meter division.

Local 563 recently undertook a membership drive and claims a majority of the employees. The hearing will decide whether the men represent a certified work unit within the Labor Act.

No Profit Competition From New City Home

Committee Told Facility Won't Deprive Private Owners of Medicare Aged Funds

The Appleton City Home will not be in competition with private nursing homes providing extended care under new federal Medicare provisions going into effect Jan. 1, 1967.

James Hickinbotham, home superintendent, and Merten Ehrlicke, city welfare director, gave the assurance at Tuesday night's meeting of city council's welfare-ordinance committee at city hall.

Representatives of Family Heritage Nursing Homes, which has two new modern homes in Appleton and Neenah, conferred with city officials on future policy.

Owner Argues

Principal spokesman was Kenneth Mueller, representing Como Corp. of Minneapolis, which owns and operates Heritage Family Homes in the Midwest. Charles Barnum, local home director, also participated in discussion.

"We would like to see the City Home continue to provide personal care — not skilled or extended — because there will definitely be a need for such a facility," Mueller told the committee.

He questioned what would happen to an estimated 19 residents at the City Home who are wards of Outagamie County and eligible for extended care. Hickinbotham said their relocation would be the responsibility of the Outagamie County Welfare Department although the county director did not think so at this time.

Clarify Situation

"We expect the state will send an order down soon which will clarify the situation," Hickinbotham said. "In the meantime, we will not ask anyone to leave the City Home until arrangements have been made for suitable placement."

Hickinbotham and Ehrlicke also said the future of the City

Home was "up in the air" and a report and recommendations would be ready for the committee by February.

They indicated under state criteria, which the home would not be able to meet without incurring considerable expense, the City Home would probably have to close sometime in 1969. The decision will be up to the council.

Welfare Dept. Decision

"We will be glad to let you take the people who will be eligible for extended care," Hickinbotham told the Heritage Home representatives. "The decision will be up to them and the county welfare department."

They indicated there was no doubt the City Home would be filled up again with those requiring personal and skilled care.

"The city has no intention of competing with you people in the nursing home business," Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th) told Mueller.

Meet Needs

"We know some people will be eligible to receive the extended care, which we cannot provide, but don't know exactly when," Thompson added.

Ehrlicke stressed the purpose of the City Home is to "meet the needs of the low income bracket residents — not to make money."

Earlier in the day, the board of public works recommended the razing of the abandoned superintendent's residence adjacent to the City Home.

Rights Union To Test Ban On Picketing

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union says it plans a court test of a suburban Wauwatosa ordinance restricting picketing by protest groups.

The ordinance was adopted Oct. 18 by Wauwatosa's Common Council following civil rights demonstrations by a Milwaukee youth group. The group's picketing was designed to encourage members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles to withdraw from the club in protest of racially restrictive membership rules.

Attorney Ted. M. Warshafsky, retiring president of the Civil Liberties Union chapter, told a chapter dinner Tuesday that a suit challenging the ordinance is to be filed in two weeks in the name of a group of Wauwatosa residents.

His group is concerned, he said, that other suburbs might adopt similar ordinances possibly restricting civil liberties of civil rights demonstrators and persons protesting the war in Vietnam.

Polled Priests Want to Marry

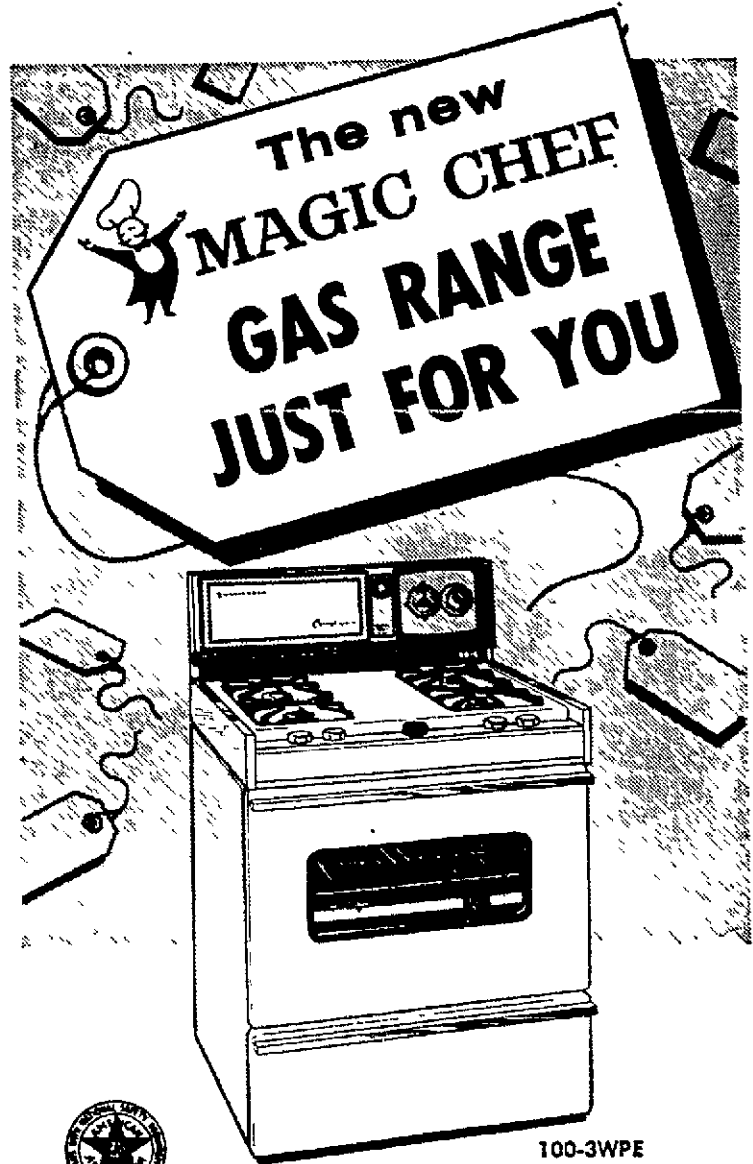

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sixty-two per cent of rank-and-file Catholic priests replying to a questionnaire from the National Catholic Reporter think they should be free to marry.

Thirty-one per cent said they probably would marry if permitted.

The weekly newspaper, edited by laymen, reports results of the survey in a copyright story to appear in the Dec. 14 issue.

The results are based on the first 3,000 replies to a questionnaire sent to 5,963 priests in the United States who are not pastors, monsignors or members of religious orders.

A wonder drug for acid indigestion?

Now there is a pill that stops acid indigestion so quickly, so effectively, so economically, it's hard to believe. In tests on people at a famous medical center, this pill worked dramatically better than every leading antacid tested—including prescription-type pills and liquids. Where can you get it? Practically anywhere. The wonder drug for acid indigestion is TUMS®. Easy-to-get, 124-a-roll TUMS. The little tablet you may think of as a candy mint, really is the best medicine for acid indigestion. TUMS!

Mother on Probation After Neglect Charge

Rosetta Marie Skenandore Loses Custody Of Two Children to Welfare Department

The mother of a two-year-old found she is able to care for girl who was found in a tavern while her daughter lay in a cold car outside, this morning was placed on probation to the State Department of Public Welfare for two years, lost custody of her two children for at least a short time, and heard a stern warning.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller withheld sentence in placing Rosetta Marie Skenandore, 25, route 3, Seymour, on probation. She had pleaded guilty Monday of contributing to the neglect of her daughter, Theresa, whom county police said she left unattended in a cold car while the mother was in Van's Valley Tavern in the Town of Oneida last Sunday night.

Mrs. Skenandore's sister, Beatrice Skenandore, had pleaded guilty of public intoxication and this morning was sentenced to 10 days in jail. Beatrice was in the tavern with her sister Sunday night, police said. Both women were held in jail without bond until this morning.

Children Placed
Mrs. Skenandore's two children — an older daughter was in the tavern with her mother Sunday night — were placed temporarily in the home of relatives, on an order by welfare authorities.

Judge Keller told Mrs. Skenandore this morning, that in placing her on probation, he was giving her "a chance to make something of yourself."

"If you neglect your children again and are brought before this court, bring your bags for a good long stay," Judge Keller told the woman. "Animals take better care of their young than you do," he remarked.

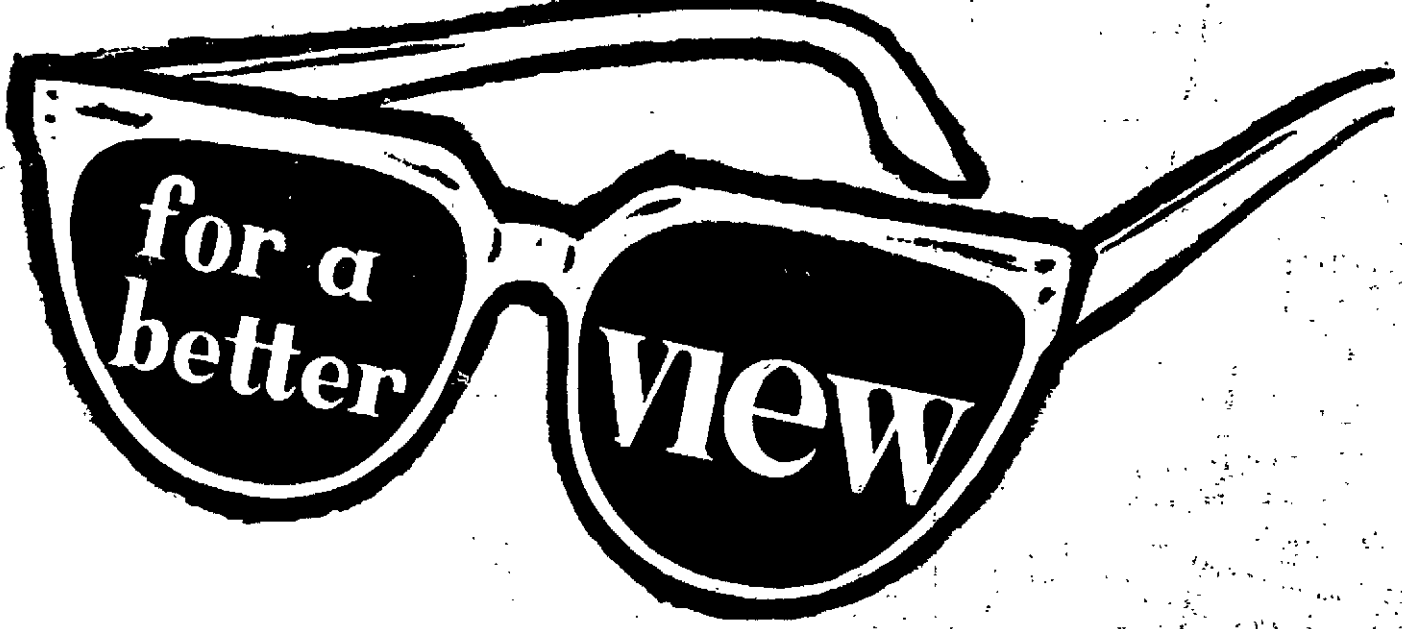

Conditions Cited
The judge told Mrs. Skenandore she would be able to get her children back when it is

Canadian Airline Strike Is Called
OTTAWA (AP) — A nationwide strike of airport traffic controllers has been called for Dec. 20. The walkout would close Canada's major airports to almost all commercial traffic.
Announcing the strike deadline, K. D. Lyon of Winnipeg, president of the 650-member Canada Air Traffic Control Association, said Tuesday night that the controllers had voted 578 to 63 to strike to back up their demands for more pay from the government. The strike vote was taken after negotiations with the government broke up following 26 months of talks.

Trial Against Elected Sheriff Set to Begin

MADISON (AP)—One of two undersheriffs involved in an alleged corrupt practice violation by running for election as a team with his boss goes on trial next week.

Louis Lohff of Merrill, currently Lincoln County undersheriff and sheriff-elect, stands trial Wednesday before Circuit Judge Gerald Boileau of Wausau.

The fate of the other undersheriff, Roland Coombs of Antigo, remains uncertain.

Helen Zastrow of the Town of Schley in Lincoln County brought the charge against Lohff. She is seeking to have his election declared void, remove him from office if he has been sworn in by the time a court decision is reached, and bar him from subsequent appointment when the vacancy occurs.

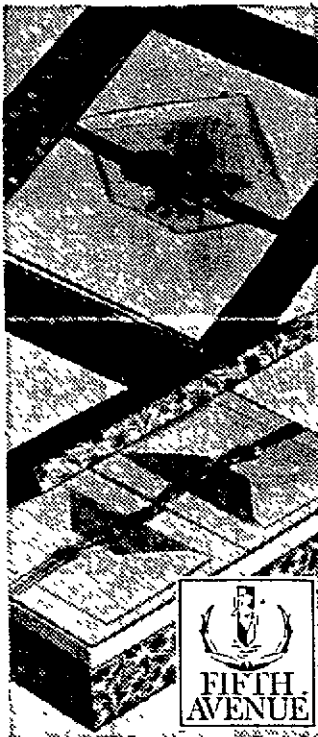

He is charged with violating the Corrupt Practice Act by seeking election as sheriff while running as a team with the existing sheriff.

State law prohibits offering employment to anyone in return for aid in a campaign.

Inquest Set In U. S. 45 Auto Death

Five witnesses will be heard Dec. 20 in an inquest into the death of Miss Ann Blandi, 27, Racine, in a two-car accident the evening of Nov. 23 on U.S. 45 near Outagamie County Trunk BB.

The inquest, to be held at 3 p.m. in the circuit court room at the Outagamie County Court, was called by Coroner Bernard H. Kemps after conferences with Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer.

Miss Blandi was a passenger in a northbound auto driven by Waino E. Kleimola, Racine, who will be one of the witnesses Tuesday.

The Kleimola car collided head-on with a southbound car driven by Roger A. Hansen, route 1, Hortonville.

Injured in the 8:50 p.m. accident were Mr. and Mrs. Hansen, their son, Brian, 3, and Kleimola.

Scheduled to testify at the inquest are Kleimola; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hansen; County Patrolman Orville Crane; and Lawrence D. Hennes, Germantown, who was driving behind the Kleimola car.

Route Changes Proposed for Three Highways

Proposed highway route changes for U. S. 141, State 32 and State 57 in Ozaukee and Sheboygan counties will be reviewed by the State Highway Commission at a public hearing at 10 a.m., Dec. 21, in the courthouse at Port Washington.

The proposed improvement would bring 141 up to freeway standards, for ultimate linking of present work in Milwaukee County north to the Sheboygan beltline project.

As proposed, the improvement will require the joint routing of U. S. 141 and State 57 between the present traffic interchange near Grafton and a new interchange to be constructed above Saukville.

A short new section of State 57 would be required above the new interchange for the proposed route to rejoin the present roadway about two miles above Saukville, thus completing a bypass of the village.

The new joint routing of 141 and 57 would require a new traffic interchange with State 33 between Saukville and Port Washington, and thus provide direct access to these two communities.

The new route of U. S. 141 would proceed northeasterly from the new State 57 interchange to a proposed interchange with State 84 above Port Washington, and then continue jointly with State 32 in a new

Municipal Salary Tax Okayed by Committee

MADISON (AP)—A proposal to give city governments the power to pass a paycheck tax and two other local taxing options were forwarded to legislative leaders Wednesday after a study group bunted the state tax commissioner's opposition to the package.

The Legislative Council's local government committee refused to reopen consideration of its Dec. 1 recommendations despite Tax Commissioner James Morgan's warnings that there were "potential problems" involved in the proposals.

Issue Blocked Morgan got no further than an opening challenge to the proposal that would allow local governments to pass their own automobile and truck licensing fees when Milwaukee Alderman Robert Jendusa blocked the discussion.

Jendusa, a member of the study committee, insisted the earlier recommendations were not subject to change. He was upheld by rulings by Assemblyman Earl W. Warren, D-Racine, the committee chairman.

Morgan said afterwards he had planned also to object to the paycheck tax, which would allow a city, village, town or county government to tax the earnings of persons working within its boundaries.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Today is Thursday, Dec. 15, the 349th day of 1966. There are 16 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1791, the first 10 amendments to the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, were declared in force. Twelve amendments were passed by Congress, but two failed to be ratified.

On this date:

In 1916, French forces defeated the Germans at the Battle of Verdun during World War I.

In 1919, the National Prohibition Act was upheld unanimously by the Supreme Court.

In 1941, the Philippine National Assembly declared a total emergency in the Philippine Islands.

In 1944, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a pension bill for the benefit of widows of World War I veterans.

Ten years ago—The Army would not confirm nor deny a report that it had fired a rocket that attained twice the speed and height of any previous man-made mechanical object. An Army test missile reportedly had soared to an altitude of 650 miles and had traveled at speeds up to 15,000 miles an hour.

Your Money's Worth

1967 Will be Good Year But Not as Good as '66

BY SYLVIA PORTER

1967 will not be as good a year for the U.S. economy as 1966 has been. Stripped of the bafflegab in which economists almost automatically make forecasts, this is the key story being flashed by reliable signals today.

It will be a year of continued expansion. When we close 1966, we will be finishing six straight years of upturn and in February, we will be starting the seventh.

But the seventh year is shaping up as a period of slower overall growth in the total value of goods and services we produce. The rise is "real" Gross National Product — meaning the total value of our production minus the amount contributed by price increases — is projected at or slightly under 4 per cent in 1967 as against this year's probable gain in "real" GNP of more than 5 per cent.

Slower Expansion

It will be a year in which the pace of rise in business spending for new plants and equipment will be half or even less than half the pace of rise in this vital type of spending in 1966.

By itself, this deceleration guarantees a slower pace of overall expansion in the private sector of our economy.

It will be a year characterized by "rolling adjustments" both in broad areas of our economy and in individual industries, and the adjustments will be up and down. Building of houses, for instance, should recover from the abysmal 21-year lows now being recorded. Auto sales, though, should be lower than in 1966. Total after-tax corporation profits, though, will be moderated by climbing wage and other costs, the suspension of the investment tax credit, possibly an income tax boost as well.

Assuming that "slowdown" is the key word for the private sector of our economy in 1967, the crucial question which logically follows is "Will this turn into a stall?" The danger of this always is present in the sort of "smorgasbord economy" we have recently developed.

But while the danger of "stall" cannot be laughed off, it appears exceedingly remote as of now. The reason is that most of our current and projected slowdown is the result of deliberate policies to compel it.

If today's slowing reflected a sag in "natural" demands for goods and services, the threat of recession would be clear. For if this were the case, the "natural" sag could become cumulative and lead to an unhealthy degree of retreat, with all this would imply to employment, paychecks, sales, profits.

But the slowing we're experiencing is the result of "artificial," deliberately engineered restraints.

Money Expensive

Tight, expensive money is primarily responsible for the collapse in housing starts. Easier money would help revive this basic industry. Large numbers of families want to build and buy houses. When they can get the credit to do so, they will.

Tight, expensive money plus the suspension of tax incentives plus the recognition that the economy is being deliberately restrained are factors in the sharp reduction in business plans to invest in new plants and equipment. Easier money plus the renewal of tax incentives plus recognition that artificial restraints are off demands would change this pattern. Meanwhile, a 7-8 per cent increase in this type of spending projected for 1967's first half can't be called a decrease. Rather, it's a slowing from this year's frantic spending pace.

The serious economic distortions which smeared our upturn in 1966 are forcing a slower upturn in 1967. No more than this is now foreseen, always barring the unforeseeable in Vietnam.

Police Fleet Mechanic Quits

Carl Kunitz Joined Department in 1938 As Patrolman

Carl J. Kunitz, 57, the oldest man in years of service on the Appleton Police Department, announced Wednesday afternoon that he is retiring effective Saturday.

Kunitz, the department's off-duty fleet mechanic, was appointed patrolman April 1, 1938. A graduate of Appleton High School, Kunitz attended Lawrence University and Seton Hall University.

The Appleton native became the department's first semi-bike operator in 1939, and in 1941 was named motorcycle patrolman, a post he held for 11 years.

He was appointed squad car driver and later became one of four department mechanics.

Kunitz worked at Tuttle Press for five years before joining the police department.

He and his wife, Catherine, live at 1327 W. College Ave. They have five children.

Mrs. Henry Wyngaard, Little Chute Resident, Succumbs Early Today

Mrs. Henry Wyngaard, 76, 822 Madison St., Little Chute, mother of John Wyngaard, manager of The Post-Crescent Madison Bureau, died early this morning in Green Bay after a long illness.

Born in the province of Brabant, the Netherlands, Mrs. Wyngaard came to the United States as an infant and settled in rural Brown County.

Surviving her are her husband, one son, two daughters, one brother, nine grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 9 a.m. Saturday at St. John Catholic Church.

NLRB Orders New Election at Post-Crescent

Composing department employees at The Post-Crescent will vote next Thursday to determine union representation, if any, in a National Labor Relations Board-sanctioned election.

Balloting will take place in the company cafeteria between 2 and 3 p.m.

Employees will vote whether they want to retain The Post-Crescent Craftsmen's Union (an independent) or the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants Union, AFL-CIO, or neither.

The composing room employees have been represented since the 1920's by the Craftsmen's Union, also referred to as the PCCU.

Participating in the election will be composing room and stereo flat cast employees, proofreaders and teletypewriters. Clerical and supervisory employees are excluded.

The election will be supervised by Kenneth Rock, field examiner for the NLRB.

Miss Wisconsin Group To Give Yule Party to Blackwell Job Corps

The Miss Wisconsin Pageant of Oshkosh, in cooperation with the Wausau Jaycees, will be putting on a Christmas show for the Blackwell Job Corps, at Grandon Saturday.

Since Job Corps members come from all parts of the country and are not able to go home for Christmas, the Miss Wisconsin Pageant agreed to put on a special Christmas program for them.

The show will star Sharon Singstock, Miss Wisconsin 1965 and 4th Runner-up to Miss America; Angela Gina Baldi, Miss Wisconsin 1964, and reigning Miss Wisconsin, Candace Gail Hinz. Others performing in the show are local reigning queens.

All members of the cast and orchestra are donating their services for the Christmas program with several merchants of the area donating gifts.

Two Appleton Aldermen File Papers for Re-Election

Two Appleton aldermen who will be completing their first terms of office have filed nomination papers and will seek re-election in the spring.

Deadline for filing papers at the city clerk's office is Jan. 31.

The early-filers are:

—Ald. Glenn W. Thompson (13th), 1624 S. Walden St., an employee at the Riverside Paper Co.

—Ald. Roland H. Voss (3rd), 812 W. Oklahoma St., who is retired.

In connection with the election, City Clerk Elden Broehm announced today his office has sent cards to 3,487 Appleton residents, reminding them they have not voted in two years.

They were advised it will be

For the Nov. 8 election there were 23,181 persons registered, while 16,534, or 71.3 per cent, voted.

Street Superintendent Applications Being Screened in Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — Applications are being accepted by Robert Natrop, director of public works, for the position of street superintendent, a post formerly held by William Lambie who resigned recently after over 30 years service.

Salary is open, depending on qualifications. Natrop indicated previous experience in a supervisory capacity and knowledge of public works construction is desirable. The position has also been posted for members of the city crew. Persons interested are to send a resume of experience and qualifications to Natrop. Applications will be reviewed by the board of public works.

Two-Car Crash Injures Pair Wednesday

Two persons were injured about 6 p.m. Wednesday in an accident at N. Oneida Street and Wisconsin Avenue.

Taken by Larry's Ambulance to Appleton Memorial Hospital were Mrs. Philip Hammond, 2219 S. Jefferson St., who suffered a knee injury, and Pam Hammond, 8, same address, with jaw and wrist injuries.

They were in a car driven by Hammond, 33, which was southbound on Oneida when it collided with a westbound vehicle driven by Paul H. Fiebelkorn, 55, 807 E. Brewster St., who Appleton police charged with a traffic signal violation.

The Fiebelkorn car veered into a lane support pole, police said. Damage was to the right front and right side of the Fiebelkorn car and the front of the Hammond vehicle.

Applications will be reviewed by the board of public works.

Grand Chute Crews Battle Flames After Trailer Explosion

Leaking gas was blamed for an explosion which caused approximately $1,500 damage at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday to a trailer home on N. Casaloma Drive just north of State 76.

Walls were bulged and windows were blown out by the blast, according to Town of Grand Chute Fire Chief Vincent Baum. The trailer was unoccupied at the time of the explosion, Baum said.

Area residents heard the explosion and called the Grand Chute Volunteer Fire Department. Firemen responded with two pumper trucks and battled a secondary fire for about 45 minutes, Baum said.

The 10 by 56-foot trailer is owned by Antone Schneider, S. Westland Avenue. The explosion apparently occurred in the kitchen near a gas stove, Baum said. A pilot light was burning and a furnace, controlled automatically, was turned on, the fire chief reported.

The kitchen is located in the center of the three-bedroom 1960 model trailer.

Weather Delays Ice Rink Work

KAUKAUNA — Changing weather conditions have prevented the recreation department from flooding city ice rinks, according to James Gertz, recreation director.

The department has found early flooding, before the extended stretch of cold weather arrives, results in losing the rinks with an added drain on the water supply and also poorer skating surfaces. It is hoped flooding can get underway late this week or early next week to permit use of rinks during the holidays.

Areas scheduled for rinks include 10th Street and Crooks Avenue, Doty Bayoregon Recreation Area, Riverside Park, Marsh playground, and White City Park. Supervision and shelters will be provided at the two main rinks, 10th Street and Riverside Park. An ice carnival will be staged later in the season.

High School to House Kindergarten Classes

Little Chute Board Plans to Convert Portion Of Secondary Building; Expect Federal Aid

LITTLE CHUTE — The board of education Tuesday night authorized Leo Bronkalla, superintendent of schools, to proceed with plans to convert three teaching stations at the senior high school into one 4,270 square-foot room for team teaching of kindergarten students during the next school year.

Crowded conditions at the elementary school level necessitate finding additional space for students. Bids for remodeling work at the high school will be opened Jan. 10. Bronkalla next week will meet with representatives of the state department of education at Madison to explain the kindergarten team teaching program and apply for federal aid in setting up the program under Title 3 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

It is anticipated, federal aid amounting to between $20,000 and $22,000 will be received to help install cabinetry and purchase equipment for use in the team teaching program. Cost to the school district is estimated at about $30,000. Bronkalla indicated no anticipated increase in levy would be necessary to finance the program.

A representative of the state department visited the school last week and told Bronkalla the proposed teaching station and teachers were ideally suited for the new educational program.

Bronkalla said space requirements will make it necessary to transfer kindergarten classes even if no federal money is available. Remodeling will not alter the main structure of the high school and converting the area back to usable high school classrooms will cause no problems. Buses will transport kindergarten children from central pick-up points in the community to the school.

Tentative plans were discussed for a summer school program on the high school level. Nuns from St. John Catholic School may act as instructors. Miss Helen Koehn was named delegate to the school board convention in Milwaukee Jan. 18. Two change orders in construction were approved at a cost of $1,989.

The board received word that the district will be reimbursed for a testing program under Title 5 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Firemen Wear Full Gear at YMCA Sauna

Firemen took a 160-degree sauna bath Wednesday night — wearing their helmets, rubber coats and high boots.

A truck and crew were dispatched to the Appleton YMCA about 8:55 p.m. Wednesday to assist when an element in the sauna unit burned out.

Firemen stayed in the sauna room about 20 minutes, until they remedied the malfunction.

YMCA officials said persons using that portion of the building at the time continued with their sun baths and saunas.

3 Appleton Officials Sign Bonds in Chicago

Three Appleton officials were in Chicago Wednesday and today signing bonds for the recent $1.9 million issue floated by the council.

When the money is received it will be used for constructing the Highlands Elementary School ($1,450,000) and sewer projects ($450,000).

Mayor George Buckley, Treas. Ray Feuerstein and Clerk Elden Broehm made the trip.

Cash, Camera, Pistol Stolen From Appleton Home; Owners Absent

About $15, a camera and a .22 caliber automatic pistol were stolen in a burglary sometime during the past several days at the Chester Wagner home, 2206 N. McDonald St.

Appleton police, who were notified of the burglary by Wagner's son, Hugh, said entry into the home was gained through a basement window.

The burglars also ransacked kitchen cupboards, a filing cabinet pried open in the den, and the master bedroom. Police are attempting to determine if anything else was taken from the home. The Wagners are in Florida, police were told.

Kellett Committee To Judge Single Conservation Plan

Merger Would be One of Four Proposed in State Reorganization

MADISON (AP) — A rebuilt blueprint for merger of Wisconsin's conservation and water pollution control programs will be tested Friday as a task force tries to patch together its master plan for simplifying state government.

The controversial effort to combine the two departments was revived by a subcommittee which suggested July 1, 1968, for the wedding date.

The merger into a new department of natural resources is one of four major marriages to be considered by the full Kellett task force as it tries to force a final draft of its reorganization package.

The others would involve new departments of social services, commerce and transportation. Social services would be formed from three present departments, Welfare, Veterans Affairs and Health. Commerce would combine four financial departments, several licensing boards and the governor's economic development efforts. Transportation would unit the Highway and Motor Vehicle departments.

Toughest Problem
The thorniest tangle so far has been the proposal to discard the present State Conservation Commission in merging that department and the Resource Development Department, which oversees water pollution control efforts.

The subcommittee recommended that a transition board be created for one year starting next July to accomplish the merger.

It called for combination of the two departments under a nine-man board and a single executive director July 1, 1968. Both the Conservation Commission and the Resource Development Board would die on that date.

Sen. Robert W. Warren, R-Green Bay, extracted agreement from conservation director, Lester Voigt and resource development director, Freeman Holmer that the transition board would offer "good working machinery leading up to a merger."

Retired Menasha Industrialist William R. Kellett, the task force chairman, and other committee members sat in on the subcommittee session and suggested the idea of a transition board might be extended also to the new department of social services.

Local Affairs
In another move, Kellett and the subcommittee proposed that the master plan recommend addition of a department of local affairs in state government.

Both parties are entering the election year. The agency to consider the plan is the Wisconsin Legislative Council, headed by Sen. P. J. Schaefer, D-Madison, who suggested its creation in 1967.

The Legislature is also the target for the Kellett task force's omnibus bill to streamline state government and slash the number of departments, boards, agencies and commissions from 85 to about 17.

Among the key departments would be administration, public instruction, revenue, agriculture and labor — in most cases, formed from existing departments without sweeping changes.

The Department of Public Instruction and the two state university systems would be left essentially untouched.

Outdoors Programs
The proposal sparking the most public dispute has been the merger of all outdoors programs into a department of natural resources.

The idea was scrapped last month in the face of vociferous opposition from conservation interests, but a compromise to create a coordinating committee to link the two departments while leaving them intact collapsed when it couldn't attract majority backing last week.

The subcommittee, told to find a solution, recommended establishment of a seven-man transition board composed of two members from the general public.

Sen. Taylor Benson, D-Franklin, said the latest plan would be able to weather any new political assaults and added "Not only is it politically feasible but it is going to work."

Suburban Milwaukee Patrolman Charged With Accepting Bribe
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Gordon A. Hanna, 36-year-old suspended patrolman of suburban Franklin was charged Wednesday with accepting a bribe.

Sheriff's deputies said they arrested Hanna on Monday as he was accepting marked money from a Milwaukee woman after she had been stopped in Franklin and had no driver's license.

Hanna, a member of the Franklin force for 16 months, was released on $100 bail by Judge Christ Seraphim and his case was adjourned to Jan. 10.

Shriver Future In OEO Is Undecided

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sargent Shriver says he has no plans to resign as head of the federal antipoverty agency. But to hear him tell it, neither is he sure how long he'll remain on the job.

It sounds confusing, and Shriver agrees. "That's why I dislike talking about it," the head of the Office of Economic Opportunity said in an interview. "Every time I discuss the subject, it becomes more confusing because my statements are misinterpreted by someone."

He did attempt to clarify the situation. "I have no immediate plans," he said. "I'm not dissatisfied with my work. I don't want to sound like an egotist or anything like that but I do believe we've done a whole lot here."

But, "I'm like everybody else, I guess," he said. "I look around and I have got some very fine offers. We all love to go on to bigger and better things, you know, finding the big challenge."

"I have always liked to feel that anytime President Kennedy (Shriver's brother-in-law) or President Johnson wanted to assign me to other duties or to replace me, they could do so without having any difficulty."

Much of the speculation on Shriver's leaving the agency began last month when he called a news conference to explain cutbacks in the antipoverty program because of lack of funds.

state — sharing of federal revenues.

Gov. William M. Guy, North Dakota Democrat who heads the National Governors' Conference opening here today, conceded in an interview he does not expect the tax-sharing plan to go into effect until the Vietnam war, with its drain on the national budget, is ended.

This governors' interim conference, at a summer resort hotel, was called primarily on the insistence of Michigan Gov. George W. Romney. He said he had not been able to report fully at last July's governors' meet-

Knowles Leave For Convention

MADISON (AP) — Gov. and Mrs. Warren Knowles leave today for White Sulphur Springs, Va., and the two-day National Governors' Conference.

Knowles is a member of the seven-man executive committee of the conference which will consider federal, state and local relations.

Paul E. Hassett, the governor's executive secretary, will accompany the Knowleses on the trip, made in a National Guard plane.

ing in Los Angeles on his special committee's investigation of possible sharing of federal tax collections with states and local communities.

As a potential candidate for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination, Romney is suspected in some quarters of having a political gimmick going for him in this tax-sharing business.

An Associated Press canvass of the governors in advance of this meeting indicated many of those willing to respond felt that an increase in taxes to pay for the Vietnam war was almost inevitable.

But some respondents wanted to spend cut first.

Gov. John A. Love of Colorado

do, new chairman of the Republican Governors' Association, said the first thing to do was cut government spending.

"I have the belief, though, that even with great restraint in spending in the effort to balance the budget, there will have to be new taxes," he said. "But there should be careful study in advance of the effect a tax increase might have on the economy."

Two Killed in Brown County

Woman, 22, Man, 71, Die in Separate Mishaps Wednesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two persons died during the night in two separate crashes on the same stretch of highway in Brown County. The deaths brought the state highway toll for the year to 1,047 in a relentless march toward the all-time record of 1,059 traffic deaths in 1964.

The grim total on this date last year was 973. Miss Mary Elliott, 22, of rural Pulaski, was killed shortly after 2 a.m. today in a head-on collision of her car and a semi-trailer truck on U.S. 41-141 four and one-half miles north of Green Bay. The truck driver, Glenn Johnson, 42, of Carney, Mich., escaped injury.

Just a few hours before Miss Elliott was killed, another fatal accident had occurred about two miles away on the same road.

August Pautz, 71, was injured fatally Wednesday evening in the collision of his car and another auto as Pautz was turning into the driveway of his home on Highway 141 about six miles north of Green Bay.

Resignation of Moyers Will Reshuffle Jobs

Presidential Aide Was Considered 'First Among Equals'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The resignation of Bill D. Moyers as White House press secretary will lead to changes in the ranking of White House aides and mark the end of a gradual 100 per cent turnover in top White House staff jobs.

Moyers, leaving Feb. 1 to become publisher of the Long Island newspaper Newsday, was regarded at one time as the most powerful and influential of presidential aides. He sometimes was referred to as being "first among equals."

Succeeding Moyers as press secretary will be George Christian, 39, a Johnson aide who had been press secretary for two Democratic governors of Texas.

With Moyers' departure, three other special assistants—all getting salaries of $30,000 a year—seem almost certain to be ranked as the "big three" of the White House staff. They are W. Marvin Watson, Joseph A. Califano Jr. and Walt W. Rostow.

Another high-rated special assistant, and the most recent addition to that elite roster, is Robert E. Kintner, former president of the National Broadcasting Co.

In time, Watson, Califano or Kintner could emerge as a new "first among equals." Rostow hardly could be expected to figure in any such competition because he is a specialist in foreign affairs — too narrow a base on which to build a position of pre-eminence.

Watson is physically closest to the President. Occupying an adjoining office, he is appointments secretary and resident specialist in political matters.

Califano, a young man who once was troubleshooter for Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, often plays the same role for Johnson. He also has a major hand in shaping new legislation.

Security Assistant Rostow, a State Department graduate, is Johnson's special assistant for national security affairs. He occupies the desk and does the work of McGeorge Bundy, who resigned last February to become president of the Ford Foundation. In announcing Rostow's appointment, Johnson insisted he was not a replacement for Bundy.

Kintner handles many administrative and housekeeping matters for the President, acts as Cabinet secretary and recently became coordinator of speechwriting, which had been a Moyers task.

August Pautz, 71, was injured fatally Wednesday evening in the collision of his car and another auto as Pautz was turning into the driveway of his home on Highway 141 about six miles north of Green Bay.

'If' Best Word for Automobile Field

3 Big Companies Unanimously Uncertain in Yearend Statements

By H.L. SCHWARTZ III
DETROIT (AP) — With reports on yearend prospects in from three of the nation's four major automakers, the mood in the industry appeared today best summed up in one word — if.

That was the theme of review-outlook statements Wednesday by Henry Ford II, chairman of the Ford Motor Co., and Roy Abernethy, president of American Motors Corp.

They closely followed the tone of an earlier yearend statement by Frederick Donner, chairman of General Motors. The year-end statement by Chrysler Chairman Lynn Townsend was due late today and was expected to make the industry uncertainly unanimous.

Traditionally the most outspoken of the auto chieftains, Ford talked with newsmen at his annual review-outlook meeting of his hopes for labor peace in the upcoming contract year, resurgence from a current sales slump and renewal of consumer confidence.

Safety Standards
He injected a new cause for uncertainty when he became the first top auto executive to predict that some safety standards that may be required by the federal government in 1968 models would make it impossible to build certain cars, forcing some plants to close down.

Ford added that no matter what the government finally requires when it publishes its list Jan. 31 of the safety features mandatory for 1968 models, the consumer will have to bear the cost.

The automakers have until Jan. 3 to reply to the 23 safety standards suggested last month by Dr. William Haddon, first highway safety chief, under the Highway Safety Act of 1966.

Consumer Confidence

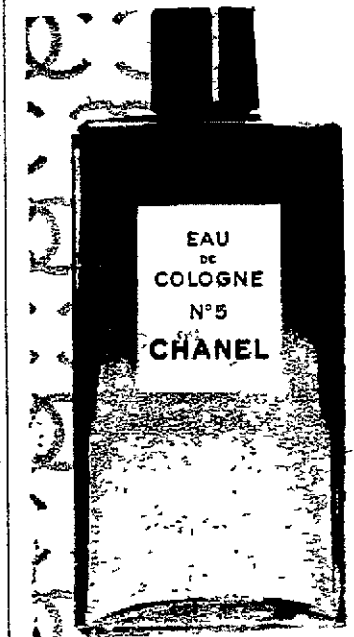

Ford and Abernethy — whose companies Wednesday joined GM and Chrysler in announcing holiday-season production cuts to balance lagging sales — also talked of consumer confidence as a major factor in their hope for another year when sales would approach the nine million of this year, the industry's second best.

The record sales year was 1965 when 9.3 million cars were sold.

"While some causes of uncertainty remain as we move into 1967, continued growth in population, incomes, gross national product and government spending at all levels is adding new weight on the demand side of the economic scale," said Abernethy.

DO MEN EVER DIE FOR LOVE? YES ☐ NO ☐

Yes, they die for love, and most potent agency in emotional from the lack of it. Many men have died for love of country, of a beloved comrade, of dear ones at home, for art and for science. History is full of cases of men who cared so deeply that they willingly laid down their lives for what they loved. Without love even the strongest may die — as any nurse knows who gives her patients tender loving care to speed their recovery.

Lovell Plans Return Visit To Wisconsin

MADISON (AP) — Astronaut James Lovell, well-known world traveler after two journeys into the eerie vastness of outer space, plans a return trip to Wisconsin Jan. 18 at the invitation of Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

The one-day visit to address a space science gathering at the University of Wisconsin will be the second state homecoming in a year for the Gemini spacecraft pilot who grew up in Milwaukee.

Lovell, 38, a Navy captain, spent two days in February in his former hometown and in the state capital after his first trip into outer space as co-pilot of the Gemini 7.

Last month he returned to the quiet solitude high above the earth as command pilot of Gemini 12.

Siamese Twins Die Following Long Operation

Infant Girls Had Been Joined At the Abdomen

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Karen and Susan Cantrell, three-week-old Siamese twins separated in a delicate 12-hour operation Monday, died after the surgery.

Simply, doctors said, their hearts weren't strong enough and there were blood vessel complications.

Susan, the smaller and weaker of the twins born Nov. 22 to Dr. and Mrs. James Cantrell of Princeton, N.J., died Monday night, 73 minutes after she was cut free at St. Christopher's Hospital for Children.

Karen, who appeared to have successfully survived the complicated surgical ordeal — with doctors expressing guarded optimism — died at 4:40 a.m. Tuesday, nearly 10 hours after her sister. A hospital spokesman said Karen's "system just couldn't take the complicated surgery. There were five organs involved and it was just more than her system could handle."

The sisters shared a gall-bladder, their livers were joined together, they shared part of the small intestine and also the tubes that lead from the stomach to the small intestine.

Handy Ribbon Bookmarks! Make Some as Holiday Gifts

BY CAPPY DICK

Anyone who reads books needs a bookmark or two. Consequently, bookmarks are a welcome kind of gift for a boy or girl to make for family and friends at holiday time.

The markers can be made from scraps of the same kind of ribbon that is used to tie Christmas packages.

Figures 1 and 2 show one of the easiest kind of bookmarks to make. You will need a piece of ribbon about two inches wide and eight inches long and a narrower ribbon about an inch wide and eight inches long. The narrow ribbon should be a different color.

Open the ribbon and weave the narrower ribbon through the slashes as shown in Figure 2. A bit of glue here and there on the underside of the narrow ribbon will hold it in place, completing the bookmark.

Another style may be made by braiding four strands of narrow ribbon (Figure 3). The ribbons may be of four different colors, or two of each color. The advantage of a four-ribbon braid is that it will be flat and the edges will be smooth and straight as in Figure 3.

Magicians Cast Quite a Spell

They Couldn't Figure Out how the tricks were done, but Kathy Dengel and Judy Schindhelm were obviously caught up in the performance on the stage at Madison Junior High School. Kathy's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dengel. Judy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schindhelm. At left, in an expression of disbelief, is John Marincic, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hank Marincic.

The mystifying world of magic held youngsters spellbound Saturday afternoon as the Chalice Circle of The King's Daughters held its St. Nicholas Magic Revue. Children and adults in the audience were caught up in the improbabilities and impossibilities of the feats performed with skill and ease by the Nicolet Magic Group of Nicolet High School, Milwaukee. The troupe is composed of 12 high school students.

Two performances were given, with proceeds slated by the Circle for the new Family Service Agency. Mrs. James Veum was general chairman, assisted by Mrs. Wilbert Spanagel, Mrs. Richard Paulsen, Mrs. William Dafoe, Mrs. Chester Meyers, Mrs. Verner Haag, Mrs. Roy Collier and Mrs. Clifford Vincent.

Two Lucky Young Men got to meet some of the performers and see for themselves that the bunny was 'for real'. The children, talking backstage before the St. Nicholas Magic Show, are Geoffrey Kraft, son of the Carl Krafts, and Jackie Kitzmiller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kitzmiller. The magicians are Norm Marck, Bill Tumbler and Sue Waisbren. (Post-Crescent Photos)

High Quality, Low-Priced Item Becomes Lavish Gift

NEW YORK — Billy Rose, the master showman, once said, "In the days when I had only a dollar each to spend on my Christmas gifts for my mailman, postman and doctor, I didn't try to get something that looked like $1.98. Instead, I bought cigars for each one. — and made the fellow feel like a king!"

And he was right in selecting lavish gifts. A 50 cent cigar today is lavish as a gift (even millionaires often puff inexpensive ones), yet they are not beyond the means of most Yuletide gift-givers.

By using similar principles of showmanship, you can quicken the pulse of everyone on your Christmas list — and still not noticeably dent your bank account.

Be Selective
Stress quality. You'll give more pleasure with the best of a lower-priced product than with the cheapest of a "higher-ticket" item. Better a superb lipstick than an imitation leather purse. . . 100 sheets of highgrade personalized stationery than a mediocre desk set. . . a fine handkerchief than a run-of-the-mill tie.

Make it a luxury. Remember your disappointment as a child when you received gifts of clothing? You knew during the year, if you needed a sweater, you'd get a sweater. Part of the fun of receiving a gift is the glee of owning something not ordinarily in your budget. Apply the same principle to others. Sure, Uncle John (or even nephew Dick) might well need a couple of shirts. But wouldn't his eyes light up if you presented him with a box of his favorite cigars? Aunt Mary would undoubtedly be gratified by a new pair of bedroom slippers. But suppose you broke the pattern this year and presented her with a beautiful ice bucket to make her hostessing chores a little easier? It's just the sort of gift she'd never buy for herself.

Seek Unique Gifts
Let it be imaginative. Gifts of money are very nice, but they smack of "last-minute thoughtfulness." Make your gift unique in some way and — regardless of its price — it will reverberate in the recipient's mind because of the obvious pains you took in choosing it. How about pegging it to a particular interest? (Philatelist George will appreciate your going to the trouble of finding that Bolivian air-mail stamp for his collection.) Or, why not see to it that milady's favorite cook book is bound in leather? Antique stores are treasure troves of imagination; browse around in one and you'll be amazed how the ideas will gush from you.

Personalize it. Show someone a group photograph and odds are he'll look at himself first. Face it: everybody's convinced he's pretty important. So whenever possible, personalize your

Touch of Glamour

Make it easy to care for. Be sure that what you give is a gift — not a chore. Easy-to-wash, not-too-fragile materials are best. Otherwise, when you "gift" is picking up the pieces, polishing the metal or coaxing the dirt from the fabric — the thought of you and your "bright ideas" will dominate. Wrap it with flair. You can't tell a book by its cover, but a pretty cover makes you want to open the book. A gaily-wrapped package with fanciful ribbons can add glamour to any gift. There are many inexpensive materials on the market or, if you're not a do-it-yourselfer, your favorite store will do a masterful job at a nominal price.

There you have several sound ideas with which you can be the extraordinary person whose gifts are really "special." If you keep these ideas in mind when shopping, you'll buy extravagant gifts — and save!

Mrs. R. D. Boldt Marriage Announced

MANITOWOC — Miss Janis Maigatter and Richard D. Boldt exchanged wedding promises at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at First Lutheran Church. The Rev. Vernon Anderson officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Maigatter. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Boldt, route 2, Manitowoc, formerly of Appleton.

The couple's honor attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Van Landghen, sister and brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Economical Baking Soda Offers Household Saving

The dime's buying power has almost gone! Not too long ago it still had some stature, representing a subway ride, a cup of coffee, a head of lettuce. Today, what does it stand for? A single apple or orange or one and a half eggs. All that seems to stand between it and oblivion is your box of baking soda, which if you buy the halfpound size, can, depending on where you live, even leave you with change.

And that dime's worth of baking soda represents several dollars worth of savings if you use it to full advantage. Park a package in the bathroom for example, and you have a first-class dentifrice. . . one that's highly respected by dentists, or

Engagement Of Daughter Announced

A May 13 wedding is planned by Miss Mary Adele Lamers and Nicholas Kraft. The announcement of their engagement has been made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Lamers, route 4, Appleton. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kraft, 401 N. Mason St. The couple are employed by Miller Electric Manufacturing Co.

an equally first-class mouthwash which sweetens your breath as effectively as it does the refrigerator; or a top-notch deodorant when patted on dry as a powder. Use it for just these three purposes, and figure out what you save.

Safety Advantage

Equally substantial savings are yours if you put baking soda to work in the kitchen. Use it in place of a scourer on pots, pans, the sink, counter top and chopping board. Since it's a pure food product, it offers a safety advantage in these areas where contact with food is a stainless steel utensils, your silver flatware; the porcelain parts of the stove; the inside and outside of the refrigerator; for swabbing down walls and woodwork. In other words, substitute baking soda for products designed for specific cleaning purposes and you'll end up with a nice fat savings. And even though space is not involved in today's cost controversy, it will save you space, too.

New Officers Introduced at Church Party

Mrs. Darrell Bowman was introduced as the new president and Mrs. Marshall Mossholder, vice president, at the annual Christmas party of the women of First English Lutheran Church.

The group met Tuesday evening in the church fellowship hall. The Lord's Prayer, symbolized with candles, and a skit, "Six Days Before Christmas," were presented. Intern Neale Thompson spoke the invocation. Gifts were contributed to Lockin, decorations.

Stocking Stuffer

Stuff Dad's Christmas stocking with his favorite brand of tooth paste, hair dressing, shaving cream, blades, and good quality witch hazel.

Residents of Bethany Home, Waupaca. Rebecca Circle presented two linen tablecloths to the women of the church.

Mrs. Charles Kahler was assisted in planning the event by Mrs. Clarence Lautenschlager, program coordinator; Mrs. Robert Koerner, programs; Mrs. Marshall Mossholder, refreshments, and Mrs. Lloyd Thompson spoke the invocation.

Spring Rite Planned by Engaged Pair

Miss Kathleen A. Tock and Gregory J. Tuchscherer are engaged to be married. The announcement has been made by her mother, Miss Tock is the daughter of Mrs. Edwin Hamilton, 1025 S. Lawe St., and the late Leonard Tock. Parents of the bridegroom-elect are Mr. and Mrs. Gregory R. Tuchscherer, 642 Broad St., Menasha.

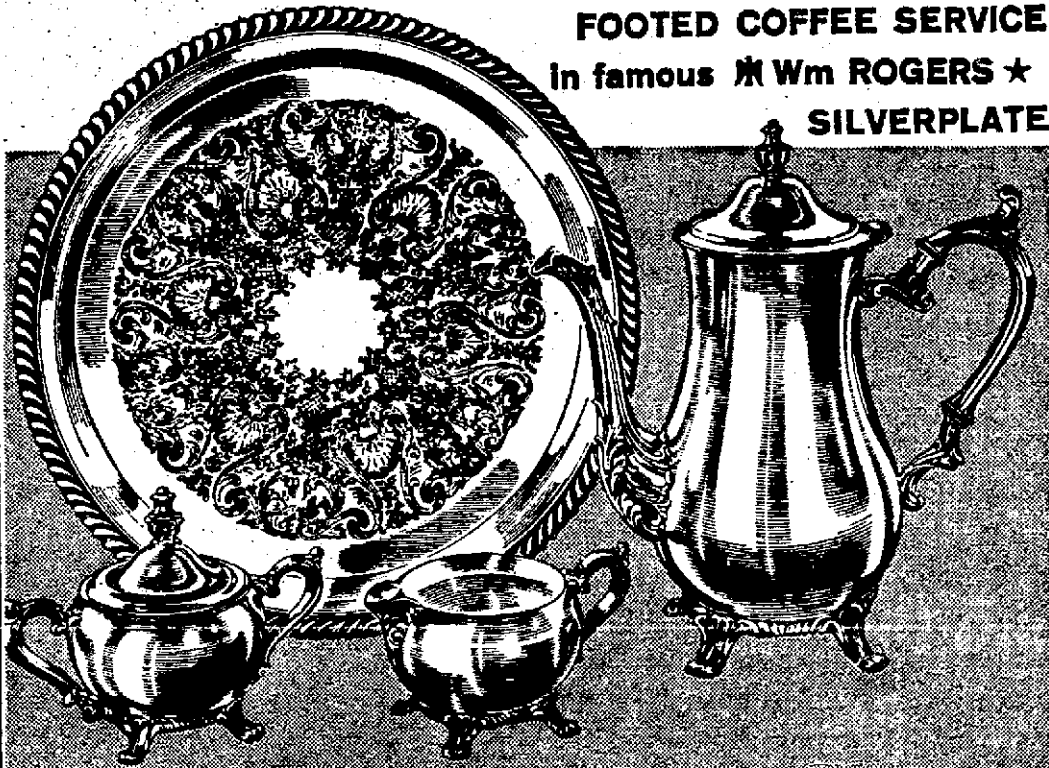

Miss Tock and her fiancé are employed by American Can Co., Menasha. The couple plans a May 20 wedding.

12 to Receive Coronets at Butte des Morts Dec. 27 Ball

For 12 Fox Cities young women and their families, part of the 1966 holiday glow will be cast by the Dec. 27 Coronet Ball at Butte des Morts Golf Club. With Christmas hardly tucked away for the year, the young women will don party gowns and be introduced to the adult membership of the club by their fathers or sponsors, and then, in festive season tradition, dance the evening away.

To receive coronets at the ball this year are Miss Dianne Catlin, Miss Patricia Mary Giffin, Miss Elizabeth Gilling, Miss Mary Jack, Miss Penny Lea Krampien, Miss Karlett Lynn Kuehn, Miss Kathleen Maria Manley, Miss Mary Anne McCanna, Miss Maryann Swain, Miss Trudy Theiss, Miss Penelope Ann Toal and Miss Gretchen Grace Trass.

The presentees and their guests will begin the gala evening with a cocktail party at the Giffin home, with the McCannas as co-hosts. They will then dine by candlelight in the card room at Butte des Morts.

Gold, Green, White

As the young women enter the ballroom for their introduction to Club President James Gustman and assembled guests, they will grace a decor carried out in gold, white and green. Champagne carnations will be used in floral arrangements and the stage background will be composed of white flocked Christmas trees, repeating the holiday decorations in the East Lounge. A large chandelier will be placed in the center of the ballroom, and, at one end of the room, a large topiary. A wreath with gold satin ornaments will adorn the opposite wall.

As is the custom, the presentees will invite couples to attend the dance as their guests.

At Madison

Miss Catlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Catlin Jr., 1614 S. Connel St., has chosen Paul David Wink as her party escort. A graduate of Appleton High School and a student at the University of Wisconsin, Miss Catlin will be presented to the melody of "Moon River". Her ball gown is of imported Italian silk, with a softly draped skirt and empire waistline. A panel falls from the squared back neckline and is accented with a self-bow.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Stuart Giffin, 609 S. Walnut St., will be introduced to the strains of "Some Enchanted Evening". Her party escort will be David James Sirling. Miss Giffin, a graduate of Xavier High School, is a student at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh. For her presentation she will wear a debutante white gown of peau de soie with an empire waistline and off the shoulder neckline. The self-applique at the neckline is fashioned to form tiny sleeves and is repeated at the hemline of the skirt.

Xavier Graduate

Miss Gilling, a student at Stout State University, Menominee, is the daughter of the Earl Gillings, 1631 Carver Lane. She will be presented to the music of "Summer Place" and has chosen James Koehnke as her ball escort. The young Xavier High School graduate will be gowned in a dress fashioned with an empire waist and modified A-line skirt. Imported Venice lace details the skirt and bodice.

A student at Prospect Hall,

Milwaukee, Miss Jack is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jack, 1423 W. Lorain Court. She was graduated in June from Xavier High School. Her party escort will be Gene S. Whittemore. To be introduced to the music of "Stay as Sweet as You Are", Miss Jack will wear a gown of satrapeau with an empire waistline and A-line skirt. Jewels and sequins form a motif at the waistline and are repeated at the hemline.

Lace, Pearls

Miss Krampien, daughter of Mrs. Nathan E. Burstein, 510 River Road, and George V. Krampien, 1737 Reid Drive, will be presented by Mr. Burstein and escorted by William True. A student at Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind., the Appleton High School graduate will be presented to the music of "Everything's Coming Up Roses". Her silk-faced peau de soie ball gown has a fitted bodice and softly shaped skirt, with motifs of Alencon lace embroidered with seed pearls on the bodice, waist and skirt.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Karl Kuehn, 313 Filmore St., Kaukauna, was a June graduate of Kaukauna High School and attends Carroll College, Waukesha. To be presented to the melody of "Tonight", Miss Kuehn will be escorted by Erik DeBruin. Her dress of silk and worsted is designed with elegant simplicity, with an empire bodice topping a gentle A-line skirt.

Neenah High

"The Shadow of Your Smile" is the song chosen by the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Manley, 579 E. Wisconsin Avenue, Neenah, for her Coronet Ball presentation. The Neenah High School graduate, now a student at Mary Mount College of Virginia, Arlington, Va., will be escorted by Joseph Sensenbrenner Jr. Her ball gown is a crepe chiara, with an empire bodice and jewel neckline.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Philip Roy McCanna, 1127 E. Grant St., will be escorted at the ball by James Gmeiner. "Satin Doll" is the song to which she will make her bow. A graduate of Xavier High and a student at Trinity College, Washington, D. C., she will be gowned in a sheath of silk crepe, with a cowl neckline and short sleeves.

Tiers of Lace

Miss Swaim, daughter of the Lloyd Swaims, 1062 Reed St., Neenah, is a student at St. Mary of the Woods College, Terre Haute, Ind. A Neenah High graduate, she will be escorted by Michael Dean Howlett. Her gown features tiers of lace ruffles cascading from a sleeveless empire crepe bodice with a bow-trimmed white velvet belt. Her song is "Somewhere My Love".

Miss Theiss will be introduced to the theme song from "Moulin Rouge". The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Theiss, 301 W. Prospect Ave., was graduated from Xavier High School. Her ball escort will be Thomas Kosiorek. Her gown is an embossed brocade with an oval neckline and bell skirt.

Studies in East

Also a student at Mary Mount College in Virginia, Miss Toal will be escorted at the ball by Peter Knutson. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Patrick Toal, 115 N. Green Bay Road, has chosen the song "More" for her presentation. Her brocade gown is styled with a scoop neckline and princess line skirt with back fullness. Bows grace the back of the neckline and the hemline of the skirt.

Miss Trass, a graduate of Kemper Hall, Kenosha, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Trass Jr., 749 Congress Place, Neenah. A student at Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, New York, she will be escorted by Read McNamara of New Milford, Conn. "Hello, Dolly" is the song she has chosen for her presentation. Her silk gown is a modified tent design with a square neckline in front and a back neckline set off by a row of rhinestone buttons.

After their presentations, the 12 young women will follow the tradition of the first dance with their sponsors. Then the ribbon enclosing the presentation area will be cut and the young women claimed by their escorts.

There are no post-ball parties planned this season.

Mrs. Raymond N. LeVee is Coronet Ball chairman and Mrs. Thomas Frawley, co-chairman.

Swedish Glogg Drink Warms Yuletide Guests

Glogg is Sweden's version of rather lack-lustre liquid called the wassail bowl. Each year, come Christmas-time, Swedes, wherever they may be, brew the simmering Scandinavian toddy and lift steaming mugs in toasts to health and good-fellowship.

The piquant concoction is a flaming blend of wine, spices, almonds and raisins, liberally fortified with an alcoholic ingredient. The result is a bracing cup which is considered quite efficient in relieving the chill of icy winter weather, and whatever the climate, a drink calculated to bring a glow to the cheek.

Recipe Varies

The recipe for glogg can vary just as many Americans are quite finicky about their personal formulas for the "perfect" martini, so Swedes have similar quirks in being able to mix the "foolproof" glogg. While such experimentation can lead to a complete spectrum of tastes, generally it is agreed that the chill-killing efficacy of the drink remains undiminished.

Glogg is pronounced 'glugg' — or if you prefer phonetics: 'gleugg'. Glogg can be traced through the Viking era, but any good Swede will tell you his stormy ancestors quaffed a thin,

than zesty glogg

Steaming Drinks

Actually the name "glogg" derives from the word "glodga" which means "to make glowing or red-hot." The word glod means "burning coals, embers"

In pre-automotive Sweden where trips, to and from church, or between villages, or between homes, were made by open sleigh in frigid weather, travellers were offered steaming drinks — usually hot, spiced wine — for reheating purposes. Travel methods have long since changed, but custom has not. As soon as Sweden's long, hard winters begin to set in, thoughts turn to glogg. During the Christmas season when families and friends exchange visits it is traditional to serve glogg.

Swedish Glogg

- 1 bottle Swedish aquavit, vodka, gin or brandy
- 2 bottles of burgundy
- 1/4 cup raisins
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon cardamon seeds
- 1/2 tablespoon whole cloves
- 3 cinnamon sticks
- 1 lemon peel slice
- almonds

Pour half the bottle of liquor and all of the burgundy into large sauce pan or a copper kettle. Add raisins and sugar. Tie spices in cheesecloth and drop into wine mixture. Cover pan, bring very slowly to boiling point and let simmer for 30 minutes (Don't taste!) Then add remaining part of liquor.

Remove from heat and bring in the brew to your guests. Set a match to the glogg and serve it "ignited." Use a long handle ladle and serve in egg nog cups or punch glasses. A good way to keep the second serving hot is to use a chafing dish as a serving bowl. For "ritual effect" turn out the lights in room before igniting glogg!

Control Trumps To Win
BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD
In many hands the key to success is to draw exactly two rounds of trumps before going on with your other plans. If you're violent with the key, however, it may break before you manage to open the door. South refused the first spade trick, shrewdly enough, but took round of trumps with the ace — and then he abandons trumps. South ruffs a spade in dummy, gets to his hand with a club and ruffs his last spade. The defenders get, in all, two trumps and the first spade — and South is spared his partner's sarcasm.

Daily Question
As dealer, you hold: S A 8 4 2, H A 7 5 3, D 7 4, C A J 3. What do you say?
Answer: Bid one club. If partner bids one diamond, you can bid one heart; but if partner responds first in a major suit you can raise to two of that suit. No response can embarrass you.

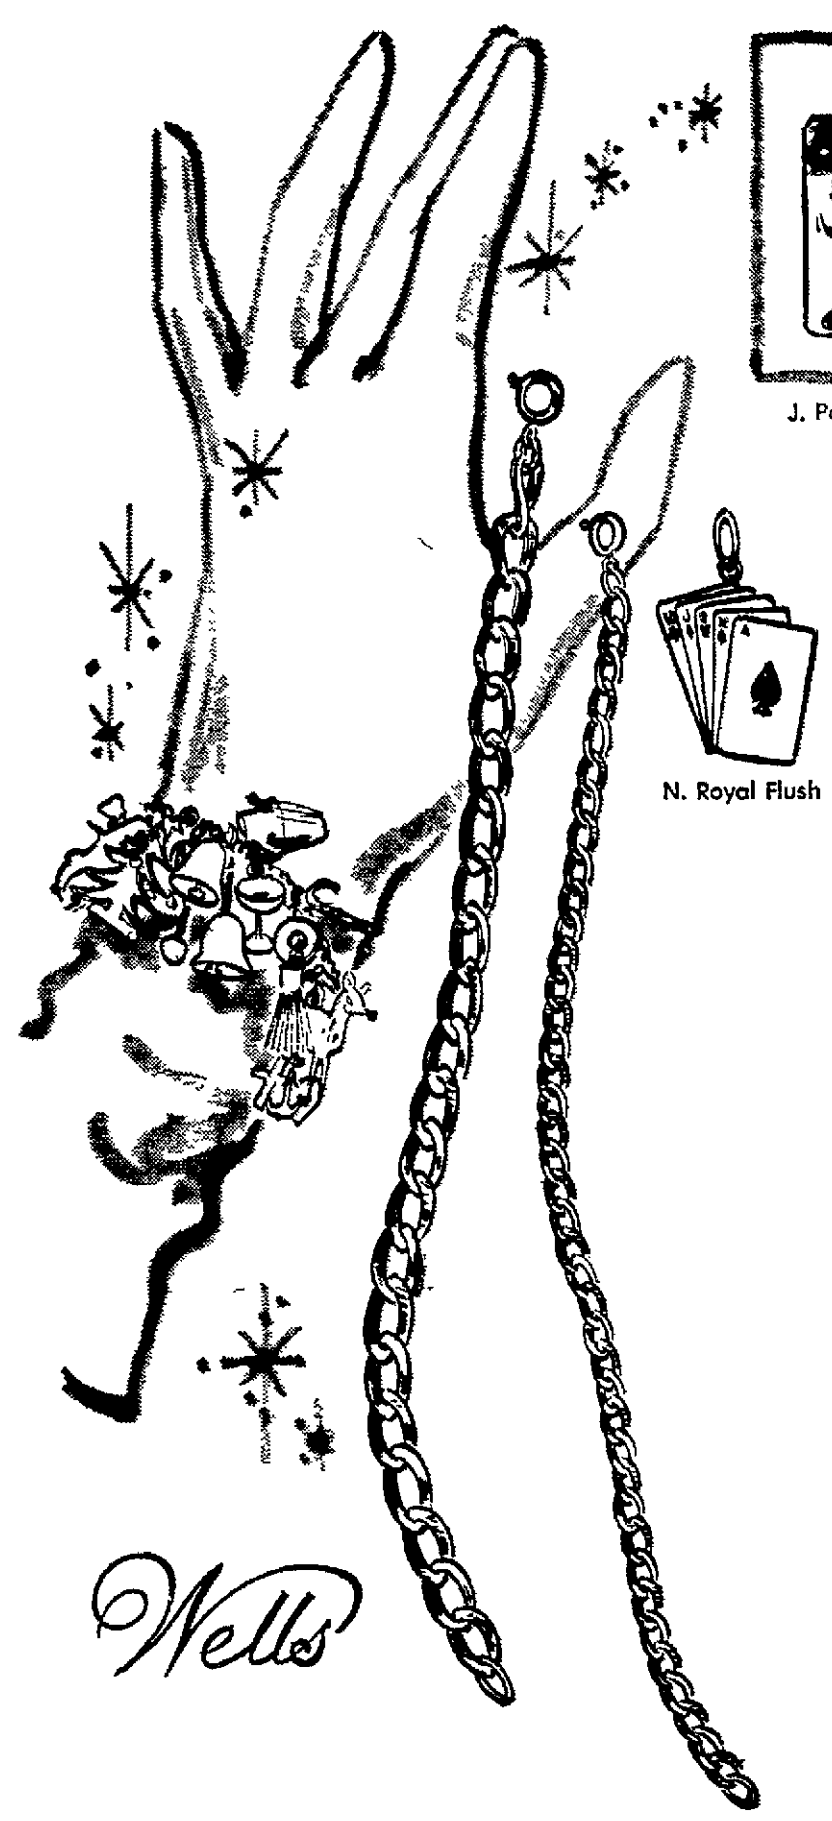

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM FOR CHRISTMAS

Los Angeles:—Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight or your waistline is larger than 32 inches, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.
Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A featherstitched panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem.
The girdle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of nylon, acetate and spandex. It is so comfortable, but has such slimming strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.
"Suddenly Slim," in both girdle and panty versions, is the peak achievement of the California designer-genius, Olga. They are available in our Foundation Dept.—Downtown Second Floor Fashions. 733-5511

the second trick with the ace of spades. After this promising start South went full speed ahead with the trumps, leading out the ace and then a low trump.
East won the second round of trumps and promptly drew a third trump, thus leaving only one trump in the dummy. South could ruff only one of his two losing spades and eventually had to give up the other spade for a loss of 100 points.
North was vaguely dissatisfied. "If you study the hand hard enough," he suggested, "you can probably find a way to go down two."
Should Make Contract
South can make the contract by drawing only two rounds of trumps. He wants to leave two trumps in dummy to take care of the two losing spades but he doesn't want to risk an over-ruff of dummy by a player who started with only two trumps.
After taking the second trick with the ace of spades, South should lead a low trump. No matter what is returned, South can draw exactly one more

Pretty Contractor Heads Ohio Excavating Firm

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — third year of school teaching when she changed careers. The 27-year-old boss of the Zimmerman Excavating Co. may be Ohio's prettiest contractor.

JoAnn Zimmerman, a former student at fashionable Bryn Mawr College, heads a contracting company in Mansfield inherited from her father, the late Joseph J. Zimmerman. Her mother is the firm's vice president.

Her decision to take over the company was made suddenly last February when her father died. But it was not surprising.

"I had wanted to go into the business when I was in school," she said, "but dad didn't feel it was the sort of thing a girl should do."

Had she really planned to prepare for contracting work she might have chosen engineering school rather than Bryn Mawr for two years. She did get a business administration degree from Ashland College. Miss Zimmerman was in her

The Ailing House Paint Rug To Keep Neat Edge

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: We have a fairly ancient Oriental rug which is beginning to ravel along the edges. It still looks nice, even though a bit worn. I don't feel much inclined to stitch a border to contain the raveling.

A: Paint a one-inch-wide stripe of pure, white, fesh shellac along the underside edges. When dry, place each edge over a plank and trim off any out-of-line tufts and threads with a razor blade.

Q: I know the two east windows in my living room are tight-fitting in their frames, because they have metal weather-stripping. There's never any draft, even in high winds. But water still leaks in somewhere around them and stains the wallpaper under the sills.

The windows may be tight fitting in the frame. But I'll bet the frames aren't tight-fitting in the siding. I suggest carefully going around them with a caulking gun. Undoubtedly when you plug between frame edges and the siding there'll be no more leakage.

Q: Was a friend right when he told me that gold and silver-colored metallic paint should not be used for radiators? Seems to be they would be best of all.

Your friend is right. Reason is that metallic paint tends to reflect heat. So it would reflect heat coming from the radiator back into it, rather than letting it out into the room. In fact, with metallic paint, you'll reduce the radiator's heating efficiency up to 15 per cent in some cases.

But if you already have metallic paint on your radiators, it's never necessary to remove it before repainting with regular paint. (Never really understood this myself, but it's true. Been proved many a time.)

This is no time for radiator painting. It must be stone cold from start to dried finish. Any heat will discolor the paint.

Q: The kitchen inlaid linoleum is still firm. But much use has worn several areas so much that the surface has become dull — so dull that even waxing gets nowhere. What can I do in this case?

A: Faithfully clean all traces of dirt and wax — particularly the latter. Then flow on one or two coats of top-quality floor and decking enamel. Linoleum takes paint very well.

Q: While the new electric range was being set into place, a heavy cast aluminum pan fell on it with enough force to knock off a good-sized chip, exposing the black underneath. Can this be successfully hidden?

A: Best repair is a touch-up with a porcelain repairing preparation made for this job. Unlike ordinary paints and enamels, this will not turn brown when the heat is turned on again.

A Lovelier You

Your Own Gift

Do you dream of finding a lovelier figure in the toe of your Christmas stocking? Most of us harbor a secret notion that a taking than usual. Only a kill-good figure really is a gift from a kind of super-Santa.

Well, it's a gift all right, but

What can be recommended is a small jeweled stocking to hang by the chimney, tagged with this message: "From Me to Me, a Diet and Exercise Program." Fill this treasure with diet menus, a calorie counter and spot exercises — anything you find that would be helpful to a trimming routine.

Then hang your stocking by the chimney and let it be a cheery reminder of the shape of things to come. On January 2nd, start using its contents and helping yourself to the supreme gift of a lovely figure in 1967.

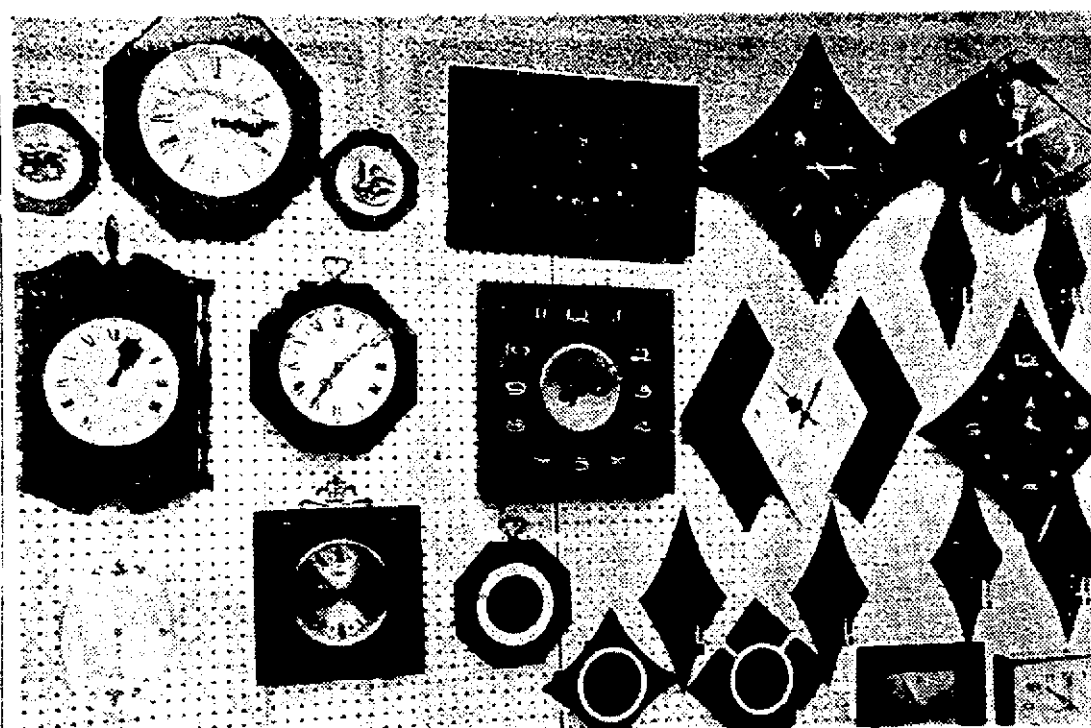

What's your figure problem? To acquire total attractiveness send for my booklet, "Secrets of a Lovely Figure." It contains easy ways to reduce weight and proportions; to overcome grooming problems, such as fuzz, freckles and blemishes; to move with grace and poise. For your copy write to Mary Sue Miller in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin.

it's self-given. Most certainly, help is to be found at exercise and massage salons. A gift certificate to either is a present of value.

But in the last analysis, figure improvement is a do-it-yourself proposition. You have to do the exercise and take the massage. If you want better proportions, To lose weight, you have to do the dieting. Advice on the subject is worthless unless you follow it.

Teacher Learns High Price Of Not Saying 'Present'

NEW YORK (AP) — A 23-year-old school teacher told Wednesday night at Kennedy airport after flying direct from Chicago to Rome and back to the United States — all in a period of less than 24 hours.

Just Waited

Susan Mary Carew, of 5100 West Quincy St., Chicago, said she had gone to the restroom on the plane when she felt the craft move.

"I just panicked and froze,"

Miss Carew admitted that when she felt the plane move she should have done something, but I didn't.

"Next time I'll just stand at the gate and wave," Miss Carew vowed in regard to any further bon voyage plans.

Miss Carew said the plane crew had radioed back to Chicago when they learned of her predicament, but were instructed to continue on to Rome.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rexford Carew of Chippewa Falls, Wis., paid for a round-trip ticket, which kept Alitalia Airline and Rome's Fiumicino Airport Security police from classifying her as a stowaway.

Miss Carew is a 1964 graduate of Eau Claire State University in Wisconsin, and has been teaching in Chicago for a year.

Pillow Blanks Easy To Decorate

Ready-to-cover latex foam throw pillow blanks are available in curtain and drapery departments of stores. Easier to use than loose fillings such as shredded foam, the one-piece blanks do not have to be enclosed in a muslin bag as do loose materials.

Zippered covers on the foam rubber blanks permit you to use the same core with different covers, changing with the seasons or when you alter your decor. The latex foam will not mat down or lose its shape, so your pillows look their best for years.

Latex Pillows Best

Foam latex pillows are a best buy now and in the months ahead, because the Viet Nam war has made feathers and down scarce and expensive. The latex foam pillows are cool for summer sleeping, and they are non-allergenic so hayfever sufferers often find them invaluable.

Auxiliary Tells Yule Projects, Plans Party

Yuletide service projects were discussed and planned when members of Harvey Pierre Post 2778 Auxiliary met Tuesday evening at the clubhouse. Mrs. Chris Christen and Mrs. Juel Boggess were hostesses.

It was reported that Christmas cards and gifts of stamps were sent to several area servicemen. The community service chairman announced that a gift has been sent to the City Home, and Christmas favors will be taken to the Family Heritage Home. Christmas gifts were given to Plamann School by members of the Junior Auxiliary. Saturday afternoon the group will go caroling at area hospitals.

Plans were made for the presentation of a flag to St. Matthew School.

Plans were made for the children's Christmas party scheduled at 7 p.m. Monday.

The organization's next meeting will be Jan. 10.

Toy Lures Owner Into Bathtub

Modern rocking horses — made of polystyrene with colors which cannot peel or flake off, and a surface which can be washed repeatedly with a sudsy cloth — can be used to teach children a valuable lesson.

By the time a little rider is three, he can be taught to "groom" his horse — and then be lured to the bathtub himself to emulate the cleanliness of his toy.

Sam Belinke Says . . .

Just one darn minute!

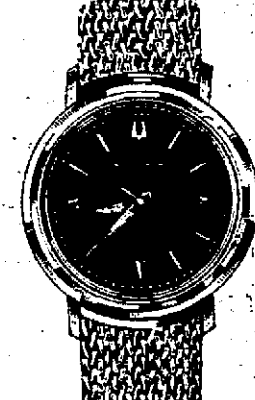

That's the most an Accutron® timepiece will gain or lose in one month's time. And we'll put it in writing.

Accutron looks like a watch. But it isn't. It doesn't have a mainspring, a hairspring, or a balance wheel.

These parts make a watch run fast or slow. Accutron has replaced them with an electronic tuning fork. It splits each second into 360 equal parts. And makes the Accutron timepiece so precise, it won't gain or lose an average of more than two seconds a day. In fact, we guarantee accuracy to within 60 seconds a month.* Just one darn minute.

Your Problems

Handy Husband Irritates Wife By 'Hands Off' Work Policy

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: One of the things I remember about my husband before we were married is that he was always so handy around the house — his mother's house that is. He fixed everything from her sewing machine to the septic tank. Single-handed he built a tool shed for his dad.

We have been married six years and I can't get him to do a solitary thing around here. We bought an old house at a very good price with the understanding that he would fix it up. What a fool I was to believe him. Everywhere I look I see things that need to be done.

Right now I am aggravated because the back door doesn't close properly and there's a 30-mile gale blowing through the kitchen. I've been asking my husband to fix it since June.

Is there a solution that I don't see? — Stymied

Dear Stymied: Please read the next letter and maybe you'll feel better.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am married to a man who is in the insurance business and we can well afford to hire repairmen when something needs fixing around here. My husband, however, has the notion that he is a mechanic, a carpenter and a master plumber. Most of my appliances are no longer working because of his botched-up handiwork. Every single faucet he has "fixed" worked better before he monkeyed with it. He has spent a fortune on tools and new parts and nothing he puts together is worth a tinker's damn.

Any advice? — Wife Of a Lummo

Dear Wife: Keep quiet and call in the repair squad after your husband has had his fun, because this is what he is doing. And it's not a bad hobby when you consider what some husbands do for recreation.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been keeping company with a certain boy for over a year. Eight months ago a Marine stationed in Vietnam wrote to our local newspaper asking for mail from his hometown. I wrote to him and we have been carrying on a lively correspondence ever since.

My boy friend read the first letter I received from the Marine and asked me to stop writing to him. I have not mentioned the Marine since and I'm sure he thinks I followed his instructions.

Now the Marine writes that he will be home next month and of course he wants to take me out. I am dying to go out with him, but I love my boy friend and I know he would never stand for my dating someone else. We plan to be married in a couple of years and I don't want to damage our relationship. You might say I want to eat my cake and have it, too. What is your advice? — Crazy Mixed-up Kid

Dear C. Mixed-Up: You have carefully avoided giving me two important facts. How old are you? Fifteen? Eighteen? Twenty-four? Also, is this boy friend your first, or have you dated others?

If you are 16 and have never gone out with anyone else, I strongly recommend that you date the Marine and any other young man who interests you. If you are 24, have had other boy friends and now are seriously considering marriage, forget about the Marine and devote yourself to the man of your choice.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright, 1966)

Campers Group Elects Officers At Yule Party

Edward Delrow was elected new president of Fox Cities Campers, a chapter of Wisconsin Campers Association, at the group's Christmas party and dinner Saturday evening at the Appleton Club.

Other new officers are Leonard Heiger, vice president; Arthur Greisbach, treasurer, and Mrs. Wilbert Merfield, secretary.

Members honored for their contributions to the chapter during the year were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Delrow, Leonard Geiger, Arthur Greisbach, Mrs. Donald Juedes and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Merfield.

Gifts were presented to children and white elephant gifts were exchanged by adults.

Fanciful Approach Adds Flourishes To Kitchen Tasks

Old-time recipe for homemade candy often used to call for working the candy on a marble slab. If there's no marble slab in your kitchen, use a large platter or a cookie sheet.

It's a good idea to toast slices of bread before spreading with seasoned ground beef and broiling. Cover the edges of the toast with the meat so they won't burn.

Bacon-wrapped chicken-liver halves, water chestnuts or pimiento-stuffed olives may be placed on the flat rack of a very shallow roasting pan and then be baked in a hot oven for about 20 minutes or until hot through and the bacon is crisp.

Toastmasters for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Miller.

Young Women Who Have worked throughout the year as members of the Y Pinafores at Outagamie County Hospital were officially 'thanked' at a supper and program Monday evening at the hospital. During the appreciation ceremony above are Georgia Wieseler, Mrs. Maxine Vanevenhoven, YMCA director of women's and girls' activities, Donna Uhlenbrauck and Donald Wetzel, activity director at the hospital. Husband With Ailing Wife Gets Deferment UTICA, Mich. (AP) — Thanks to his draft board, Tom Michaels will be at home for Christmas — and for a long time after that.

Draft Board 303 ruled Tuesday that Michaels, whose wife Mary needs him at home because of a kidney ailment, can have a 3A hardship deferment. "I feel bad for the people in Vietnam," Michaels said. "I feel bad in a way about getting out of going there."

The plight of Michaels, 22, and his 23-year-old wife drew national attention when he told board reclassified him 1A. His his draft board he couldn't fight for his country because he was fighting for his wife's life.

Mrs. Michaels had suffered a complete kidney failure. Doctors say her blood must be cleansed twice a week on a special kidney machine or she would die.

Hospital bills — now totalling $3,600 — piled up. The couple hoped to buy their own kidney machine, a $6,000 device, so Mrs. Michaels could be treated at home instead of at the hospital.

When Michaels quit college, and went to work as a painter to earn some money, the draft board reclassified him 1A. His first appeal failed. The second succeeded.

Other persons have chipped in to help the beleaguered couple. There was the letter from an Army sergeant in Vietnam who didn't sign his name. The sergeant said his wife had died from the same kidney ailment Mrs. Michaels suffers. He said Michaels shouldn't worry about "all the red tape," that he would get the deferment.

And there were the people who collected money, $6,600 in all, which will enable the Michaels to buy the kidney machine.

"Where but in this country could this happen?" asked Michaels. "My wife would probably be dead if we were anywhere but here."

Help Child Develop Healthy, Sound Attitudes About Sex

by DR. EVE JONES
Dear Dr. Jones: Ever since my 7-year-old son has been laughing at problems about sex. Yesterday, and carrying on like crazy, my son came home crying — the boy next door wouldn't play with him because my son dressed. When I ask why, all he says is that the boy next door thinks it's funny, too.

Because my son has often seen both his sisters, 5 and 3 years old, undressed and has not paid any attention to them like this, I haven't really worried much about why he finds the undressed doll so funny. But now it seems both my son and this older boy are having

It isn't unhealthy for children your son's age to clown about matters involving sex, so don't regard his antics over the nude doll as a sign of any serious emotional problem.

Take steps to enroll your son in pre-kindergarten, so he will have ample opportunity to play with age-mates.

It isn't wise to permit a child older than two to three years old to observe children of the opposite sex or adults unclothed. So make arrangements to insure greater privacy for all your children. Your son is obviously fascinated with matters concerning nudity, else he wouldn't be giggling over the doll; he probably doesn't dare let on to you that he's bothered by seeing his sisters unclothed. By removing this source of tension, separating him from his neurotic friend, and helping him come to better terms with his own feelings about sex, you'll be helping him develop healthy attitudes about sex that will be a sound foundation for the attitudes about love he will be forming in his later life. Congratulations for being attentive to the signs that he's confused and troubled right now.

Romney-Goldwater Split Hangs Over GOP

Reveal Barry Refused to Support Simple Civil Rights Statement in 1964

BY ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — An undisclosed conversation between Michigan's Gov. George Romney and Barry Goldwater's own running mate in 1964 puts a new cast on the Goldwater-Romney feud and its still-dangerous portents for the Republican Party.

Novak Evans

Rep. William Miller of New York, just nominated for the vice presidency, conferred briefly with Romney the night before the Hershey Republican summit meeting on Aug. 12, 1964. Romney showed him a civil rights statement prepared by Romney for Goldwater's approval. Miller read it, saw nothing obnoxious in it and indicated he would so advise Goldwater.

But Goldwater would not publicly approve the statement the next day — or ever. That is why Goldwater, despite his statements disavowing racism during the closed-door Hershey meeting, failed to win Romney's endorsement. Romney made approval of his civil rights statement a condition for his endorsement. Moreover, the fact that Miller had seemed to approve it made Romney doubly suspicious of Goldwater's silence.

The relevance of this bit of history today is the fact that recently published excerpts from the transcript of the Hershey summit meeting give quite another impression. These excerpts indicate that Goldwater did everything that could reasonably be expected of him to obtain Romney's endorsement. In fact, he did not do the one thing Romney asked.

Political Expediency
This 1964 echo from Hershey could influence the choice of the Republican nominee for 1968. Romney's non-support of Goldwater will become more palatable to party regulars if they regard it as based on principle and not, as the leaks from the Hershey conference suggest, on mere political expediency.

The story really goes back to the spring of 1963 when some of Romney's closest political advisers tried to convince him that right-wing Republican strategists planned to run Goldwater for President on the white backlash. At first incredulous, Romney gradually became disturbed by Goldwater's own statements on civil rights. He began pressing Goldwater for a personal conference.

What followed was a nine-months' cat-and-mouse game as Romney tried to interrogate

Goldwater and Goldwater kept backing away. In June, 1964, Romney publicly attacked Goldwater for the first time at the Governor's Conference in Cleveland. A month later at the National Convention in San Francisco, Romney's civil rights plan was beaten by Goldwater forces.

Only then, with the Republican Party split wider than at any time since 1912, did Goldwater belatedly invite Romney for a talk in his Washington apartment just before the Hershey summit. In that talk, Goldwater himself suggested that Romney write out a civil rights statement that Goldwater might subscribe to and thereby gain Romney's backing.

Goldwater Refusal
The statement that Romney brought to Hershey was scarcely so radical, but it might have caused trouble in Goldwater's southern stronghold. It said, in part: "The rights of some must not be enjoyed by denying the rights of others. Neither can we permit states rights at the expense of human rights."

But Goldwater refused to subscribe to the statement at Hershey.

The story does not end there. It has spread into the 1968 Presidential maneuverings. Concerned by Goldwater's incessant public sniping against him this year, Romney last fall toyed with the idea of releasing his now-famous 12-page letter of Dec. 21, 1964, to Goldwater explaining why he had not supported him. However, he decided against it last month, feeling it would only exacerbate his feud with Goldwater. To Romney's surprise the letter was made public by unknown persons shortly after the Nov. 8 election this year.

As if in reply, the partial transcript of the Hershey conference was also leaked, showing that Goldwater said he would "lean over backward" to avoid any taint of a racist campaign. This gave the impression that he had done everything possible to satisfy an intransigent Romney.

The facts are otherwise. As Republicans now face another two years of possible bloodletting, they should be asking not why Romney refused to endorse Goldwater but why Goldwater could not sign an innocuous civil rights statement in the summer of 1964 that would have done much to unify his party.

Two Departments To Administer New Manpower Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department and the Office of Economic Opportunity announced Wednesday the creation of a new jointly administered anti-poverty manpower program.

The announcement appeared to be a solution to the intra-agency battle in the OEO over the transfer of several new programs from the anti-poverty agency to the Labor Department.

Under the newly announced procedure, the Labor Department will operate the program but the OEO will monitor, evaluate and be responsible for the budget.

Trip Home Leaves House a Shambles

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — A high school senior returned home from class for a forgotten textbook recently, packed his car and ran in the house. As William Kneller, 17, walked through the living room, book in hand, he heard a thud, saw the picture window shatter and the car bumper poke inside. The car had rolled down an incline into the house. On its way, it also crumpled the gas meter, leaving the house heatless in 20-degree weather.

Early, Diagnosis, Care Curb Arthritic Crippling

The majority of 13 million Americans suffering from arthritis are homemakers and working women between the ages of 20 and 35, a national magazine has pointed out.

A new concept of the disorder is analyzed in an article which stresses the need for early diagnosis and proper medical care. Of more than 80 diseases affecting the joints, two are usually referred to as arthritis. One, called osteoarthritis, a degenerative disease usually associated with advancing age, is sometimes painful and disfiguring but rarely disabling. The other, called rheumatoid arthritis, is of greater concern for it cripples regardless of age.

Disease Destroys
"Rheumatoid arthritis may strike an infant of four months or may begin after age 70," explains one authority. "In many cases it manifests itself not only as a disease of the joints but also as a generalized constitutional illness. Its most damaging aspect is destruction of joint surfaces and bones... with associated changes in the tendons, ligaments and muscles. The result is considerable deformity and disability."

The article explains that among rheumatoid arthritis victims are young mothers who have just given birth, or who are run-down from illness or overwork, and those who are already weak and fatigued, physically sick or worried sick, under par or under strain.

Gains Firm Hold
It can strike suddenly and violently, but usually it creeps up slowly, afflicting its victims gradually without alarming them to the point that they seek medical help — till the disease already has a firm hold.

Compared to the more than $250 million that American arthritis sufferers annually pour down the drain for worthless and misrepresented arthritis remedies and quack treatments, the less than $15 million a year spent directly for arthritis research is hardly impressive. Yet there are now encouraging signs that the campaign against rheumatoid arthritis is being stepped up. It is now the stated view of the Arthritis Foundation, which plays a major role in every phase of the battle, that the question is no longer whether arthritis will be controlled but when.

Big Snow Didn't Blow This Party

By KELLY SMITH
WASHINGTON (AP)—What's a guy do when he is snowbound miles from Washington only hours before he is to be a guest at a White House dinner?

Panic, says bandleader Duke Ellington. Take a 200-mile taxi ride, says producer Stanley Young. Eat a tuna-fish sandwich, says director Mike Nichols.

It happened to all of them — and some 30 more — before Tuesday night's Christmas dinner President and Mrs. Johnson gave in honor of the National Council on the Arts.

It turned out to be a merry holiday party.

Shop Talk
Leonard Bernstein was there sipping champagne. Lynda Bird Johnson waltzed with Hubert H. Humphrey. The President cornered actor Gregory Peck. To talk politics?

Peck has been suggested as the Democrat's answer to Republican Ronald Reagan, also an actor and newly elected governor of California. "A joke," Peck says of such suggestions.

President Johnson invited the musicians, artists, actors and producers to the White House to thank them for helping rid the country of "dime store culture."

"There is hardly a nation not enriched by our culture today," he said. He pledged government effort "to develop our artistic talents to the fullest, to distribute the fruits of that talent to all Americans, rich and poor."

About the time the President was speaking, the Stanley Youngs of New York drove up at the White House after a taxi ride from New York. They paid the $150 fare, rushed inside and ate on silver trays in the Red Room.

Not Flying
Like others, the Youngs discovered too late that heavy snowfall had grounded all planes to Washington.

Ellington took a train from Bluefield, W. Va. and after no sleep for 36 hours arrived in Washington without his dress tuxedo. He called the White House from the station at 7:30 and was told, "Come as you are." He did, in a blue shirt and black suit.

Director Nichols started cut from Los Angeles, was detained in Pittsburgh, and finally arrived at 10 p.m. in time for the after dinner entertainment of a play and chamber music, champagne and dancing.

At 1:30 a.m., when the dancing stopped half a dozen guests were still to arrive. "I think we lost some on the New Jersey Turnpike," quipped the First Lady's press secretary, Elizabeth Carpenter.

Heroes' Rings in Spots Of Honor at West Point

By JEAN HELLER
WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — One was at San Juan Hill, another at Corregidor and another in Vietnam. One never left the Plain.
Today, they share a common home, a field of blue velvet behind glass at the United States Military Academy. They are class rings, and they span a century of American history; a century of American heroes.

Many are so severely worn, with stones so badly chipped and cracked that the seal is no longer legible. Some are on public display at the school's museum.

Others are in the school's library, to which the public is not admitted.
One of the badly worn rings belonged to Capt. John M. Stoenburg, Class of 1881. Why the ring is so battered, what adventures it had seen, can only be imagined. But the stories of the owners of some of the rings are well known.

Dennis Mahan Michie
There was Dennis Mahan Michie, who enrolled at West Point in 1888 and almost immediately began trying to convince academy officials that the school needed a football team. He got his team, was its captain and — while he was still a cadet — was the team's first coach.

And then came the Spanish-American War. Michie landed as a first lieutenant with the 17th Infantry on the shores of Cuba and, on June 1, 1898, Michie and more than 8,000 other soldiers made the famous charge up San Juan Hill.

Michie never returned. But his class ring did, to a place of honor in the West Point Museum. And the academy's football field is named Michie Stadium in his memory.

General of the Army Douglas MacArthur's ring is there, too. It was with him when he inspired his outmanned, poorly equipped troops at Luzon. It fell back with him to Bataan and then to Corregidor.

Japanese Advances
And it went with him to Australia when he received orders from President Franklin D. Roosevelt to leave the Philippines as the Japanese pressed relentlessly to capture them.

"I shall return," he vowed. And he did — in October, 1944. Also there is the ring that belonged to Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, Class of 1906, the man history and MacArthur left in the Philippines to fight for the precious time the United States needed to prepare to strike back.

James P. Spruill got his ring and his commission from West Point in June, 1954. Eight years later, as a captain, he was in Vietnam.

From 1962 to 1964, he wrote a series of letters to his wife and children, letters which were cheerful and optimistic. Spruill wrote that he had great confidence in the little people of the tiny, war-racked country, confidence that they could and would survive.

But he didn't.
And He Died
"Chin up! See you soon," he wrote home early in 1964. — And then he was dead. And in Charge Parents In Child's Death

2 From Milwaukee Allegedly Failed To Care for Child

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A young mother and father whose child died, the medical examiner said, of malnutrition and starvation, were charged Tuesday with neglect of a child resulting in death.

Paul Andreae, 23, and his 18-year-old wife, Bonnie, were named in warrants in connection with the death of their 8-month-old baby Monday.

Dr. Helen Young, Milwaukee County medical examiner, said that the baby, Bradley, weighed 7 pounds 2 ounces at birth and only 10 pounds when he died.

Mrs. Andreae was quoted as telling investigators that she saw the baby alive in the play pen at 6 a.m. Sunday, then fell asleep, and when she looked at him at 10 p.m., he was dead. Andreae said he gave the baby a bottle at 10 a.m. before leaving the house.

Woman Is Cautious of Hearing Aid Salesmen

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: This letter is to inform elderly people — or others — that hearing aids are not always a benefit. I have had a sad experience, spending several hundred dollars for an aid which is of no benefit. I used to think hearing aid people were like a doctor — one could have faith in their advice.

Dr. Molner

This is not true! Many are salesmen pressing for a sale. They seemingly hold out a promise to the hard of hearing. Their words are carefully chosen. I would warn anyone: Do not buy a hearing aid if it cannot be tried out first. There are a few companies where this can be done. — Mrs. G. N.

Your warning is worth heeding, although it is only fair to add that there are sharpshooters selling all manner of products, from vacuum cleaners to house repairs.

There are so many ways of evading laws that we must be on our guard against unscrupulous operators. (The Better Business Bureau is always interested in finding out about such trickery.)

When it comes to hearing aids, my advice is to see your doctor first, and if he suggests going to an ear specialist, by all means do so.

Some hearing problems are best corrected by surgery. Others cannot be helped that way, but can be improved with a hearing aid. Some hearing defects are such that no method can help, and the patient is best advised to learn lip-reading.

An ear specialist is qualified to decide which is best for you, and if he recommends a hearing aid, he also can see that you go to a reputable firm.

In my experience there are hearing aid companies which are eminently fair and responsible, and measure your hearing needs with skill.

They do not, however, take the place of your doctor.

Dear Dr. Molner: I had a bad pain under my heart all night and in the morning broke out with a strip about two inches wide from the breastbone around to my spine. It looked like red raspberries. The doctor said it was shingles. What causes this? — V.C.

It is a virus infection of a nerve trunk. It usually looks as you have described it, and may look like red raspberries but is a whole lot more painful. For more detailed explanation, probable duration, and an outline of what can be done, I suggest reading my booklet on shingles. You can obtain a copy by sending 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the age limit for one to enter medical school? — J.R.C.

The average is about 22, but a student's background and scholastic record are more important than age, and I doubt that any school has any rigid rule as to youth.

Many, however, will not take beginning students past the age of 30 unless some unusual motive is involved — for example, someone in the space program needing medical training to carry on his work. For ordinary purposes it will be at least five years before a student can become a practicing physician, and more than that if he becomes a specialist.

Badger Aide, McGee, Takes Offensive Line Post at Minnesota

BY JAMES R. POLK
MADISON (AP)—Wisconsin's two rivals for head football coach went separate ways Wednesday with Mike McGee, the man who didn't get the job, moving on to Minnesota and John Coatta, the man who did, announcing the rest of the staff would stay intact.

Neither development came as a surprise. Coatta had been considered certain to remain faithful to his fellow assistants when he was elevated from the ranks of the football staff last Friday to succeed his former boss, Milt Bruhn.

The 28-year old McGee, also among the nine announced finalists for head coach, had been expected to seek opportunities elsewhere if he didn't win the job Coatta got.

Minnesota's athletic director, Marsh Ryman, announced McGee had been nominated to fill a vacancy as offensive line coach, subject to approval by the university's regents Jan. 13. That development followed by only a few hours Coatta's announcement that he would keep assistants Harland Carl, Roger French, Les Ritcherson and Derald Teleak and Freshman coach Vern Van Dyke.

Carl, French, Ritcherson and McGee had come to Wisconsin this season in a major revamping of the football staff. Coatta himself had joined the staff only a year earlier.

Coatta's action meant keeping the new team intact while his promotion meant the final step in breaking up the old gang that had come to Wisconsin in 1949 with Ivan Williamson, now the athletic director.

Two assistants had been moved to the inside office in 1955 and Bruhn became the final member of the gang to leave the field when he resigned under fire this fall. One of those assistants, Fred Marsh, was named by Coatta Wednesday as coordinator of football recruiting for Wisconsin.

Youth and Promise
With the transition smoothly completed, Coatta will begin the 1967 season with a combination

Wrightstown	0	2	49.0	75.0
OA—Offensive Average. DA—Defensive Average.

The three leaders in the Little Nine Conference basketball race will play on their home court Friday night.

The hottest club in the league, Brillion, plays host to winless Wrightstown, Shiocton entertains Winneconne, and Denmark travels to Reedsville.

Freedom, without a victory in four games, invades Omro, and Hortonville takes on Hilbert on the Wolves' hardwood.

A pre-season choice of no better than a fourth-place finish, the Brillion Lions are off to a fast start. They are the fifth-ranked small school in the Associated Press' first state poll.

Unlike the other co-holders of first place — Shiocton and Reedsville — the Lions have routed their two conference foes. Brillion has romped over Omro, 85-70, and Denmark, 95-80. The Lions also own 81-54 and 81-43 victories over Stockbridge and St. Nazianz. St. Gregory in non-league play.

Big gun for the Lions has been 6-1 senior Russ Rohrdanz, who tops the individual point race with 56 points. The Lions' Russ Hansen and Walt Boeder are also in the circuit's top 10.

A big surprise in the conference has also been Shiocton. The Chiefs, who didn't win a game a year ago, have scored successive victories over Freedom (64-53) Wrightstown (64-61) and Stockbridge (66-65). Whether the Chiefs are for real should be determined Friday, when they meet a hungry Winneconne five.

Griese Says Turning Point for Purdue Came During Loss to MSU

By RON GILBERT KOKB Associated Press Sports Writer LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Quarterback Bob Griese figures the turning point in Purdue's Rose Bowl season came in the second half of a losing—not a winning—game.

Michigan State's powerhouse was dishing it out and had Purdue down 21-0 at the half on that October afternoon at East Lansing.

"But we didn't give up," Griese said. "We scored 20 points in the second half."

Those 20 points weren't nearly enough and Purdue fell 41-20. But the Boilermakers had proved something to themselves.

"We weren't feeling very good, but we could live with ourselves," Griese said. "We knew we could come back."

And they did come back, spectacularly against Illinois the next week. Then they shut out Wisconsin and Minnesota and crushed Indiana to wrap up the Rose Bowl bid, which undefeated Michigan State couldn't take for a second straight year under Big Ten rules.

Had Let Down Purdue had let down in each of two previous seasons after losing to the Spartans, dropping the next game each time.

History almost repeated itself. Purdue trailed Illinois 21-10 after three periods, and Griese had five passes intercepted—almost half his season total. But he shook that off and threw two fourth-quarter touchdown passes for a 25-21 victory.

Griese's total dedication to excellence in handling a football may be the primary reason Purdue finally is going to the Rose Bowl. He pursued his skills methodically, especially his passing, all year and year after year.

"I worked all the last three summers on passing," the Evansville, Ind., native said.

"That's the best time to get your arm in shape. I threw to anybody I could get to work with me. Guys on the team were around the last two summers, when I was here in summer school."

Griese's Purdue career records include 348 of 609 passes completed for 4,402 yards. This last season he completed 130 of 215 for 1,749 yards and 12 touchdowns, with 11 interceptions.

He has been a great runner and kicker also. This year, he carried the ball 71 times for 215 yards, third high on the squad, and scored six touchdowns. He also kicked 33 extra points in 37 tries and four field goals in six attempts and led the team in scoring with 81 points.

Griese expects to play professional football after being graduated next June, but his eggs aren't all in that basket.

"I can fall back on my degree or go to graduate school," he said. "There are good jobs in my field."

His field is industrial management.

final against the Rams at Los Angeles.

Coach Vince Lombardi has indicated he'd like to rest his quarterback and the Packers already have won the Western Conference title.

"It takes awhile to get well, or to get better," Starr said. "But I'll be ready for the NFL championship."

Asked if he had expected pro football to become as big as it is today, the quarterback answered, "No," and then explained that he really hadn't thought about that much back in 1956. He was too happy with the opportunity of reporting to a pro camp.

"I'm grateful to be a part of the game," he said. "It's a great challenge and a great life. Love it . . . just fantastic."

Only 3 Interceptions Starr will be 33 on Jan. 9 and has enjoyed his best season of the 11 he's played with Green Bay. He's completed 62.2 percent of his throws with a fantastic record of only three interceptions in 251 attempts.

He can eat up yardage with a ball control offense or shake a defense with an accurate bomb.

Against San Francisco on Dec. 4, Starr had a third down and inches situation on his own 17. He surprised everyone with a pass to Carroll Dale, which went for a touchdown on the 83-yard play and propelled the Packers to a 20-7 victory.

That bit of strategy coupled with Starr's performance the rest of the game, caused Coach Jack Christiansen of the 49ers to comment:

"Bart Starr is probably the best quarterback in football today and before he gets through, which I hope is soon, he may be recognized as the greatest of them all."

The Packers' veteran also leads the NFL in average yards gained at 8.99, by destroying the theory that most of his passes are of the conservative nature for short yardage. However, he has thrown only 14 touchdowns.

Starr is a master at running coach Vince Lombardi's game plan. He can eat up the yardage with a ball-control offense or shake up the defense with an accurate bomb to a Carroll Dale.

When Starr was injured last week in Baltimore, Zeke Bratkowski did a fine job of filling in as the Packers won in the second half. But it has been Starr at the helm all season building up that fine record that enabled Green Bay to clinch the Western Conference title and a berth in the NFL title game Jan. 1.

"He's almost mechanical in his perfection," said guard Jerry Kramer. "That doesn't keep him from surprising other teams with his play-calling."

It wasn't always that way for Starr, who came to Green Bay from Alabama in 1956. He broke in behind Tobin Rote and finally won the No. 1 job in 1961 after sharing it with Babe Parilli and Lamar McHan. He has led the Packers to league championships in 1961, 1962 and 1965.

Starr Still Reluctant To Talk About Himself

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service
PALO ALTO, Calif. — The toughest thing in this racket of reporting the happenings of the Packers is trying to get Bart Starr to talk about himself.

Word that the Packers' quarterback had just been named player of the year in the National Football League and on the Associated Press' first offensive team made its way around the Pack's headquarters at Rickie's Motel Wednesday afternoon.

Starr was getting a heat treatment for his sore ribs from trainer Bud Jorgensen and watching television, all at the same time. This is a new use for the boob tube and, in Bart's case, takes the mind off that heat, which gets quite hot.

When you talk to Starr about such things — any of his individual accomplishments, he doesn't talk about himself. He talks about the Packers, the team, and Coach Vince Lombardi.

This is a tribute to the stuff Starr is made of. He started talking:

'Very Humble'

"I am very humble about anything of this type. I mean that truthfully. It would be better to cut up something like this and pass it around to each member of the team.

"This is our philosophy. It is not how much it benefits the individual but how much it benefits the team. That's the only thing that really counts.

"As I said before I am very proud and grateful but it really should be a team thing. And I realize there are a lot of players in the league deserving of the award."

Bart was asked about his "competition" with John Unitas, the Colts' great quarterback. There is no competition with Unitas, of course, in Bart's mind but the fans and press, radio and TV people are continually comparing the two stars.

Starr has passed Unitas in wins, championships and in passing. This is a matter of record and it makes Starr what we in the field of public print call "No. 1."

Starr looks at it this way and again he recognizes the team:

"We have the type of team that is ideally suited to my type of quarterbacking. We have a great defensive team that continually gives the ball back to us with interceptions and fumbles recovered.

"And I'm probably a better medium thrower than I am a long thrower and, with the defense getting the ball for us all the time, we can play ball control."

"Unitas, on the other hand, had to carry the team all by himself. I can appreciate what a burden it is to carry a team and I'm not so sure I could do that myself. It's a tribute to Unitas that he can do this."

6 Mat Teams Will Compete In Kaukauna

KIMBERLY — The Kimberly High School wrestling squad takes on Green Bay West here at 7:45 p.m. today in its last home dual match before the holidays. A jayvee meet begins at 6:30.

The Papermakers will also be in action Saturday in a triple dual meet at Kaukauna. At 10:30 a.m. Kimberly will take on Neenah, while Menasha wrestles Kaukauna. At noon, Kimberly takes on Menasha, and Neenah faces Kaukauna. The final matches of the day pit rivals Neenah against Menasha, and Kaukauna against Kimberly at 3.

Gutzman Wins AP Prep Honor

'Player of Week' Award Based on Two Performances

MILWAUKEE (AP). — Dennis Gutzman, who sparked unbeaten Green Bay West to two successive come-from-behind basketball victories last weekend, has been named Associated Press Wisconsin high school "Player of the Week."

Gutzman scored 23 points, including the decisive final three in a 55-52 defeat of Manitowoc Friday and 22 points, including six of the last eight, in a victory over Green Bay Southwest Saturday by an identical score.

He took a total of only 26 shots in both games but scored on 17 of them while hitting with 11 of 12 free throws. He also hauled in a total of 25 rebounds.

Gutzman, an All-Wisconsin football player, won "Player of the Week" honors in football in 1965. He is only the second high school athlete to be honored in both sports. Bobby Koch of Marshfield Columbus won both awards in 1965-66.

The 6-foot-2 200-pound senior helped unbeaten West extend its Fox River Valley Conference winning streak to 22 games—a record-tying achievement. It also boosted West past Manitowoc into the conference lead. The Ships were preseason favorites to win the crown.

"When we need the point, we give him the ball," said West Coach Bob Kloss, who described Gutzman as an athlete with a knack for the big play.

Gutzman would like someday to enroll in medical school. He is an "A" student now, Kloss said, without making any great effort with the books.

"If he gets a 'B,'" Kloss said, "It's a calamity."

Ryun Looks for 3:50 Mile To be Run in Near Future

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Ryun, the shy 19-year-old University of Kansas runner who set world records for the half mile and mile this year, looks for the almost unbelievable 3:50 mile in the near future.

"If not in 1967 maybe in 1968," he said. "You have to remember there are some good milers who are knocking at it now."

"Michel Jazy's 3:36.3 for 1,500 meters is just about the equivalent to my 3:51.3 for the mile. There are two Germans, Jurgen May of East Germany and Bodo Tumlal of West Germany, who have done 3:36 and a fraction."

Two Iowa State Players Dropped After Arrest

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Athletic Director Gordon Chalmers said Wednesday two Iowa State University football players have admitted their part in a shoplifting incident at Fort Collins, Colo., and have been dropped from the team.

The players were not named. Football coach Clay Stapleton said earlier he was investigating a complaint that two or three members of the Cyclone squad were involved in a shoplifting incident Nov. 26 shortly before the Colorado State game.

Chalmers said two "had the guts to come forward and admit their part." He said one or two others may be involved and indicated the investigation is continuing.

Retson's and Hustlers Sweep Three Games

Retson's Sandwich Shop (18-3) and the Hustlers continue to lead the Appleton Recreation Department's Volleyball League. Each posted three straight victories. Retson's handed Reetz's Supper Club, while the co-leading Hustlers rapped the Kodiaks.

Reetz's (12-9) slipped into a tie for second with the Audibles as a result of its three losses. The Audibles whipped Slim Otto's thrice.

Acquire 'No Neck' Williams

White Sox Feel They Have 'Another Minnie Minoso'

By JERRY LISKA
CHICAGO (AP). — The Chicago White Sox think they may have "another Minnie Minoso" in outfielder Walter No-Neck Williams, a minor league hitting terror they obtained in a four-player deal with the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday.

The White Sox sent veteran catcher Johnny Romano and a farm club pitcher, Lee White, to the Cards for Williams, 23, Pacific Coast League batting champion this year with Tulsa, and Don Dennis, 24, right-handed Card reliever the past two seasons.

White, 19, a left-hander, goes from the Sox' Winterhaven club in the Florida State League to the Cards' Little Rock, Ark., farm club.

"We let Romano go because we feel we have a surplus in the Texas League, his .330 catchers," said Ed Short, Sox general manager.

"Young Duane Josephson, our runs and 189 hits.

Indianapolis rookie who batted third in the Pacific Coast League with .324 compared with Williams' leading .330, will get a real good catching shot next season.

"And we still have seasoned J. C. Martin and Gerry McNertney, who shared time with Romano."

Short said Williams, right-handed hitter, whose stubby, 5-foot-7, 185-pound build earned Pacific Coast League batting champion this year with Tulsa, and Don Dennis, 24, right-handed Card reliever the past two seasons.

In 1964, Williams hit .318 for the Cardinals. In 1965, for Tulsa, then in the Texas League, his .330 was second high in the league and he led the loop with 106 runs and 189 hits.

Duke Cancels Games With South Carolina

Feud Stems From Eligibility Case Of Mike Grosso

DURHAM (AP) — Duke University says it will refund money, on request, for any returned tickets to the South Carolina-Duke basketball game that had been scheduled for next Monday in Durham. Duke Wednesday cancelled both its cage games this season with the Gamecocks.

Duke may arrange a replacement game for Monday. In that event, said H. M. (Red) Lewis, business manager of athletics, ticket-holders will have the option of being admitted on the original tickets.

The cancellation of the games was part of a continuing controversy over the eligibility of South Carolina's sophomore basketball standout, Mike Grosso.

The Atlantic Coast Conference, at its winter meeting last Friday, announced that member schools which considered it inadvisable to play on the Gamecock court this season could either try to reschedule the games for a neutral court or, failing that, cancel. The same option was granted South Carolina. The Duke-South Carolina game at Columbia had been scheduled for Feb. 11.

Cooling-Off Period
In announcing the cancellations, Duke Athletic Director Eddie Cameron said, "We are not mad, but it is the feeling of the Duke administration that this incident has grown out of proportion and a cooling-off period is desirable." He also said that Duke considered games on neutral courts infeasible.

Grosso, 6-9, 230-pounder from Raritan, N.J., and stormcenter of the controversy, was declared ineligible last October by the ACC Executive Committee. Dr. Ralph Fadem of North Carolina State, the ACC president, later said irregularities in admissions procedures were behind the ruling.

Tiny Superior State Guard Named WSUC Player of the Week

MADISON (AP). — Jim Sevals, Superior's 5-foot-5 captain, has been named the Wisconsin State University Conference's basketball player of the week, the league said Wednesday.

Sevals netted 37 points against Platteville and 34 against Whitewater in recent games as the Yellowjackets moved into a first place tie with Oshkosh. Sevals was the conference's high scorer last season with 436 points.

Other nominees for the weekly citation included Ron Hayek of Oshkosh, Bill Wessenberg of Stevens Point, Larry Johnson of Eau Claire and Gary Olson of Platteville.

Jingo's Dander's Up; Angry at Art Critics

Says Paine Center's Rockwell Exhibition Treated Unfairly on 'Focus,' by Teachers

BY JINGO

At various times, Jingo has been praiseful, caustic, sarcastic, observant, analytical, satirical, cute, dull, disappointed, overjoyed, frustrated, satisfied, stupid and myriad of others. Today he is angry.

Jingo

In his quest for the better offerings on television Jingo turned to Channel 5's "Focus" series Tuesday evening to watch a show devoted to the Norman Rockwell exhibition currently shown at Paine Art Center, Oshkosh. Not aware of what the show's format would be, Jingo expected and hoped for a colorful panorama of examples of Rockwell's works, with appropriate explanations by a qualified person in the field of art. Imagine his surprise when the half-hour special turned into an analysis of Rockwell's legitimacy as an artist or illustrator, whichever term one prefers.

Though surprised at the approach, Jingo STILL expected a logical critique of America's foremost magazine illustrator. It was not forthcoming.

Instead, two art faculty members at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh proceeded to devote their comments to making it perfectly clear just how lacking Mr. Rockwell is as an artist.

Decidedly Out-of-Line

Even that didn't turn Jingo off, though it seemed a bit out of line for a "public service" series to tear apart the prestige of a famous man based solely on the opinions of two teachers.

What really rubbed Jingo the wrong way were the methods used to "analyze" Rockwell's works. Jingo couldn't believe his ears when the two WSU-O instructors began comparing Rockwell to Vermeer and Rembrandt, eventually arriving at the conclusion that Rockwell has something less to offer than those earlier artists — two of the greatest ever to paint a canvas.

After all, Rockwell is primarily an illustrator whose work is most familiar to the masses through The Saturday Evening Post. One just does not — logically, at least — determine whether what such a man does is good by contrasting his works with artists whose intentions vary more than black differs from white.

A few more Contrasts

Would anybody take seriously the critic who arrived at the conclusion that an Agatha Christie novel is unacceptable because it fares poorly when compared to Shakespeare?

Or the music reviewer who said Frank Sinatra has no value because he's not as good as Leontyne Price?

Or the television special on cats that said they are undesirable as pets because they don't bark or bury bones?

Or the movie commentator who said "Virginia Woolf" failed artistically because "Oklahoma" had pretty songs? And on and on — but the point is good enough.

Give Jingo a Reason

Why then would someone compare poor old contemporary illustrator Rockwell, whose life-time works have generated more joy to more people than any current artist, with Vermeer and Rembrandt? Please let me know. And don't say it's because both Rockwell and Vermeer did portraits in a studio; or because both Rockwell and Rembrandt painted a picture of somebody's head. Give me a solid reason with artistic logic behind it that thousands of persons who have filed through Paine's doors to enjoy Rockwell could understand.

If any of those visitors to Paine saw the "Focus" program, they certainly learned one thing: Rockwell is "common" and paints "ordinary" subjects — that point was drummed home many times. Tell Jingo: Does that make him a bad artist?

Rockwell may not "bark" or "bury bones," but he "purrs" well.

UW Center Chorus To Give Christmas Music Program

The University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center chorus will present its annual Christmas Concert and Carol Sing at 8:15 p.m. Friday in the Center Fine Arts Theater.

The public is invited to attend the free program, which in the past has been one of the most popular Center events.

Directed by Franklin W. Doverspike, Center music instructor, the chorus will perform a program in two sections. The first, containing traditional music, will include "Mary Had a Baby" by Reece with Betty Kuhn as soprano soloist, G. Nanino's "Hodie Christus Natus Est" and "Go Tell It on the Mountain" arranged by Simeons.

String Ensemble

More informal selections will be in the concert's second part. Accompanist for the program will be music instructor Arthur Cohrs.

Also scheduled to perform is a string ensemble composed of students Karolyn Benson, Sandra Fischer and Robert Braun, violinists; Carla Scheurle, violist, and Carly Kleinschmidt, pianist.

They will play the first movement from Mozart's "Jupiter Symphony," a Schubert "Scherzo," Mendelssohn's "Venetian Barcarolle" and "The Swan Boats" from Edmund Severn's "In Central Park."

After the concert, the audience will be invited to take part in a carol sing in the University cafeteria.

Italian Poses as Priest To Raise Money for Nonexistent Charity

PIEVE DE CADORE, Italy (AP) — Mario Silva, 26, was convicted Wednesday of posing as a priest and collecting money to aid flood sufferers at an orphanage at San Stefano de Cadore.

San Stefano de Cadore was one of the hardest hit towns in the Pieve Valley during the November floods. But there is no orphanage there, and Silva — a Neapolitan — is not a priest. He was sentenced to three years and eight months in jail and fined $320.

Chad and Jeremy on Batman

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7 Channels 11-4-9 — Holy High C, but Batman gets himself and Robin out of the Catwoman's glass bubble by the same method, and glorious vocal chords, used on an earlier show. Then, Holy Sounds of Silence, Catwoman's plan is revealed. She steals the voices of guests Chad and Jeremy and holds the voices for a huge ransom. But England's Sir Sterling Habits doesn't want to pay the money, and it's up to the Dynamic Duo to find the vocal chords of the very funny mop-topped duo.

6:30-7:30 Channels 4-5 — Daniel Boone has another of those two - men - of - opposite - beliefs - who - come - to - admire - each - other stories. Boone's (Fess Parker) opponent here is Leif Erickson, a swag-gering boatman whose help Dan'l needs to get a load of gunpowder downriver to Kentucky. But Erickson is not above double-crossing Boone, and Indians are lurking and so on.

7-7:30 Channels 11-6-9 — Two of the most helpless members of F Troop, Capt. Parmener (Ken Berry) and Cpl. Agarn (Larry Storch) wind up on a 10-day survival test in which they are to live off the wilderness on nothing but their wits. They are pretty funny, trying to keep each other from getting hysterical, and trying to scrounge food, but the plot becomes obvious when various others in the troop decide to "plant" food where the helpless ones can find it.

7:30-8:30 Channels 4-5 — Viewers will find many modern-day parallels in "Balance of Terror" on Star Trek. The weight of command lies heavy on Capt. Kirk (William Shatner) when he must decide whether or not to invade a neutral zone to fight a sometimes visible-sometimes invisible hostile space craft which has already destroyed some earth outposts.

8-8:30 Channels 11-6-9 — Bewitched concludes its two-parter about Benjamin Franklin. The few moments of charm in this part make you wish the author had restrained the contrivances. Fred (CQ) Wayne continues to be impressive as Franklin, and Elizabeth Montgomery is her cute self defending the gentleman who has been accused of stealing a fire engine.

9-10 Channels 11-6-9 — As an elaborate plot unfolds on Hawk, you will find yourself gripped by the story. The plot — and it wouldn't be fair to reveal too much of it — concerns a series of paintings of a left hand, and an art theft in reverse — someone breaks into a gallery and leaves a painting there. But leave it to intrepid Burt Reynolds to get on the track — and as a cafe violinist smitten with get his head bashed in a couple of times, as he tries to find killer and a connection to strange deeds in the art world. 9-10 Channels 4-5 — Another lively edition of The Dean Martin Show has the host greeting Sid Caesar (very funny) and as a cafe violinist smitten with Dean's date, and as his Professor and Vic Damone (rousing in "She Loves Me").

Powerful Auto Industry Starts To be Cautious

Production Being Reduced, Leaders Speak Guardedly

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The automotive industry is perhaps the most powerful industry in the world, but recent statements by its leaders—to say nothing of production cutbacks—reveal a growing caution beneath an overlay of optimism.

This caution reveals a respect for ambiguous economic signals, one of the most important of which is the uncertain mind of the consumer.

Big as it is, the automotive industry knows it is not total master of its market.

Being so powerful a force in the economy of nations, the industry must assume a responsibility to look on the hopeful show of optimism. But this is getting harder to do.

Lower Sales
A recent statement by General Motors, for example, told of great hopes and expectations for the coming year. Beneath this veneer, however, was uncertainty and an actual forecast of lower sales for the second straight year.

But how far should the industry go in courting the public?

In Germany, the Volkswagen people told their shareholders earlier this month that things were looking well. A little more than a week later it announced from Wolfsburg that all plants would close for 17 days.

Pressed for an explanation, company officials admitted they didn't wish to add to the already prevalent economic pessimism in West Germany.

Tremendous Demand
Detroit's chief occupation is an extraordinary example of an industry that has not only met a need, but created a tremendous demand through quality products, salesmanship and marketing.

This has brought to General Motors, for example, a gross income comparable to the receipts of the entire United Kingdom or France, greater than equal to the combined income of Japan and Canada.

Despite this, the automotive industry cannot dictate. The consumer refused to buy the Edsel, for example, and Ford lost hundreds of millions of dollars.

In the post-World War II years, American Motors pushed the compact car, found it was to the public's liking at the time, and forced the larger car manufacturers to produce smaller versions.

But public tastes change. The tastes of Americans grew richer as their pocketbooks fattened, for compacts have grown larger with each year.

Foreign Cars
Another interesting consumer preference is developing. In the midst of declining sales for domestic producers, some foreign manufacturers are pushing their U.S. sales to greater levels. Obviously they are filling a demand that the Big Three hasn't filled or cannot meet.

Recognition of consumer power was revealed by GM in its year-end estimates for the coming year.

Frederic Donner, its chairman, stated: "To the traditional concept of the family car has been added the personal car which reflects in its styling, performance and optional equipment the exacting desires of the individual."

In response to the varied wishes of consumers, he said, GM now has 177 different models in its 1967 line compared with 81 in 1957.

Hungarians Tried For Conspiracy

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Three young Hungarians are being tried in Budapest on charges of conspiring to overthrow the Communist regime, the government news agency MTI reported Wednesday.

MTI said the defendants were Janos Oetvoes and Istvan Bozok, each 20, and an unnamed "underaged accomplice."

The report said Oetvoes, while serving a two-year prison term in 1964 for espionage, "persuaded 20 persons to take part in a conspiracy directed at the overthrow of the Socialist state, the social and economic order."

MTI said the trial, which began Tuesday, would last several days. It did not say whether the other persons involved in the alleged conspiracy would be tried.

Inaugural Ceremonies To Begin at Noon for Wisconsin Officers

MADISON (AP) — Inaugural ceremonies for Wisconsin's five newly elected constitutional officers will be held at noon Jan. 2 in the State Capitol Rotunda.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles, who will be sworn in for a second term, and Lt. Gov. - elect Jack Olson and their wives will hold a reception in the executive office immediately after the 30-minute ceremony.

Chief Justice George R. Currie will give the oaths of office while State Republican Party Chairman Ody J. Fish of Hartland will be master of ceremonies.

Atty. Gen. Bronson C. La Follette, Secretary of State Robert Zimmerman and State Treasurer Dena Smith, all re-elected in November, have scheduled receptions in their Capitol offices following the swearing in.

Why Do We Think The Common Stock Of GLOBE UNION, INC.
Provides A Favorable Buying Opportunity Today?

Our current MARSHALL LETTER contains a report on this Wisconsin-based company. Long classified as an automotive battery manufacturer, GLOBE UNION today derives fully 60% of its profits from the production and sale of a broad line of high quality electronic components.

You will be interested in learning why we believe the stock of GLOBE UNION is underpriced and should have appeal for good income and a very favorable near to intermediate term appreciation potential.

We also discuss the BUEHLER CORP., a modest sized Indianapolis company important in supplying components for helicopters and other defense business as well as pre-eminent in water jets and turbocrafts.

Also covered is GREATAMERICA CORP., a holding company which has investments in airline, insurance, and bank stocks, and which, in our estimation, presents a rather exceptional capital gains opportunity.

We invite you to phone or use the coupon below to request your free copy of THE MARSHALL LETTER, today.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Free Colored Brochure

Say Merry Christmas in a really big way. Give a truly meaningful gift to the people you love. Share in the world's future. Brazil, South America is probably the fastest rising country. Economically in the world today, rich farmlands as yet unplanned will prove to be the world's bread basket of tomorrow. Here is land that will grow almost anything from citrus fruits to nuts and berries. Vegetables, grains, wheat, corn, fruits, soybeans, etc. Plenty of water—annual rainfall including the climate — temperatures range from a low of 50 degrees to a high of 85 degrees the year around. Plan your own future and help give Christmas to yourself, your family, and the hungry. The world is only 100 miles north of Brasilia, the new capital of Brazil, South America, the fastest rising country. Stated: "We record the deeds for you and you get a copy thereof. All titles are free and clear—no restrictions." Say "Seliz Natal" (Merry Christmas) in a really big way. We have 750 farms at $1000 each. $125 down, $33 per month. Beautiful, interesting, free colored brochure giving complete details. Send for yours today. Seliz Natal Real Estate Co., 42 W. South Street, Indianapolis, Ind. 46204. MERRY CHRISTMAS

Free Colored Brochure

Say Merry Christmas in a really big way. Give a truly meaningful gift to the people you love. Share in the world's future. Brazil, South America is probably the fastest rising country. Economically in the world today, rich farmlands as yet unplanned will prove to be the world's bread basket of tomorrow. Here is land that will grow almost anything from citrus fruits to nuts and berries. Vegetables, grains, wheat, corn, fruits, soybeans, etc. Plenty of water—annual rainfall including the climate — temperatures range from a low of 50 degrees to a high of 85 degrees the year around. Plan your own future and help give Christmas to yourself, your family, and the hungry. The world is only 100 miles north of Brasilia, the new capital of Brazil, South America, the fastest rising country. Stated: "We record the deeds for you and you get a copy thereof. All titles are free and clear—no restrictions." Say "Seliz Natal" (Merry Christmas) in a really big way. We have 750 farms at $1000 each. $125 down, $33 per month. Beautiful, interesting, free colored brochure giving complete details. Send for yours today. Seliz Natal Real Estate Co., 42 W. South Street, Indianapolis, Ind. 46204. NATO Ministers Hear Argument for Revision of Treaty

Belgium Delegate Makes Plea For Year's Study of Problems

PARIS (AP) — Belgium, with the support of Britain and Canada, launched a move today for a widespread review and possible revision of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization into a more cohesive Atlantic community.

Belgian Foreign Minister Pierre Harmel made his proposal at the annual meeting of the foreign, defense and finance

Task Force Would Make Proposal on Money for Cities

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren Knowles is offering to name his own task force if necessary to study the tangle over shared taxes and find specific proposals to place before the 1967 Legislature.

Knowles, holding to the opinion that a thorough study must come before any change is attempted, made the offer Wednesday after a summit session with Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier.

The governor noted he had asked the Legislative Council last summer to start the study. He said he would name his own citizen study group upon request if the council again took no action at its meeting next Monday.

New Suggestion

Maier, pressing for a program to provide more money for city governments, immediately, attached a new suggestion for state aid for urban renewal to his repeated urgings for revision of the shared taxes system.

Knowles dodged any commitments to Maier's proposals and said, "it's a matter of dollars. The state has only so much pie."

The governor said cities would have to compete with other state

Union Leader Intercedes to Halt Walkout

By BILL HALLS

DETROIT (AP) — Rebellious rank-and-file Teamsters curtailed transport in this Midwest commerce hub today in a display of support for their leader, James R. Hoffa, and anger at the Supreme Court decision that may send him to jail.

But Hoffa hurriedly acted to cut short the 24-hour walkout of truck drivers, Teamsters offi-

200 Milwaukee Teamsters 'Off'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — At least 200 members of the Teamsters Union in the Milwaukee area declined to drive trucks this morning in a national work stoppage that began in sympathy with Union president James R. Hoffa.

The Gateway and Motor Transport firms were hardest hit in this area.

Presidential Government Set for Saigon

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnam's Constitutional Assembly by a one-sided vote today agreed the country should have a civilian government headed by a president elected by nationwide vote.

By a vote of 107 to 5 with five absentees, the assembly approved a set of proposals to be incorporated in the constitution which it is now writing and which is scheduled to be finished by the spring.

Name Ministers

Under terms of the proposals, the president would be elected by a nationwide vote of all men and women over 18.

The president would appoint a prime minister who in turn would name his ministers. The appointments would not require approval of the national legislature, and the president would have the power to remove the prime minister.

Attorney General Allegedly Ordered Halt to 'Bugging'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department says Robert F. Kennedy, while attorney general in 1962, issued a private directive to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and other department officials that certain investigative means were not to be used.

A department spokesman, responding to inquiries, said Wednesday night the directive was written in very broad terms. He declined to discuss its specific contents.

Hoover contended in a letter made public by a congressman last weekend that as attorney general Kennedy authorized FBI wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping. Kennedy, now a Democratic senator from New York, said he didn't authorize the "bugging" and didn't know it was being done.

The Washington Post said today Kennedy's 1962 directive prohibited "improper, illegal and unethical" investigative practices. The Post said the only exception was wiretapping in cases involving national security, as had been allowed by previous attorney generals.

LBJ Hoping Truce Talks Can Lead to Negotiations

The Wreckage of a U.S. F-105, one of eight shot down "by Hanoi armed forces and people Wednesday," lies in North Vietnam, according to this radio

'Other Side' Must Agree To Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is seeking in Christmas truce proposals a new opening for talks with the Communists on ending the war in Vietnam.

Johnson made known through a White House comment Wednesday night that he was ready to discuss an extended cease-fire in Vietnam, including a freeze on troop reinforcements "if the other side is responsive."

When press secretary Bill D. Moyers was asked whether that meant the United States was ready to talk over with the other side in the war the specific issues of an extended cease-fire and a "stand fast" by both sides he replied, "Yes."

Double Strategy

Behind this new White House move lies a double purpose strategy, reflecting some guarded speculation among top officials here in recent weeks that holiday truce maneuvers might possibly open up some interesting possibilities for peace talks of much broader significance.

One major purpose behind the President's willingness to have discussions on the length and conditions of a cease-fire, therefore, is to find out whether the Communist side is willing to exchange views directly or indirectly on any subject and whether it would be willing to go beyond the immediate issues into consideration of peacemaking.

The second apparent purpose of the President's strategy is to make certain that the United States does not show signs of lagging in developing peace possibilities, however slender, and that if current efforts to "prolong the cease-fire fails, - the Communists will have to take the blame before the world."

Opposes Extension

Opposition to an extended cease-fire was expressed Wednesday by Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., who recently returned from an inspection trip to South Vietnam. He said Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Vietnam, said South Vietnamese officials also oppose lengthening the holiday cease-fires.

"The enemy has the most to gain from any short or long truce," Young said in an interview. He said, "the toughest fighting yet" of the war in Vietnam will start soon in the rich Mekong Delta area.

Wednesday night's White House statement was prompted by a proposal by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield that the presently planned brief holiday truce be extended to a single cease-fire lasting just short of two months.

The Communists and the United States and its allies already have set one 48-hour truce for the period of Dec. 24-26 and another 48-hour truce to Dec. 31-Jan. 2. The allies also have proposed, but the Communists have not yet accepted, a 96-hour suspension of combat for the Vietnamese new year, Tet, Feb. 8-12.

Three U. S. Craft Downed

Planes Again Hit Near Hanoi

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. warplanes straddled Hanoi with bombs for the second straight day Wednesday, the U.S. Command announced, but intense ground fire and a missile-firing MIG shot three of the American raiders out of the skies.

A State Department spokesman in Washington said the department had no evidence to confirm Communist reports that the American planes bombed nonmilitary targets and inflicted civilian casualties in Hanoi itself.

'Not American Policy'

The North Vietnamese government claimed that more than 100 people have been killed or wounded in bombings by U.S. planes of Hanoi and its suburbs

State Patrol Increase Hinted

Knowles Reviews Motor Vehicle Plans, Budget

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Substantial expansion of the state traffic patrol and mandatory use of seat belts were among possibilities for new legislation reviewed Wednesday by Gov. Warren P. Knowles and State Motor Vehicle Commissioner James R. Karns.

Karns asked for about $25.5 million for the next two years to support his numerous services and a staff expected to number 1,300 next year. The current spending authority of the department is about $21 million for the biennium.

Top Strength

Karns did not specifically ask for more highway patrolmen to strengthen the present 300 troopers. But he introduced the subject when he asked how many new officers each year the department could efficiently absorb. Karns said he would welcome additions of 50 men a year until the staff had reached

Fears Book Would Harm Herself, Children

Mrs. Kennedy Feels 'Only Redress' Is Lawsuit

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy says she is prepared to relive her grief and shock after the assassination of her husband in order to legally block publication of a book about the tragedy.

The outlook for her is horrible, she said.

The book, which the Kennedy family had authorized, is "Death of a President," by William Manchester. It describes the assassination of President Kennedy in Dallas, Nov. 22, 1963, and the events in the days immediately afterward.

Mrs. Kennedy calls it "tasteless and distorted."

'Only Redress'

"As horrible as a trial will be she says, "it now seems clear that my only redress is to ask the courts to enforce my rights."

Her attorneys said they are preparing papers seeking a temporary injunction to stop the book's publication and would file them in two or three days. Summonses already have been served on Harper & Row, book publisher, and Cowles Communications, Inc., publishers of Look magazine.

The magazine, which reportedly paid Manchester $650,000 for the serial rights to his book, scheduled publication of the first article for Jan. 10. Harper & Row plans to bring out the book next April.

The impending lawsuit, and a mention of "inaccurate and unfair references to other individuals" in a statement by

Mrs. Kennedy about Manchester's book, may throw some light on long-standing reports of friction between the Kennedys and President Johnson.

Mrs. Kennedy Manchester

It assertedly began on the plane that brought Kennedy's body from Dallas to Washington after the assassination.

A friend of the Kennedy family said Manchester's book depicts Mrs. Kennedy as having been "upset because LBJ kept the plane on the ground too long in Dallas, waiting to be sworn in as president."

Another version of this incident is that Mrs. Kennedy and Kenneth O'Donnell, special assistant to the assassinated President, boarded the plane and ordered the pilot to take off at once. Johnson reportedly countermanded the order.

Sources close to the Kennedy family said Manchester's book contains "other things that involve LBJ which are distorted and unfair."

Last Nov. 22 — the third anniversary of the assassination — Malcolm M. Kidduff, press aide in charge of the presidential changeover at Dallas, said in an interview:

"I think that there are things that happened, especially on the plane coming back, that could be embarrassing to both the Kennedys and the Johnsons." He declined to go into details.

'Wounds Reopened'

Kidduff added that in the emotional intensity of the moment "some of the old 1960 wounds were reopened, rehashed, thought about."

This apparently referred to the bitter struggle between Kennedy and Johnson for the Democratic nomination for president that Kennedy won.

United Fund Allocates $15,200 in New London

Board of Directors Increase Budgets of 12 Agencies With Money Held in Reserve

NEW LONDON — The board of directors of United Fund of New London, Inc. Tuesday allocated $15,200 to the 12 participating agencies. This amount is $3,200 more than the 1966 goal.

Contributions in the recently completed drive totaled $13,660, or $1,660 more than the goal. The remaining funds, which were budgeted, came from reserves built up when the fund went over the top in two previous drives.

Board members felt that three successive years of topping the goal indicated United Fund had gained the popular support of city residents. Money had been held in reserve in case the drive should fall short in any year.

Allocation Breakdown
Allocations were Boy Scouts of America, $3,000; Wisconsin Heart Association, $1,200; Salvation Army, $1,300; United Service Organizations, $300; Children's Service Society, $1,200; Wisconsin Council of the Blind, $300; Girl Scouts of America, $2,150; American Red Cross, $2,500; Waupaca County Association for Retarded Children, $750; New London's Boy's Baseball League, $1,000; University of Wisconsin Cancer Research, $1,000; and American Field Service, New London Chapter, $500.

The annual United Fund meeting will be in February, but no date has been selected. Vern Volz, president, said persons interested in learning more about the drive, having suggestions to make, or wanting to help with the annual campaign, are asked to attend.

Youth Sentenced Four Months on Burglary Counts

Charles L. Lund, 20, Medina, who last week was returned from Central State Hospital, Tuesday was sentenced to four months in jail for two thefts to which he pleaded guilty last September.

Lund was arrested by Appleton police who said he and several juveniles rifled cars on the city's southside.

He had pleaded guilty to two of the theft counts and innocent of a third. On a motion by Richard Hamilton, assistant district attorney, the third theft count was dismissed Tuesday.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller imposed four months sentences on each of the two charges, but ordered that the terms be served concurrently.

Lund will face a preliminary hearing Dec. 16 on a charge of burglarizing Valley Auto Parts, 1820 W. Northland Ave., Aug. 15. That charge was brought by Outagamie County sheriff's investigators.

Lund, who was found indigent, has court-appointed counsel.

Clintonville Board Realigns Faculty

Federal Program Helps Bolster District's Instructional Setup

CLINTONVILLE — Federal funds are to be used to expand the faculty of the Clintonville Joint School District No. 1, the district board of education voted Tuesday night.

School Supt. K. O. Rawson recommended that the board put Mrs. Charles Mack on a full-time basis and hire Mrs. George Zachow as a half-time employee using funds supplied by the Title I program of the U.S. Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.

Mrs. Mack will devote half of her time as a teacher aide for the preparation of materials, working with students as an assistant to teachers, and preparing teaching materials for other faculty members. The remainder of her time will be spent as a librarian under the Title I program.

Mrs. Zachow will serve as a part-time English teacher for grade 9. Starting Jan. 3, she will assume half of the teaching load of Paul Murphy. Murphy then will serve as a half-time regular junior high teacher, with the remainder of his time under the teaching auspices of the Title I program.

Private Lessons
The board also voted to allow Harry F. Heun, an Oshkosh voice instructor, to offer private lessons to paying students once a week in school facilities.

The authorization came following a request from students, who feel that their musical education can be furthered by instruction from Heun, who now offers lessons at a Waupaca school.

More than a dozen students have indicated that they intend to pay for private lessons from Heun. Arrangements will be made through Rawson's office, with the guarantee that the offerings will not interfere with school programs.

Supporting the opportunity for students were Mrs. Lynne Kuepper and Robert Chagnon of the school music department.

Sell Equipment
A meeting of the buildings and grounds committee before the board meeting recommended to the board that actions be taken to dispose of surplus rural school property and playground equipment.

The board authorized advertising for the sale of Nicholson and Marble schools, without the existing playground equipment. Details concerning the sale of the Meadow Grove and Clover Nook schools will be worked out by board member Royce Young.

The Bells Corners school building will be offered for sale to Clarence Behnke as Behnke owns the land on which the building is located.

The surplus playground equipment will be offered for sale to a group of Bear Creek men for the Bear Creek school, and any excess play equipment will be offered to the Embarrass firemen's park.

Buy Carpeting
In other actions, the board accepted a bid from Eberhardt's Furniture of Clintonville for band room carpeting at a cost of $2,240.

Planned an informal meeting at the request of the Clintonville Education Association salary committee. The meeting will be held before the next board meeting Jan. 9.

Accepted proposed wording for a dedication plaque for the new elementary-junior high school addition.

Heard a report on the meeting of the Wisconsin Association of School Boards held in Madison last week.

Reviewed the Bear Creek school situation as it stands since a recent meeting of the administrators of the two schools.

School Boards Will Discuss Merger Plans

Four Points Are on Tap for Waupaca, Weyauwega Parley

WAUPACA — Boards of education from Waupaca and Weyauwega tonight will discuss at least four points concerning a possible merger of the two districts when they meet at the Weyauwega High School.

According to an agenda released Wednesday, the items of discussion will be:

—Kind of district — three or four year high school.

—Educational opportunities possible by merging.

—Administrative problems and possible solutions.

—Number of board members on the board of education of the new district and area representation.

Both boards recently went on record to investigate the possible merger of the two districts but neither has endorsed a merger.

A preliminary study already has been made by the State Department of Public Instruction and is in the hands of board members.

Coin Box Stolen From Church at Stockbridge

STOCKBRIDGE — Thieves ripped the pamphlet rack and attached coin box from the wall of the vestibule of St. Mary Catholic Church some time last night or early today.

The theft was discovered this morning. All of the pamphlets and books were removed from the rack and neatly stacked nearby.

Calumet County Sheriff C. J. Kosmosky is investigating.

Pins Awarded To Girl Scouts At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The first Court of Awards for the Special Education group, Troop No. 303 Girl Scouts, was held Monday afternoon at the Dellwood School with parents as guests.

Jane Mansfield, route 2, New London, was presented with her troop by Mrs. Clifford Rafoth, troop leader. Badges and one-year service stars were awarded by Mrs. Rafoth to Judy Spruise, Rosemary Geiger, Kathy Gensler, Vicki Rief, Jane Hein, Nancy Johnson, Onda Wedde and Margaret Graper, all of Clintonville.

Girls of Senior Girl Scout Troop 288 are the leaders of Troop No. 303 with Mrs. Rafoth as the advisor.

16 Calumet Ambulance Drivers Being Trained

New Emergency Vehicle Service for County Will be Directed by Hospital at Chilton

CHILTON — Training of 16 persons for ambulance duty has begun at Calumet Memorial Hospital under the direction of Carlton Goodrich, a Kiel teacher.

Registered for five two-hour sessions with the licensed Red Cross instructor are Daniel Albedyl, John Keuler, Tom Schierl, Elmer Schoenborn, Fred Schwartz, Ken Sippel, Don Schaefer, Lyman Parker, William Kartheiser, Gerlad Schmidkofer, James Mologianes, Wilber Kratzke, Robert Kobriger, Vern Gonzon and Dale Brown. Six registrants are hospital employees.

Will Equip
The rented ambulance, which will be equipped and used for instruction, is expected in Chilton today.

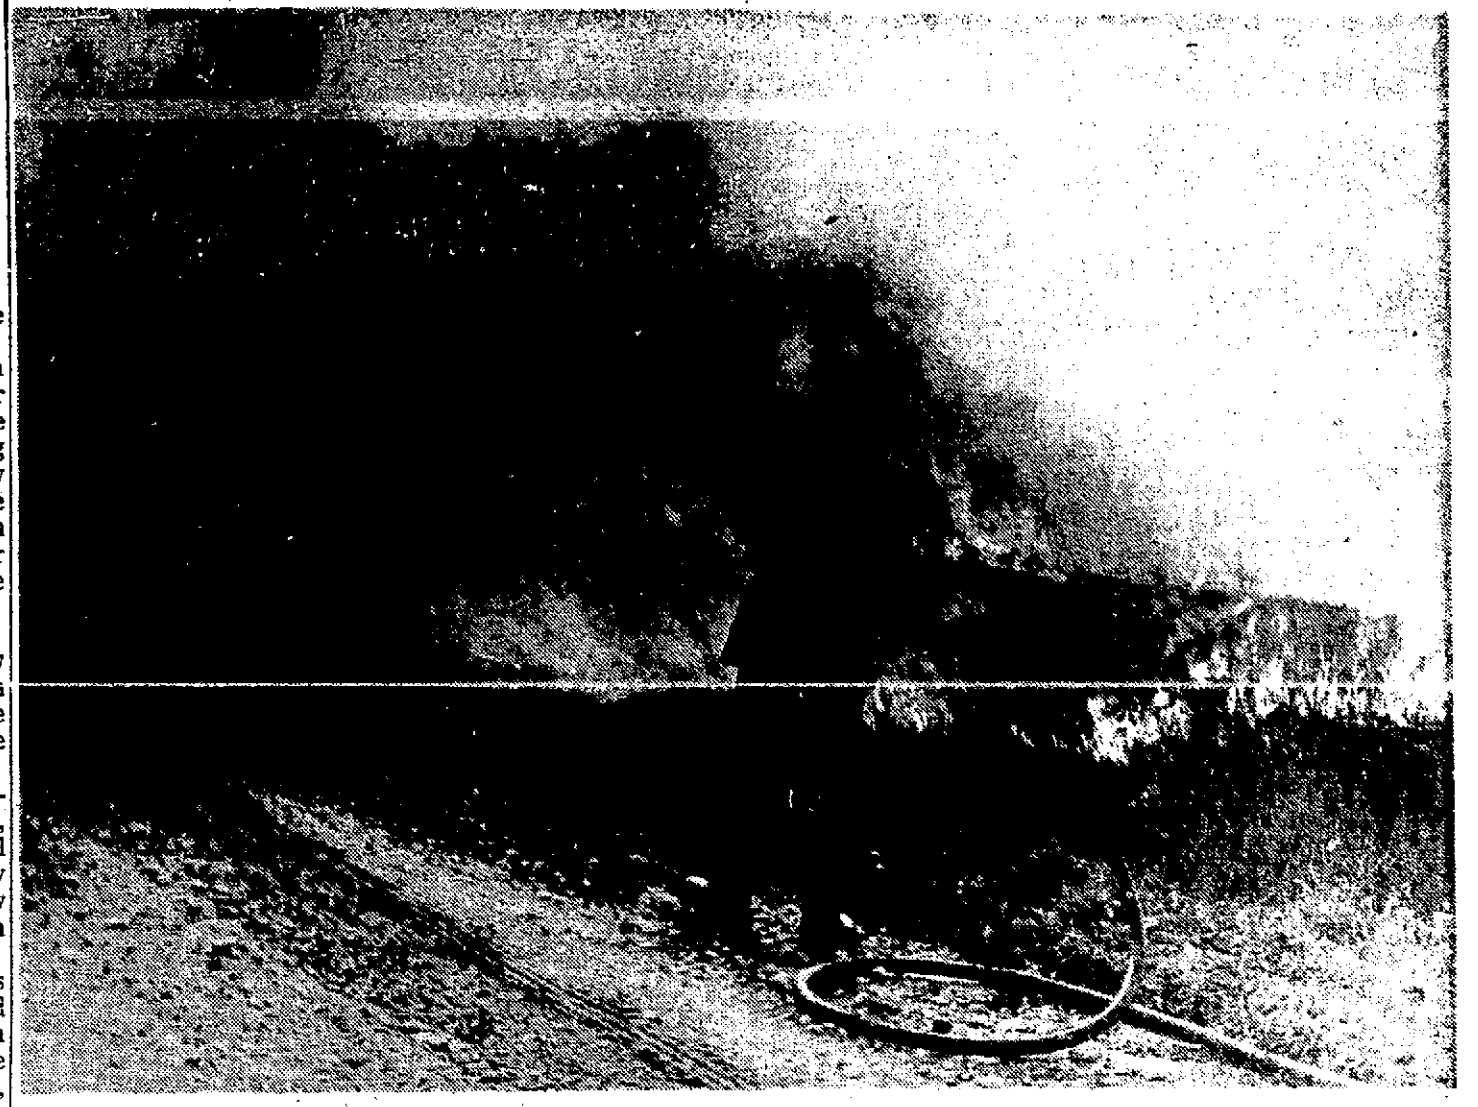

Service to the area will begin Jan. 1, with participating municipalities paying 70 cents per capita.

Anyone needing the vehicle from these areas will be charged $15 per call. Those outside of the cooperating area will be charged $25 per call.

Each municipality will be held responsible for unpaid bills at the end of the contract period, which is one year.

According to present plans a team of two men will be on call at all times for ambulance duty. During daytime hours hospital personnel will take the runs, with others to be on call from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m.

The Chilton Chamber of Commerce helped arrange for the service.

About 10 Acres of grassland along U.S. 45 south-east of New London burned over Wednesday afternoon. The fire was reported shortly after 1 p.m. and was out of control when the department came on the scene. In minutes the flames traveled across the field and covered the highway with dense smoke. Grassland Burns Near New London

NEW LONDON — About 10 acres of tall grass burned early Wednesday afternoon on land owned by Ervin Knaack, about three miles south of here on U.S. 45.

The fire started when Knaack and a brother lost control of a fire they had started to burn a hay pile. A brisk northeast wind fanned the flames and by the time New London firemen arrived the fire was burning out of control toward U.S. 45, northeast of Ledge Hill.

Heavy smoke cut visibility on the highway for about five minutes until the fire burned itself out after reaching the shoulder of the road.

Fremont Volunteers Fight Chimney Fire After Delayed Start

FREMONT — Only minor damage was reported in a chimney fire at the home of John Livingood, star route, Weyauwega, about 4 p.m. Monday.

Some delay was caused in a mixup of fire departments. The Livingood home is on a Weyauwega route but in the Town of Fremont department which arrived at the scene in time to contain the fire before any serious damage was inflicted.

CCHE Approves Plan for Vocational School Districts

Board Acts After Warnings About Rural Complaints to Legislature

MADISON — The Coordinating Committee for Higher Education Wednesday gave its final approval to a new district organization plan for the future administration of vocational and technical education throughout Wisconsin.

The board acted after hearing warnings by two prominent members of the state Legislature that resentment and opposition in some rural districts may lead the 1967 Legislature to modify the districting arrangements.

The plan, as approved today after more than a year of study, would establish 14 districts including a District 12 centered in the Fox Cities, and District 13 centered in Green Bay.

A proposed Northwestern Wisconsin district will be re-studied and acted upon later, the committee said.

Object to Travel
Sen. Reuben LaFave, Oconto, object to the Northeastern Wisconsin district, demanded assurances of a strong school to serve the Marinette area. He said students in Marinette and Florence counties won't be able to commute to a Green Bay institution.

"We're not all hot-rodgers," he said.

Sen. Elect George Borg of Delavan objected to the proposed attachment of Walworth County to Kenosha County with the central school in the City of Kenosha.

Objections to the districting plan finally approved, have been met by the drafters of the new plan from almost every area of the state at one time or another during the year-long planning process.

The plan was drafted by a special group of state vocational and educational leaders and analysts after holding a two-month-long series of hearings throughout the state.

Resentments Exist
General agreement was reached in those hearings, but resentments still exist wherever local leaders feel local students must travel too far to a proposed area institution, or wherever local vocational school leaders fear for the future of their own institutions.

The State Vocational Board has carefully maintained throughout the process that local schools not selected as the base institution in the district will be continued and in large districts, strengthened and used as satellite institutions.

But fears have been expressed that local taxpayers will not be able to afford the costs of operating more than one school. Under the act which was passed by the 1965 Legislature, the area district school boards will be enabled to tax at rates up to two mills for the support of the new institutions.

Geographical rivalries also have figured in the resentments over the new districts. The Appleton area district includes all of Winnebago, Waupaca and Calumet counties. In the Green

Waupaca Youth Admits Speeding, Beer in Car

WAUPACA — Bruce Polly, 19, route 4, Waupaca, was fined $25 and costs for possession of beer in a car carrying minors and $20 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 55 m.p.h. zone, Tuesday when he appeared in Municipal Justice Court and pleaded guilty to both charges.

Polly, who was arrested Nov. 18 by county police, had been charged with possession of beer off a licensed premises but the charge was amended to possession of intoxicants in a car carrying minors.

Municipal Justice George Whalen stayed the fine and sentence until Dec. 19.

Oshkosh Youth's Hearing Set On Theft of Car Before Chase

OSHKOSH — County Judge James V. Sitter Tuesday scheduled a preliminary hearing for a youth charged with stealing a car and leading seven officers and an airplane on a chase through a swamp after a three-car accident.

Ernest M. Hanson, 18, 2323 N. Main St., Oshkosh, requested the preliminary hearing on a charge of car theft.

The hearing was set for Feb. 10. Hanson also has been charged with reckless driving.

Steal Car
Hanson was arrested Dec. 5 by state patrolmen, who said Hanson and a juvenile companion were riding in a car stolen from Mrs. Alex Daubert, Oshkosh. Police said the stolen car was traveling east on State 21 when it struck a car driven by Kenneth Walters, 20, route 1, Berlin.

Walters was trying to make a left turn onto Poygan Road when the accident occurred at about 3:45 p.m. Dec. 5, police said.

Have Accident
They said the Walters auto was pushed into the path of a car driven by Allen Abraham, 47, Montello, who was headed west on State 21. Both Abraham and Walters were hospitalized after the crash.

Hanson and his companion ran into a swampy area after the crash, police said. Four state patrolmen and three conservation wardens and a conservation department air plane spent one and one half hours searching for the youths. The plane finally spotted them and gave their location to police.

Hanson's companion appeared in juvenile court.

Life Saving Pins

Legion Honors Little Chute Men Who Alerted Family During Fire

LITTLE CHUTE — Three village men, who helped save an Appleton family from possible death by fire, received life saving pins from the American Legion Monday night.

John Hietpas, Donald Hietpas and Jerry Reynebeau were driving to work in Appleton earlier this year when they noticed a house in flames. The three rushed to the house, roused the family and escorted them to safety. One man called the fire department.

The family was sleeping at the time and the men prevented a possible tragedy because the blaze was well underway, firemen said.

Present Pins
Bill Emanuel, Tomah, state Legion commander, presented

100 per cent membership pins to Leon Toonen, post commander, and Norbert Demerath, first vice commander and member-ship chairman. Emanuel spoke on "Americanism and Christmas."

Edward Spierings, village president, was a special guest who praised the Legion for its many contributions to the welfare of the community.

Members approved a plan to have Harold Van Dyke prepare a history of each commander's term of office for presentation to the commander as a remembrance. Van Dyke also is responsible for the post history, which is entered in state competition.

Display Award

humously to Albert Winius, a member of the post, was displayed, and his conduct on Okinawa, leading up to the award was explained. The medal and picture of Winius will be displayed in the Legion trophy case.

Sherwood Pupils Plan Pageant

SHERWOOD — "Christmas-tide," a cantata pageant in nine scenes, will be presented by Sacred Heart School pupils, starting at 8 p.m. Friday in the school hall.

All of the school children will have a part in the presentation. The first graders will present a playlet, "What is in the Basket?"

Brillion Council Okays Purchase Of Squad Car

New Police Vehicle Will Cost City $398 Plus Trade

BRILLION — The city will trade in its 1966 model police squad car for a 1967 auto for a cost of $398, as a result of city council action Monday night.

Successful bidder on the fully equipped car, including mounted spotlight, was Kloehn Electric and Auto Co., Brillion. One other bid was submitted from Brillion Auto Co., for $690.

The city purchased the 1966 vehicle a year ago from Kloehn Electric for $2,285. Prior to that the city rented a car for $91 a month with insurance and upkeep paid by the city. Officials here contend that a city-owned car is more economical.

lowest price and the machine will be bought from them.

The city council will meet at 7:30 Jan. 9 with Don Sherman, supervisor of assessments from the Fond du Lac office of the Department of Taxation to discuss tax assessments.

A finance committee recommendation to withdraw $6,000 from a special fund and establish a future storm sewer reserve fund, was approved. The money will be placed in certificates of deposit at the Calumet County Bank. A city-owned K-bond will mature Feb. 1. The $1,000 bond will be placed in certificates of deposits at that time, the city council decided.

A bartender's license was approved for Milton A. Loper who intends to run the Jensen Bar. Loper's son-in-law, Ronald Phillips recently purchased the tavern.

Chilton Church Youth To Give Yule Program

CHILTON — "The Creche Angel," a children's Christmas program, will be presented at 7:45 p.m. Sunday at Ebenezer United Church of Christ.

The program was prepared by the pastor, the Rev. Quentin Moeschberger.

Work on Brillion's $95,000 pump-house is far behind schedule, but city officials are hopeful that this phase of the city's well development program will be completed in early spring. Here the $16,650 water softening equipment stands outside. A temporary wood wall serves as a wind barrier for workmen. (Coenen Photo)

250 Students to Perform In Waupaca Yule Concert

WAUPACA — More than 250 junior and senior high school students will participate in the candlelight Christmas concert, at 8 p.m. Dec. 20 in the high school gymnasium.

The concert groups appearing in the program will be the junior high boys chorus, and girls chorus, the senior high school boys chorus, the senior high school mixed chorus and the newly formed senior high school girls chorus. Accompanists for the choirs will be Karen Miller, Lindby Sundby and Loren Campbell. The choirs will be directed by Gerald Knoepfel.

The evening concert will open with the traditional candlelight procession of "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." Featured will be a duet by seventh graders, Mike Porrey and Paul Schaafsma; Dala Qumby in "In the Inn"; Barbara Greina in a German carol "Song of the Crib"; Kim Suhs in "Gesu Bambino" and an adult quartet of Mrs. Robert Stange, Miss Dorothy Duff, George Lorenz and Lloyd Nelson with the high school mixed chorus in a carol, "Glory to God in the Highest".

Madrigal Planned

Two high school triple trios and a high school madrigal will also sing. The High School choir will do a 17th century carol featuring an echo. The choir will also be accompanied by a trio of percussion instruments in the popular carol "Do You Hear What I Hear?" The instrumentalists will be John

The annual family Christmas party will be at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at the Moose Lodge with a potluck supper followed by the party and a visit from Santa.

Black Creek to Ask Bids on Village Well

Burdick Street Job Expected to Start In Early Spring

BLACK CREEK — Robert Phillips, village engineer, told the village board Monday night he expects to advertise for bids in January on the Burdick Street well project.

Phillips said work will begin in early spring as soon as weather permits.

The village also will advertise for bids to complete the park building and bath houses.

The board hired Murphy Construction Co. of Black Creek for snow removal on village streets. The firm also will remove snow in the business district at the discretion of the board's street committee.

Trailer Court

A proposed plan for a trailer court was approved by a 4-1 vote. The court will be located on the former Scholl property behind the body shop. Court owners must sign a legal description to the property before the plan is finalized.

In other action the board — Received the resignation of Elmer Mory, custodian of the community hall, effective Jan. 1.

— Approved a street lighting plan for S. Maple Street and authorized the clerk to sign an agreement with the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. to install the lights.

— Authorized the clerk to notify home owners of their house numbers.

— Set a policy permitting young people to use the community hall if they have adult supervision and their request does not conflict with an already scheduled event.

— Received a petition for curb and gutter construction in spring from property owners on Beach Street.

Yule Parties Abound At King Veterans Home

KING — Residents of the Cub Scouts from Pack 238, Stevens Point, sang carols at the home along with members of Waupaca County 4-H Clubs.

The Waupaca Trinity Lutheran Church Luther League sang carols Wednesday evening and will return to the home next Wednesday night to sing again.

Sing From Chapel

Many of the singing groups sing from the chapel at the Burns-Clemmens building and the music is piped throughout all of the buildings and halls of the home.

Students from grades one through six of the Golden Hill School at Rural will present a Christmas concert at the Amusement Hall Friday evening. Waushara County Homemakers will sing Saturday evening.

In addition to the many organizations that carol and sponsor Christmas parties for the residents of the home, four parties will be given by the home recreation department with funds from the Christmas cheer fund. The fund is derived from contributions made by organizations and individuals.

The first Christmas cheer party will be at the Burns-Clemmens building, Monday, and Tuesday, at the Amusement Hall. The two parties at the hospital will be on Dec. 21 and 22, according to Bill Howard, recreation director.

Officials Agree On Extension of College Avenue

Procedural Error Affects Financing Expressway Link

Appleton and Outagamie County officials have reached accord and apparently subdued a running controversy over the proposed E. College Avenue extension.

The project, tentatively scheduled for 1967, represents the first leg of the secondary portion of the Tri-County Expressway.

The extension would start at Buchanan Street on the city's south side and continue east to a point south of Kaukauna.

A dispute recently developed when the county highway commission indicated the city would have to purchase right-of-way for that portion of the expressway route within the Appleton corporate limits.

Inconsistent Policy
City officials retorted the county's position was inconsistent with its past policy and requested an audit of all highway department projects over the past 10 years to determine whether the city was getting its share of improvements and financial aid.

County Highway Commissioner Clarence Brownson told the city delegation there had been a misunderstanding on the procedure to be followed in putting E. College Avenue on the federal aids secondary highway system. Brownson explained although the Appleton Council did pass a resolution putting E. College on the system, it failed to take Walters Avenue and Newberry Street off as required.

Procedural Error
Although the procedural error had not been caught by the state highway department, it was serious enough to affect the financing of the proposed expressway and right-of-way acquisition, Brownson explained.

However, Brownson and Ald. Roy Pointer (14th) and City Planner Walter Rasmussen did not agree on the width of the proposed expressway link to Kaukauna.

Pointer, council president and chairman of the city's street-sanitation committee, pushed for an urban type highway construction, while Brownson said the proposed roadway would have to be much wider to meet state and federal regulations. Recently, the county requested the council budget $132,000 for 1967 which represents the city's proportionate cost of purchasing expressway right-of-way within the city limits.

Objection Point
"We objected to this because the county has paid for the acquisitions when highways pass through parts of other communities in the county," Pointer said. "After all, Appleton does pay more than half the bill every year for financing county government and the highway program."

Training of Leader Dogs for Blind Described to New London Lions

NEW LONDON — The "Leader Dog" program started by the Michigan Lions Clubs in 1939 helps a blind person help himself, Paul Knowles, a representative of the school, said here Tuesday.

Knowles, blind since birth, travels more than 100,000 miles annually promoting the leader dog program.

Duke, Knowles' faithful German Shepherd, is a dark shadow that stays nearby to answer his master's slightest command. Travel is extremely hard on dogs, Knowles said. Dogs have a tendency to become high strung because of the travel and number of persons encountered, he said. He said he has had few problems with his dogs.

Directed Band
Knowles spoke to the New London, Hortonville, and Readfield-Dale-Medina Lions in a joint meeting at 6:30 p.m. He returned to the Washington School auditorium following the Lions meeting to direct the junior high school band at its annual Christmas concert. Wednesday, his itinerary included a visit to Weyauwega.

Knowles, holder of degrees in music and physical therapy, was the personal physical therapist for President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In 1938, only the Seeing Eye was training dogs for the blind, Knowles said. The organization had 3,000 applications for dogs, but were able to train only 100 in a year. The Michigan Association for the Blind was unaware of this and asked the State Lions to investigate why their applications were not answered.

Program Initiated
"The Michigan Lions Clubs in 1939 with $400 and a hatful of ideas embarked on the Leader Dog Training Project despite threats of having their charters withdrawn," Knowles said.

The Leader Dog School began with one trainer and an old farm building and has grown to be the largest leader dog training center in the world, Knowles said. The school is at Rochester, Mich.

About 2,500 dogs have been trained at the school and are scattered throughout the world. All funds are contributed and "we have never been able to put away any money" because of continuous growth at the school, he said.

Training Costs
It costs about $2,000 to train one Leader Dog team. The dogs are all donated to the school and undergo a four-month instructional period. The person who graduates with a Leader Dog has invested four weeks of hard work in the new way of travel. All expenses are paid by the organization during the training period.

Dogs contributed to the school must be one to 2-years-old, in good condition and willing to accept responsibility. German Shepherds, Labradors and Golden Retrievers are commonly trained as leaders, he said.

The greatest importance the leader dog serves is the feeling of independence it gives its owner, Knowles said.

School Requirements
Applicants to be received as students at the Leader Dog school must be totally blind or have only slight light perception, over 18-years-old, in good health, emotionally stable and of good moral character. Dogs remain the property of the school and may be taken away for mistreatment, begging or excessive drinking, Knowles said.

Students live under instructors' constant supervision for a minimum four week training period. After a period of getting acquainted with his leader dog, the student is taken to Rochester, Mich.

School Choirs Plan Concert At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The choirs of the Clintonville junior and senior high schools will present a Christmas concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the senior high school gymnasium.

The junior high choir will open the program by singing a medley called "Three Songs of Christmas." From this choir, a girls' small chorus will sing three selections.

The senior high choir will begin its part of the program by singing the familiar carol, "Joy to the World."

The program will close with "Silent Night."

Mrs. Lynn Kuepper is the director and Karen Erickson is the accompanist.

All Officers Re-Elected By Amherst Firemen

AMHERST — All volunteer fire department officers were re-elected at the annual meeting Monday.

They are president, Elmer Berto; vice president, Ernie Hansen; fire chief, Charles Iverson; assistant chief, Forrest Engel, and secretary-treasurer, Arthur Kotell.

Lyle Millus was re-elected as a trustee. Trustees holding over are David Hintz and Harvey Olson.

Amherst Band, Chorus Concert Set Tuesday

AMHERST — The vocal and instrumental music departments at Amherst High School are presenting the annual Christmas concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the school gymnasium.

Jack Kueter is the band director and Mrs. Elliot Michael, the vocal instructor.

Bear Creek FHA Has Caroling Party Tuesday

BEAR CREEK — Members of the Future Homemakers of America caroled in the village and at Villa of St. Vincent, New London, Tuesday evening.

The carolers and chapter adviser, Mrs. Sandra Pocha, were served refreshments at the high school.

ter where actual pedestrian training begins. The training is moved to Pontiac, Mich., after the student gains confidence and experience.

Every blind person should not have a leader dog, Knowles said. He pointed out that only 10 per cent were capable of using the dogs.

Bay district are Florence, Oconto, Marinette, Door and Kewaunee counties.

Under the bill passed by the 1965 Legislature, all counties in the state must be working within an area district by July 1, 1970. Recent actions of the State Vocational Board have endorsed a plan to move the effective date up two years, but strong resistance is expected to that plan which will be pushed in the 1967 Legislature. Gov. Warren P. Knowles has warned that such a plan will require more careful study than has yet been done.

The northwest Wisconsin district would have included 17 counties, spanning a larger area than some eastern states, if it had been accepted by the Coordinating Committee. Area leaders had pleaded for the division of the district into two or three districts, rather than forcing students to travel from Eau Claire to Superior, or similar distances.

Ignore Criterion
In establishing the districts, the criterion of distance to be traveled by students was specifically ignored after long debate.

Other fights were generated by a move to add liberal arts courses to the curriculum of the new institutions. Under present law, only two vocational schools of the state can offer such work for college transfer credits. The new institution's credits will not be transferrable under existing regulations except in Madison and Milwaukee.

The sites have not been selected for the new schools within the new districts. Coupled with fears about the fate of smaller, local schools now operating, the site selection process undoubtedly will generate further battles over the program within the area districts.

12 to Receive Coronets at Butte des Morts Dec. 27 Ball

For Fox Cities 12 young women and their families, part of the 1966 holiday glow will be cast by the Dec. 27 Coronet Ball at Butte des Morts Golf Club. With Christmas hardly tucked away for the year, the young women will don party gowns and be introduced to the adult membership of the club by their fathers or sponsors, and then, in festive season tradition, dance the evening away.

To receive coronets at the ball this year are Miss Diane Catlin, Miss Patricia Mary Giffin, Miss Elizabeth Gilling, Miss Mary Jack, Miss Penny Lea Krampien, Miss Karlett Lynn Kuehn, Miss Kathleen Maria Manley, Miss Mary Anne McCanna, Miss Maryann Swain, Miss Trudy Theiss, Miss Penelope Ann Toal and Miss Gretchen Grace Trass.

The presenters and their guests will begin the gala evening with a cocktail party at the Giffin home, with the McCannas as co-hosts. They will then dine by candlelight in the card room at Butte des Morts.

Gold, Green, White

As the young women enter the ballroom for their introduction

to Club President James Gustman and assembled guests, they will grace a decor carried out in gold, white and green. Champagne carnations will be used in floral arrangements and the stage background will be composed of white, flocked Christmas trees, repeating the holiday decorations in the East Lounge. A large chandelier will be placed in the center of the ballroom, and, at one end of the room, a large topiary. A wreath with gold satin ornaments will adorn the opposite wall.

As is the custom, the presenters will invite couples to attend the dance as their guests.

At Madison

Miss Catlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Catlin Jr., 1614 S. Connell St., has chosen Paul David Wink as her party escort. A graduate of Appleton High School and a student at the University of Wisconsin, Miss Catlin will be presented to the melody of "Moon River". Her ball gown is of imported Italian silk, with a softly draped skirt and empire waistline. A panel falls from the squared back neckline and is accented with a self-bow.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Stuart Giffin, 609 S. Walnut St., will be introduced to the strains of "Some Enchanted Evening". Her party escort will be David James Birling. Miss Giffin, a graduate of Xavier High School, is a student at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh. For her presentation she will wear a debutante white gown of peau de soie with an empire waistline and off the shoulder neckline. The self-applique at the neckline is fashioned to form tiny sleeves and is repeated at the hemline of the skirt.

Xavier Graduate

Miss Gilling, a student at Stout State University, Menominee, is the daughter of the Earl Gilling, 1631 Carver Lane. She will be presented to the music of "Summer Place" and has chosen James Koehnke as her ball escort. The young Xavier High School graduate will be gown in a dress fashioned with an empire waist and modified A-line skirt. Imported Venice lace details the skirt and bodice.

A student at Prospect Hall,

Milwaukee, Miss Jack is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jack, 1423 W. Lorain Court. She was graduated in June from Xavier High School. Her party escort will be Gene S. Whittemore. To be introduced to the music of "Stay as Sweet as You Are", Miss Jack will wear a gown of satepeau with an empire waistline and A-line skirt. Jewels and sequins form a motif at the waistline and are repeated at the hemline.

Lace, Pearls

Miss Krampien, daughter of Mrs. Nathan E. Burstein, 510 River Road, and George V. Krampien, 1737 Reid Drive, will be presented by Mr. Burstein and escorted by William True. A student at Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind., the Appleton High School graduate will be presented to the music of "Everything's Coming Up Roses". Her silk-faced peau de soie ball gown has a fitted bodice and softly shaped skirt, with motifs of Alencon lace embroidered with seed pearls on the bodice, waist and skirt.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Karl Kuehn, 313 Elmore St., Kaukauna, was a June graduate of Kaukauna High School and attends Carroll College, Waukesha. To be presented to the melody of "Tonight", Miss Kuehn will be escorted by Erik DeBruin. Her dress of silk and worsted is designed with elegant simplicity, with an empire bodice topped a gentle A-line skirt.

Neenah High

"The Shadow of Your Smile" is the song chosen by the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Manley, 579 E. Wisconsin Avenue, Neenah, for her Coronet Ball presentation. The Neenah High School graduate, now a student at Mary Mount College of Virginia, Arlington, Va., will be escorted by Joseph Sensenbrenner Jr. Her ball gown is a crepe chiara, with an empire bodice and jewel neckline.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Philip Roy McCanna, 1127 E. Grant St., will be escorted at the ball by James Grmeier. "Satin Doll" is the song to which she will make her bow. A graduate of Xavier High and a student at Trinity College, Washington, D. C., she will be gowned in a sheath of silk crepe, with a cowl neckline and short sleeves.

Tiers of Lace

Miss Swaim, daughter of the Lloyd Swaims, 1082 Reed St., Neenah, is a student at St. Mary of the Woods College, Terre Haute, Ind. A Neenah High graduate, she will be escorted by Michael Dean Howlett. Her gown features tiers of lace ruffles cascading from a sleeveless empire crepe bodice with a bow-trimmed white velvet belt. Her song is "Somewhere My Love".

Miss Theiss will be introduced to the theme song from "Moulin Rouge". The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Theiss, 301 W. Prospect Ave., was graduated from Xavier High School. Her ball escort will be Thomas Kosiorek. Her gown is an embossed brocade with an oval neckline and bell skirt.

Studies in East

Also a student at Mary Mount College in Virginia, Miss Toal will be escorted at the ball by Peter Knutson. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Patrick Toal, 115 N. Green Bay Road, has chosen the song "More" for her presentation. Her brocade gown is styled with a scoop neckline and princess line skirt with back fullness. Bows grace the back of the neckline and the hemline of the skirt.

Miss Trass, a graduate of Kemper Hall, Kenosha, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Trass Jr., 749 Congress Place, Neenah. A student at Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, New York, she will be escorted by Read McNamara of New Milford, Conn. "Hello, Dolly" is the song she has chosen for her presentation. Her silk gown is a modified tent design with a square neckline in front and a back neckline set off by a row of rhinestone buttons.

After their presentations, the 12 young women will follow the tradition of the first dance with their sponsors. Then the ribbon enclosing the presentation area will be cut and the young women claimed by their escorts.

There are no post-ball parties planned this season.

Mrs. Raymond N. LeVe is Coronet Ball chairman and Mrs. Thomas Frawley, co-chairman.

Swedish Glogg Drink Warms Yuletide Guests

Glogg is Sweden's version of the wassail bowl. Each year, come Christmas-time, Swedes, wherever they may be, brew the simmering Scandinavian toddy and lift steaming mugs in toasts to health and good fellowship.

The piquant concoction is a flaming blend of wine, spices, almonds and raisins, liberally fortified with an alcoholic ingredient. The result is a bracing cup which is considered quite efficient in relieving the chill of icy winter weather, and whatever the climate, a drink calculated to bring a glow to the cheek.

Recipe Varies

The recipe for glogg can vary. Just as many Americans are quite finicky about their personal formulas for the "perfect" martini, so Swedes have similar quirks in being able to mix the "foolproof" glogg. While such experimentation can lead to a complete spectrum of tastes, generally it is agreed that the chill-killing efficacy of the drink remains undiminished.

Glogg is pronounced 'glugg' — or if you prefer phonetics: 'gleugg'. Glogg can be traced through the Viking era; but any good Swede will tell you his stormy ancestors quaffed a thin, rather lack-lustre liquid called "mjod" (mead) — far different than zesty glogg.

Steaming Drinks

Actually the name "glogg" derives from the word "glodga" which means "to make glowing or red-hot." The word glod means "burning coals, embers."

In pre-automotive Sweden where trips, to and from church, or between villages, or between homes, were made by open sleigh in frigid weather, travellers were offered steaming drinks — usually hot, spiced wine — for reheating purposes. Travel methods have long since changed, but custom has not. As soon as Sweden's long, hard winters begin to set in, thoughts turn to glogg. During the Christmas season when families and friends exchange visits it is traditional to serve glogg.

Swedish Glogg

- 1 bottle Swedish aquavit, vodka, gin or brandy
- 2 bottles of burgundy
- 3/4 cup raisins
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon cardamon seeds
- 1/2 tablespoon whole cloves
- 3 cinnamon sticks
- 1 lemon peel slice
- almonds

Pour half the bottle of liquor and all of the burgundy into large sauce pan or a copper kettle. Add raisins and sugar. Tie spices in cheesecloth and drop into wine mixture. Cover pan, bring very slowly to boiling point and let simmer for 30 minutes. (Don't taste!) Then add remaining part of liquor.

Remove from heat and bring in the brew to your guests. Set a match to the glogg and serve it "ignited." Use a long handle ladle and serve in egg nog cups or punch glasses. A good way to keep the second serving hot is to use a chafing dish as a serving bowl. For "ritual effect" turn out the lights in room before igniting glogg!

Appleton — An Isolated City?

With the year-end rapidly approaching, Appleton's city administration should consider a New Year's resolution which would recognize it is penny-wise and pound-foolish for this growing metropolitan center not to be represented at certain national conventions and seminars.

Serious question must be raised as to how much economy is being effected when Appleton shuns other parts of the United States on the premise it can solve mounting problems of urbanization while remaining in a self-imposed vacuum.

It was alarming, indeed, when the word was let out at the recent Congress of American Cities at Las Vegas that Appleton would probably be dropped from the membership roster of the more than 14,500 municipalities belonging to the National League of Cities, parent organization of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities.

The NLC is the most effective power structure for large and small cities throughout the nation to be heard in the halls of the U.S. Congress and state legislatures. It seems imperative that Appleton and the other Fox Cities make it a point to be active participants in deliberations on proposed legislation to help cities cope with urban problems without piling more of a burden on the local property owner.

The Congress of Cities, sponsored by the NLC, is an annual affair attended by 3,700 mayors and council members from 50 states who discuss common problems, argue pertinent views, participate in informational exchanges, review proposed national legislation for the ensuing year, hear experts on government, and have an opportunity to meet with representatives of federal agencies from Washington on an informal consultation basis.

Unfortunately, Appleton was not represented at this year's Congress and missed out on updated information on federal aid programs affecting this area, along with getting across-the-table word on the status of the city's $1.3 million water grant application, and the new post office project announced about a month ago.

Ironically, other Wisconsin cities in the process of putting into action downtown rejuvenation projects, urban renewal and major public works programs, attended the Congress of Cities and returned to their home communities much more versed on the varied problems of urbanization and solutions for them.

Council President Raymond Puddy, who headed Fond du Lac's four-man delegation to the Congress, realized as did Mayor Joseph R. Browne of Sheboygan, that "Tremendous problems face municipalities throughout the nation ... these conventions are really helpful."

"Public officials should be sent to different communities periodically for conferences and seminars ... to acquire knowledge and background to find out what others are doing," Puddy declared, "You can't get this by staying home."

Appleton government — now a $15 million a year business — cannot afford isolationism.

Who Bugged Whom?

There is an interesting argument going on between Senator Robert Kennedy and the director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, J. Edgar Hoover. While it is mostly of the you-did-it-didn't variety, it does emphasize something encouraging.

It's a little difficult to figure out exactly how the dispute started. Congressman H. R. Gross has been trying to find out how various bugging devices used by the F.B.I. were authorized. He wrote to Mr. Hoover, saying that Senator Kennedy had implied that he didn't so authorize them when he was Attorney General.

But Mr. Hoover wrote back and stated flatly that "Mr. Kennedy, during his term of office, exhibited great interest in pursuing such matters, and while in different metropolitan areas, not only listened to the results of microphone surveillances, but raised questions relative to obtaining better equipment. . . . He was briefed frequently by an F.B.I. official regarding such matters."

Bill of Rights 175 Years Old

Just 175 years ago today, Dec. 15, 1791, the State of Virginia ratified the first 10 amendments to the United States Constitution. The ratification made what has become historically known as our Bill of Rights effective as part of the basic law of the nation. Two other amendments were ratified shortly thereafter and since that time other amendments have been added to bring the present total to 25.

The Bill of Rights followed adoption of the Constitution by three years. It resulted from an insistence by citizens that their rights be spelled out either by a positive statement that humans have certain rights which are unalterable or by a negative statement that would prevent government from drafting laws which would abridge those rights. Many felt that the Constitution, as submitted to the states, contained insufficient provisions relating to habeas corpus, bills of attainder, ex post facto laws, and treason. This omission was defended on grounds that the Constitution contained no grant of power to Congress to legislate on any of the subjects with which the Bill of Rights would deal. Included among these were such basic civil liberties as freedom of speech, assembly, petition, press and religion.

The framers of the Constitution failed to appreciate the scope of the "necessary and proper clause" which they had adopted. Historian Charles Warren in his The Making of the Constitution remarks, "They failed to see that while possibly there were no specific powers vested in Congress to infringe the freedom of speech or of the press, or to impose unreasonable search and seizure without search warrant, legislation which could so operate might be enacted in the necessary and proper execution of one of the specific powers."

Looking Backward
Pioneers Gather for Festival

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Dec. 22, 1866.

There was quite a handsome turnout of early pioneers of Appleton on Wednesday evening.

Although the College Chapel was too cold for comfort, Dr. A. B. Randall warmed up the audience by telling hits, incidents and early reminiscences of the early settlement of our Woodland Home.

The Rev. Samuel Fellows made a few felicitous remarks, after which quite a happy company gathered round the festive board at "Hotel de Phinney," where many hours were pleasantly whiled away.

The feast was one of the best we have sat down to for many a year.

Thursday, Dec. 11, 1941.

Congress voted to declare war on Nazi Germany and Italy that day in swift response to the President's appeal for "rapid and united effort" against the forces of barbarism. The move, unanimous in both houses of Congress, was an acceptance of the challenge of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, partners of Japan, who had declared war on the United States.

It was announced that Japan had landed troops on the Philippines and that one of its war planes had been shot down in Bugulo, indicating that the enemy was flying over Luzon.

Hoover, Kennedy Not Necessarily In Error Over Wire Tapping Dispute

BY JOSEPH KRAFT
WASHINGTON — At first glance, the argument between J. Edgar Hoover and Robert Kennedy on wire tapping looks like a direct confrontation where somebody has to be lying.

of the defense of national security or the fight against crime.

Public permissiveness finds expression in a legal loophole. Wire tapping is banned by Section 605 of the Communications Act of 1934. In the Nardone case of 1937, the Supreme Court laid down the doctrine that evidence obtained by federal officials through wire taps could not be used in federal courts.

But in the Olmstead case of 1928, and repeatedly since then, the Supreme Court has refused to bring electronic eavesdropping under the Fourth Amendment ban against "unreasonable search and seizure." And this reluctance has led to the doctrine, laid down by Atty. Gen. Robert Jackson in 1941, that official use of electronic devices is all right so long as the information obtained is not made public, in court or anywhere else.

BUREAUCRATIC SELF-DECEPTION

Under the Jackson doctrine there has grown up an extraordinary practice of bureaucratic self-deception. Police authorities use electronic bugging devices on a massive scale, confident that if criminals are apprehended, there will be general public approval as well as commendation from superior political officials. But they keep the practice covert, so as not to embarrass political superiors.

In the case of Hoover and Sen. Kennedy that tradition seems to have been deepened by a competitive zeal growing out of Kennedy's long concern with the problem of organized crime. Apparently, the Federal Bureau of Investigation had not in 1961 penetrated the strongholds of organized crime as it had long since penetrated the Communist Party. When pressure for action on organized crime developed, the bureau evidently resorted to eavesdropping.

That would explain why there was an increase in bugging by the FBI after Kennedy became attorney general in 1961. It would, also, explain why Hoover is so confident that Kennedy had to know the bugging was being done.

But just as the FBI was especially eager to succeed with the new attorney general back in 1961, so it was terribly keen not to embarrass him with any blatant unpleasantness. Thus the liaison man between the bureau and the attorney general was an agent very friendly to Kennedy and prone to spare him trouble about such dirty business as wire tapping.

WIRE TAPS HUMAN INFORMERS

Apparently the direct transcripts of the wire taps were held within the bureau itself. Reports of the transcripts sent to the Justice Department often referred to electronic devices in ways that made them seem like informers.

As one former Justice department official put it recently: "The FBI did everything it could to make it seem that the wire taps were informers. They almost put arms and legs and names on the bugs."

That kind of practice would explain why Kennedy is so confident in declaring that he never authorized any further bugging. It explains why the evidence so far adduced to demonstrate Kennedy's knowledge of bugging practices is so small in volume and so indirect.

In sum, both parties to the so-called confrontation may, in one sense, be right — Hoover in believing that he had authority for more bugging; Kennedy in believing that he had given no such authority.

But it is also clear that in another sense, they were wrong. Both seem to have been insufficiently sensitive to the issue of private rights. That is not exactly a capital crime, and it seems to me that each man might well acknowledge that he may have been mistaken in the past.

Kraft

But my impression is of a far more ambiguous condition, generated by an unresolved conflict in public opinion, and given increase by legal inconsistencies, official traditions of self-deception, and personal antipathies.

The public, as a whole, has no clear attitude on the issue of electronic eavesdropping. While a small minority may feel intensely that the use of bugs is a serious violation of personal liberty, most people do not object strongly to the use of such devices as a part

Women's Legs Decide If Short Skirts Should Receive Short Shrift

CHICAGO (AP) — Women who are debating on how short to wear their skirts can take it from Janina, a Chicago fashion designer, that restrictions in fashion are dictated by good looks.

"The shape of a woman's legs — not her age — determines the length of her skirt," she said.

"A woman over 30 has reached her most exciting peak and can give her personality its fullest expression through her clothes."

Wisconsin Report
Conduct Guidelines For Legislators Apt To Emerge Next Year

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — Recent events have suggested that the legislature at long last may be willing to recognize the increasingly evident problem of conflicts of interest in law-making as well as in other aspects of governmental operations.

They are farmers, insurance men, merchants, lawyers, factory workers, local government officials, pensioners. So broad is the jurisdiction of state government, so complex and sweeping is the reach of state law, that there is probably not a single man now sitting in either house who has not at some time privately realized that he was casting his vote on a bill that had a direct effect on his own private interests. Even the elderly man who has retired from private employment or business cannot escape such conflicts. When any legislator over the age of 65, as one example, voted for the property tax relief law for the elderly, he was voting in his own interest, however remote.

MORE DIRECT

The realist recognizes that such conflicts cannot be resolved. The problem is one of more direct questions of propriety and taste, the lawyer with private clients who are involved in legislation, the business or professional man voting on bills affecting his private affairs, or those of his employer or his customers.

Mostly they are obvious enough. Often the press is vigilant and communicates the more visible examples. But the volume of legislation is immense. Many bills of intense concern to private interests are technical and tend to be ignored out of the physical impossibility of publicizing the hundreds of separate propositions. The basic work of legislation is carried out in a couple of dozen committees, often out of sight and sound.

Probably the best that can be expected is a kind of court of legislative conduct commanded by the chosen leaders of the parties who have an awareness of their responsibilities and a concern for the good name of their parties as institutions. The time appears to be opportune, moreover, with the gradual acceptance of legislative office as one worthy of dignified salary and emoluments. If the people of Wisconsin are willing to pay these men $8,400 a year and give them other prerequisites their predecessors never enjoyed, the legislature probably owes to them a reform of the free-wheeling traditions of other times.

Wyngaard

While it would be foolhardy to make a positive forecast, the attitudes of the leading members of the Legislative Council indicate that there will be an effort to set up some reasonable guidelines for the conduct of senators and assemblymen in relation to their private activities and interests.

As it now appears, there is likely to be proposed a joint committee of the leadership of both parties in both houses that would act as a kind of mentor and judge for the protection of the integrity and repute of the institution as a whole. It is obviously difficult to write a specific set of rules. But there is now also being discussed the possibility of reasonably broad criteria to govern the public activities of legislators as they may involve their private concerns, possibly as a series of amendments to the rules of both legislative houses.

THE PROBLEM EXISTS

That there are conflicts of interest in everyday activities in the legislature is visible to the most casual observer. That it is difficult to write a code of conduct in detail, however, becomes apparent only after more thorough reflection.

If the problem of conflicts is literally construed and if all such conflicts are proposed to be outlawed, it would probably be impossible to organize a representative legislature. The two houses would consist entirely of old men, without property, without outside earnings, devoted wholly to their public offices.

The legislature now consists of men who are part-time public officers. Most of them earn as much, or more, in

Strictly Personal
Thoughts at Large Offered by Harris

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS
The word "freedom" should be, but rarely is, divided into its two components of "inner freedom" and "outer freedom"; this might clarify the point that without the inner freedom to think, outer freedom is meaningless; and without the outer freedom to act on our judgments, inner freedom is irrelevant.

It is hard not to agree with Prof. John J. O'Mara of the Safety Research Foundation, when he says: "It is ironic that present public policy is increasing the highway slaughter by encouraging more and more highway travel while at the same time it is throwing away a railroad transportation system which is at least 10 times safer than highway transportation."

Many mistakenly believe that "ideas are dangerous," but they are not; only feelings are dangerous, and most dangerous of all are precisely those feelings which masquerade as "ideas."

The mediocre man who is bored with his environment seeks to find other diversions and only sinks further into boredom; the extraordinary man who is bored seeks to alter his environment, and succeeds in providing himself and others with social and cultural advance.

The only time for a father to be a "pal" to his son is before the boy is old enough to find pals elsewhere: after that, it is too late.

Harris

What we must recognize if we are to survive the 20th Century is that there can no longer be military "solutions" to large-scale conflicts, but only political settlements reached through negotiations; for war is no longer, as Clausewitz said, "an extension of politics by other means," but has become a self-liquidating process for both sides.

Today we hear little but thunder from the left and thunder from the right, all of it unaccompanied by any lightning to illuminate the way.

Outagamie Car Crashes Hurt Three Drivers

Car Leaves Road,
Rural New London
Youth Hospitalized

Ronald Thoma, 18, route 2, New London, hospitalized at New London Community Hospital early this morning, was one of three persons injured Wednesday and today in accidents on Outagamie County roads.

Details of the one-car accident in which Thoma was injured were not available from county police this morning. It was reported the car went through a guard rail, crossed a ditch and went into a field along Outagamie County Trunk D, a quarter mile north of F, near Bear Creek.

The accident was reported to police at 7:33 a.m. today. The nature of Thoma's injuries was not known.

Karen Otte, 18, 1825 N. Owaissa St., received a head injury when her car broke off a telephone pole about 8 a.m. today on State 96, just east of Appleton.

The girl, who was not hospitalized, told county police her car slid on a patch of ice on a curve and struck the pole. She was eastbound on 96. The front of the car received about $500 damage, police said.

Edith M. Weber, 103 Taylor St., Kaukauna, received two broken ribs, bumps and bruises when her car tipped over on State 55 near Greiner Road in the Town of Freedom Wednesday morning.

She was taken to Kaukauna Community Hospital. The woman said she was going north on 55 when she lost control of the car. Police said the right rear tire blew out. The 1969 auto was demolished.

U. S. Bombers Again Strike Near Hanoi

Thunderchief 50 miles southwest of Hanoi. The pilot was rescued. Two Navy jets were brought down by groundfire, the U.S. Command reported, and both pilots were listed as missing.

With these losses, the total of American planes reported lost in the air war against the Communist North reached 446. The Thunderchief was the seventh U.S. plane reported downed by a MIG, while U.S. fliers have reported shooting down at least 26 of the Communist jets and possibly two more.

As the tempo of the air war increased, there was a spurt also in ground fighting in South Vietnam.

Four Attacks
Vietnamese military headquarters reported four widely separated Viet Cong attacks in which defending government units were badly mauled. A headquarters spokesman acknowledged moderate to heavy casualties to the South Vietnamese forces in the four engagements.

U.S. B52 bombers struck twice today, both times unloading their bombs inside the Demilitarized Zone separating North and South Vietnam. The targets were infiltration routes used by the reorganized North Vietnamese 324B Division and bivouac and supply areas.

In other developments: — U.S. headquarters reported the strength of American forces in Vietnam rose to 368,000 men last week, an increase of 6,000 over the previous week. Most of the increase resulted from the arrival of the 199th Light Infantry Brigade.

— American and Vietnamese combat casualties increased last week over the preceding week while enemy losses dropped sharply. U.S. headquarters said 83 Americans were killed and 559 were wounded compared with 44 killed and 521 wounded the previous week. Vietnamese losses were 216 killed compared with 139 the preceding week, a Vietnamese spokesman said. The U.S. Command reported 589 of the enemy killed and 235 captured; the week before the report was 1,181 killed and 162 captured.

Revision Urged Of NATO Treaty

He encouraged to study and propose as wide a revision of the treaty as he deemed necessary in the light of new conditions which have developed since the original treaty was drafted in 1949.

Provide for Assembly
It would, for example, include provision for an Atlantic consultative assembly of legislators from both sides of the Atlantic. Such an organization already exists, but it has no status under the treaty.

Harmel cited various changes which have occurred in the political, economic, military and technological areas since 1949. He also cited the fact that under the treaty any member can withdraw after 1969. His move was obviously timed to have a recommendation from Brosio before that date.

Harmel seeks to promote greater political cohesion among the European members of NATO, and especially among the six members of the Common Market. He said the growing political and economic integration of Western Europe should be reflected within the NATO framework.

To Aid Germany
His proposal was also obviously aimed at encouraging further political integration of Western Europe as a channel for German energies and ambitions.

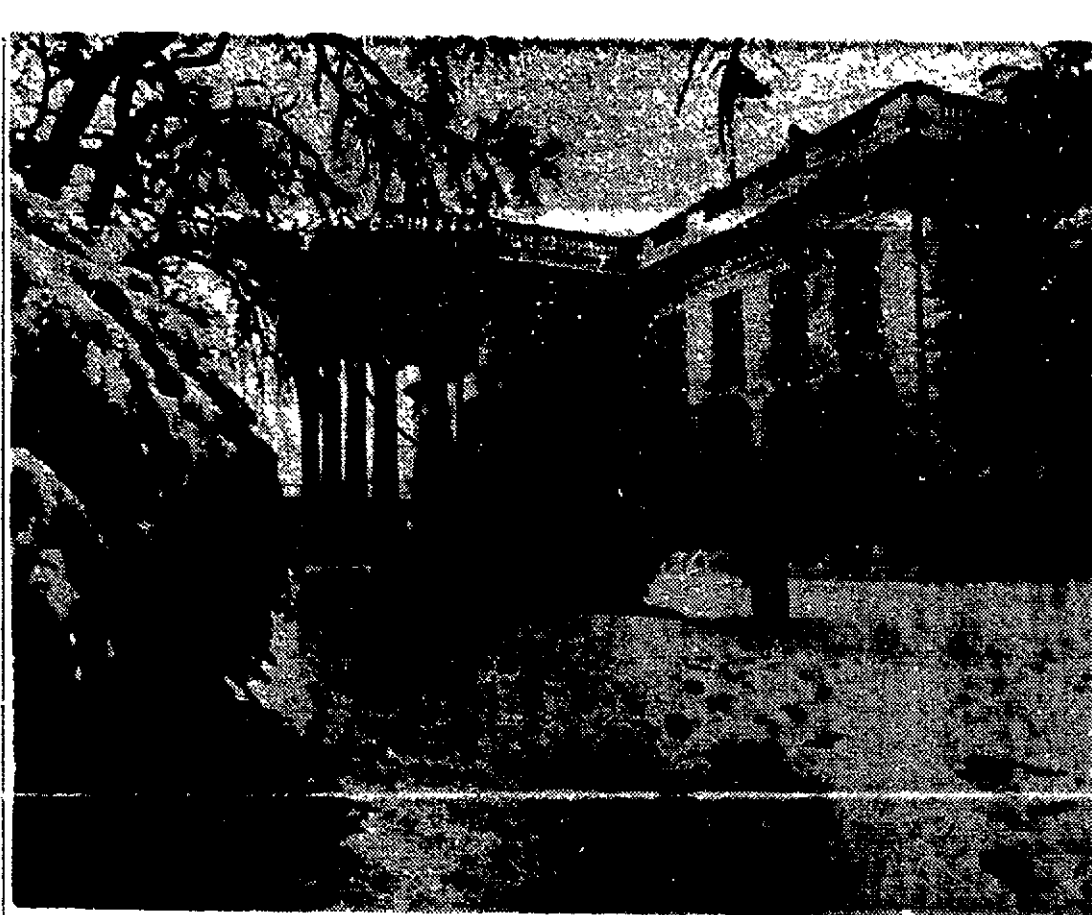

Another purpose was to inject new life into the NATO alliance, which has been sagging as a result of French President Charles de Gaulle's withdrawal of France from the military structure. The proposal fits in with de Gaulle's ideas for a greater and more independent European position in dealing with the United States.

Later today the council, meeting for probably the last time in Paris before NATO's political headquarters moves to Brussels, Belgium, was expected to discuss the Vietnam war and ways to ease tensions with the Soviet bloc.

Courts 'Only Redress' Against Book

Mrs. Kennedy and members of the Kennedy family during the flight from Dallas to Washington.

To support Mrs. Kennedy's contention that Manchester's book violated the terms of the agreement under which it was written, this and other episodes may be aired.

Mrs. Kennedy's statement said in part:

"Look magazine, Harper & Row, and Mr. William Manchester have repeatedly made clear that only legal action can alter their insistence upon publishing at this time — without regard to accepted standards of propriety and good faith, and in specific violation of my witnesses, my contract with Mr. Manchester and the dignity and privacy which my children and I have striven with difficulty to retain—a premature account of the events of November 1963 that is in part both tasteless and distorted.

'Emotional State'
"I am shocked that Mr. Manchester would exploit the emotional state in which I recounted my recollections to him early in 1964, and I am equally shocked that reputable publishers would take commercial advantage of his failure to keep his word. To the author and publishers, this book will be only another transient chapter in their work; but my children and I will have to live with it for the rest of our lives."

Manchester said, "I have confidence in the book. I think it will stand on its own. I ask only that people give it a chance."

Harper & Row said the firm had made four sets of substantial revisions to the book at the request of Mrs. Kennedy and other members of the family.

'No Obstacle'

After the first series, the firm said in a statement, the Kennedy's officially notified them "members of the family will place no obstacle in the way of publication."

The statement said, "Harper & Row has done its utmost to comply with the wishes of the Kennedy family and deeply regrets their present attitude."

A source close to Mrs. Kennedy, who called the dispute "this sad story," gave this version of the events that led up to it:

"Early in 1964 it became apparent to Mrs. Kennedy and other members of the family there would be sensational versions of the assassination. They were getting many queries.

"Mrs. Kennedy felt an obligation to speak to history. So, for the double reason of taste and history, it was determined to serve the national interest in one good accurate account."

The source said a "memorandum of understanding" spelled out the terms under which Manchester, selected by the family, would write the book. It was signed by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and William Manchester.

Approval Needed

It is dated March 26, 1964, and contains 11 clauses. The Kennedys consider two of these have immediate bearing on the case.

One reads, "The completed manuscript shall be reviewed by Mrs. John F. Kennedy and Robert F. Kennedy and the text shall not be published unless and until approved by them."

The other reads, "The book may not be published before Nov. 22, 1968, unless Mrs. Kennedy designates a prior date and shall be published at a date thereafter as shall be mutually agreeable to the contracting parties."

When Manchester's manuscript was finished, the source said, it was read by four persons, Richard Goodwin, special assistant to President Kennedy; Pamela Timmons, Mrs. Kennedy's secretary; John Siegenthaler, editor of The Nashville Tennessean, and Edwin O. Guthman of the Los Angeles Times who had been press secretary to Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Mrs. Kennedy and Sen. Kennedy have not read the book.

Advised Contents

Goodwin and Mrs. Timmons, the source continued, advised Mrs. Kennedy and Sen. Kennedy of the contents of certain passages.

The source said Mrs. Kennedy's request for an injunction to halt publication of the book was essentially based on two contentions:

1. That Mrs. Kennedy and Sen. Kennedy had not given their approval.

2. "It is invasion of privacy, the breach of a solemn agreement that things about her would not be published without her approval."

Smiling Walrus Dies in New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Olaf, the walrus that seemed to smile when visitors called him by name, is dead. Authorities at the New York Aquarium are not sure why.

They scheduled an autopsy to determine the cause of the 3,000-pound, 10-year-old's death. He was found in his tank Wednesday after putting away his usual meal of 150 pounds of clams and fish.

Dr. Ross F. Nigrelli, director of the aquarium, described Olaf as "priceless" and "full of personality."

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department announced Wednesday that Marine Lance Cpl. John C. Mercier, son of Mrs. Margaret J. Mercier, Racine, Wis., had been killed in action in the Vietnam war.

a formula strength in relation to numbers of drivers and highway mileage that is accepted by safety authorities.

He did not mention a top strength figure, but earlier studies have shown that the department should have at least 500 men to compare with some other states. Karns said that numbers of drivers and mileage in Wisconsin have increased so rapidly that his staff is actually less effective today than when it was established.

Karns spoke mournfully of the public lack of response to the law which now requires all autos to come equipped with seat belts.

Dozing Hobo Barely Misses Bulldozing

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — John Edwards fell asleep in a large trash bin and came within minutes of being buried alive by a bulldozer.

The bin, containing trash, boxes, garbage and the 47-year-old transient was dumped into a large truck. The contents were compressed under 45,000 pounds of pressure.

Four hours later, the truck dumped its load at the city dump. Workers heard groans and spotted Edwards' head protruding. A bulldozer was due 10 minutes later to bury the trash.

Edwards said, "I guess I deserved it. I had been drinking."

from death and injury, this is the best. But there has not yet been enough public reaction, in spite of all the time and money for promotion that we have spent," Karns said.

attempt to confiscate a roll of film.

"This is really the Teamsters," one of the attackers said.

After a brief pummeling, in which Quinn was kicked several times, they let us go.

Routine Meeting

The Teamsters revolt erupted Wednesday night in what had been scheduled as a routine business meeting for Teamsters Local 299, Hoffa's home local.

A motion from the floor brought the 3,000 members at the meeting shouting and voting almost unanimously in favor of a 24-hour work stoppage, starting at midnight.

The Supreme Court ruling that angered the truckers upheld a jury tampering conviction and eight-year prison sentence given Hoffa in Chattanooga, Tenn., in connection with his trial in Nashville, Tenn., on conspiracy charges.

Franco Wins Huge Vote of Confidence

MADRID (AP) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco emerged today from Spain's second national referendum in 30 years with smashing support for his government reorganization plans and new strength from which to negotiate Spain's future relations with the rest of Western Europe.

More than 17 million Spaniards—85 per cent of those eligible to vote — apparently said "si" in the nationwide vote Wednesday on Franco's program which may lead to a democratic monarchy for Spain.

Even Franco's staunchest supporters were amazed at the result. Although the government utilized press and propaganda facilities to the fullest to muster support and relentlessly muzzled opposition forces calling for a voters' boycott, the most optimistic prevailing prediction was a favorable response from 80 per cent of those voting. Instead 96 per cent of those voting voted yes.

needs for the available cash and added, "I can't look at the problem of a given area with tunnel vision."

With shared taxes shaping up as a major controversy in the 1967 Legislature, Maier was asked by newsmen if he expected definite action on his proposals. "Win, lose or 'draw, I know there's going to be action," vowed Maier.

Hold Down Taxes

Maier proposed that more state money be earmarked to hold down rising property taxes in cities. He suggested changes in the utility tax formula and new methods to share more money from the sales and income taxes with local governments.

Maier said Milwaukee had become a commuter city and "service center" for a metropolis with resulting high costs of gov-

N. Vietnamese Thought to be Avoiding Battles

DA NANG, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. officers in South Vietnam's 1st Corps area believe that Communist troops — so elusive in recent weeks — are purposely avoiding major battles to work on limited objectives during the winter rainy season.

For almost two months, Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops known to operate in the five northernmost provinces of South Vietnam have avoided large-scale clashes with Allied troops.

Instead, the Communists have resorted to guerrilla hit-and-run attacks, mostly at night. Frequently the raiders get away with only light casualties, and sometimes they suffer no losses.

ernment but without the money to meet the bills.

"The city has the highest taxes, but its people have the lowest incomes," Maier said. "This puts the burden on those least able to pay. In effect, the poor of the city are subsidizing the rich of the suburbs."
